The announcement of the early death of the Louisiana lottery is another tribute to the good work of the Fifty-first Congress which gave the gambling octopus its death blow by shutting its matter out of the mails.

JUDGE GORDON, of Philadelphia, in charging a jury in a case of alleged false arrest and imprisonment, took occasion to remark: "The right to arrest a citizen by any policeman without a warrant is one which it is well to define both for the benefit of police officers and the Commonwealth. A policeman has the right to arrest for an offence committed in his presence without a warrant, but he has no right to arrest any citizen without a warrant for any offence which he did not see committed."

DURING eleven months in 1890 we have imported $2,309,556 worth of cutlery; during the corresponding period in 1891 we imported only $918,707 worth. The difference measures the increased opportunities for employment to American cutlery makers. Perhaps it is true, as the English used to say, that "American cutlery won't cut," but it seems that the edges of American knives, under the McKinley bill, have been keen enough to cut pretty deeply into the profits of the Sheffield manufacturers. No wonder the "reformer" is unhappy.

The power of locomotives that are being constructed nowadays with proportionate increase of speed is certainly wonderful and shows that the possibilities of steam like those of electricity are but being developed. One of the new compound locomotives of the Baldwin Locomotive Works Sunday morning hauled the New York and Chicago Limited on Pennsylvania Railroad up the west slope of the Allegheny mountain unassisted. No single engine has before been equal to the task. The engine gained 19 minutes in the run between Pittsburgh and Altoona.

The Coal Trust and Its Victims.

Are the people of the State of Pennsylvania in earnest in supporting the great coal trust because they think that the people of New York will be the chief sufferers?

It is true that nearly all the people of New York will suffer from this conspiracy to raise the price of fuel. It is true that the beneficiary of the conspiracy will be the great Pennsylvania corporation that has monopolized the coal properties of the state. But it is also true that the coal consumers of Pennsylvania will suffer from the tyranny of the trust.

It is the Pennsylvania idea, however, that capitalists and corporations, especially of that state, are of the first importance, and that consumers are persons who ought willingly and cheerfully to contribute to the enrichment of the special favorites of the eleemosynary laws. From the most conspicuous to the humblest citizen a great majority of Pennsylvania assume this attitude. But when they say that New York will suffer and Pennsylvania will prosper, they forget that New York in this instance stands for all consumers of coal wherever they may dwell.

There are some people in Pennsylvania who have made many and successful fights against similar conspiracies. Fortunately one of these is Governor and another is Attorney-General of the State. Governor Pattison once took the initiative for the people, and it is to be hoped that he will not falter now. The idea that the state cannot interfere for the righting of a private wrong does not apply in this case. This combination is an assault upon the people, and the duty of the Governor is to protect both the people of his own state and those of other states who are assailed by lawless conspiracies existing in Pennsylvania.

As the York, Pa., Gazette says: "There are some things about which a conscientious magistrate has no personal choice." The enforcing of obedience to the Constitution of the state is one of them.—N. Y. World editorial, February 18th, 1892.

PARADE OF THE JR. O. U. A. M. AND P. O. S. OF A. SOCIETIES.

JR. O. U. A. M. IN NEW UNIFORMS

Excursions to Mt. Carmel and Shamokin—School Board Members Pass the Day With a Building Inspector.

The town was well filled with strangers yesterday who came to spend Washington's Birthday with friends here and witness the celebration of the day by parade, etc. The observance of the day was not as general as in past years. There was a lack of enthusiasm in many respects. The parade was comparatively small, the societies being limited and their ranks somewhat curtailed, yet the parade was a creditable one. The day was a glorious one, but the streets were very muddy and the patriotic spirit in many breasts took flight at the thought of a tramp through the slush. Many of those in line wore low rubber over shoes and along the whole route of the parade rubbers were left in the mud. Small boys who delight to figure among those in line behind a brass band kept track of the rubbers and picked them up as they went along, returning them to the owners. For this service they considered permission to march near the line of procession sufficient reward.

There was considerable delay in getting the line moving. The time announced for the start was 9:30, but it was near 11 o'clock before the marching order was given. The line moved up Main street from Cherry, and turned east into Oak street in the following order:

- Henry Bickleman, B. G. Hess, Marshals.
- Grant Cornet Band.
- Washington Camp, No. 112, P. O. S. of A.
- " " " " 206, " " " "
- " " " " 183, " " " "
- Shenandoah Commandery, No. 14, S. of A. Drum Corps.
- Major Jennings Council, No. 367, Jr. O. U. A. M.
- Co. A, Jr. O. U. A. M. Guards.

The line passed through Oak, Cherry, White, Centre, Emerick, Coal, Chestnut, Jardin and Main streets, taking in the principal sections of the streets, all of which were thronged with spectators. Many of the residences all along the line were elaborately decorated with flags and bunting.

The organizations in line presented a fine appearance. This was especially true with respect to the Jr. O. U. A. M. Guards. This organization appeared in new uniforms, which were displayed to excellent advantage. The company drilled along the route and provoked hearty applause. The uniform consists of light blue trousers, dark blue coat and vest, with regulation military trimmings, dark blue peaked caps, trimmed with red, white and blue braid and brass buttons and shield. It is very attractive.

After the parade everything seemed to settle down and the town had a very quiet aspect for the balance of the day. The number of people who went out of town more than counterbalanced those who visited it. Nearly a hundred went to Shamokin to attend the musical competition at the esteddfod, and in the afternoon the Jr. O. U. A. M. Guards, with a large number of friends, joined the Mahanoy City Guards of the same order in an excursion to Mt. Carmel, where a grand Jr. O. U. A. M. demonstration was held. Later in the afternoon a number of the Columbia H. & S. F. E. Co. members drove to Gilberton to witness the testing of the Clasp & Jones fire engine recently purchased by the fire company of that place.

DECLARED UNSAFE.

The White Street School Building to be Abandoned.

It is now determined that the White street school building will not be occupied again for some time, probably not until the opening of the 1892-93 school term, and Superintendent Freeman has appealed to the directors for permission to rent quarters for the accommodation of the pupils who are crowded out by the vacancy of the building.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Howard Murphy, of Philadelphia, a member of the State Board of Health, and who is an expert civil engineer, arrived in town in response to an invitation from the School Board. Arrangements were at once made by which Mr. Murphy was engaged to make a thorough inspection of the White street school building, ascertain the cause of its present condition, state what is necessary to be done to put it in good condition, and state if it would be safe to continue occupancy of the building for school purposes.

In company with members of the board and several citizens Mr. Murphy visited the building and spent about two hours in examining it inside and out. He declined to give any definite, or final, opinion until he is furnished with the measurements of the walls and other parts of the building, so that he may ascertain the weight of the structure and compare it with the support. He said, however, that the foundation and cellar walls of the building were not constructed properly and that they were evidently the cause of trouble. He also said that it may be necessary to remove the top story of the building, but this and other matters will depend upon the measurements, which are to be made by Surveyor S. A. Beddall, and which will be sent to Mr. Murphy. The latter returned to Philadelphia yesterday afternoon.

Superintendent Freeman asked Mr. Murphy if he considered it safe to allow children to attend school in the building. Mr. Murphy answered: "I believe this building may stand for a year and I would be willing to forfeit $50 for every month it will not stand during that period; but I would not allow my children to go in the building for $5,000. Brick buildings are not like frame structures. They collapse suddenly in a heap, without warning. When they once give signs of going it is impossible to say how long they will stand, or how soon they will drop."

It is now generally conceded that the condition of the building is not due to mine workings. The P. & R. C. & I. officials say the workings are not under the building, but south of it; and Mr. S. A. Beddall says he is confident that even if the workings are under the building the intermediate stratum is thick enough to protect the building. Mr. Murphy asked Mr. Beddall what he supposed the thickness of the stratum was and that gentleman replied, "About 250 or 300 feet," upon which Mr. Murphy said "that is thick enough, I should think."

Mr. Murphy will return here in about a week and it is expected he will be prepared to give a definite opinion of the building by that time.

SUNDAY SERMON IN THE M. E. CHURCH.

AN INTERESTING THEME VERY ABLY PRESENTED

AND LISTENED TO ATTENTIVELY.

Subject of the Discourse by Rev. Urban, of Germantown, in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. A. L. Urban, pastor of St. Stephens church, Germantown, preached a sermon of great beauty and power in the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday morning. His theme was the relation of the personal soul to its personal God: Ps. 63:1: "O God thou art my God." After calling attention to the circumstances under which the text was written he spoke of the universal existence of the God idea. Voltaire might reject the Jehovah of the bible, but he must have a God so he worshipped truth. France might dethrone God, but Reason must be enthroned in His place. However men may try to escape from it and however far they may wander from the right, like the shell which is potentially said to murmur the sounds of its watery home, when you get right close to their heart and listen to their secret aspirations they speak of God. Hence religion is not something which is imposed upon us from without but which grows upon us from within. It is natural. It belongs here like the stars which shine above us and the flowers which bloom at our feet. Men recognize this fact and act accordingly. It is this that gives sanction to law and yields the foundation of duty. No man anywhere claims that it is right to do wrong. Men may differ concerning just what may be right or wrong. But all men agree that whenever right has been ascertained it is the duty of all men to do it. And simply because of the personal elements that enter into our relation to it. The cry of the soul in its hour of sorest need is for a personal God—not theological definitions of God—nor philosophical substitutes for God—it is not satisfied until it is assured that infinite wisdom and omnipotent love become our wise and loving father. Nothing less than this can give the rest of soul for which we cry. However much inspiration there may be in the thought of my father's God—my mother's God—David's God, the soul yearns for David's experience for us. It illustrates the possibilities of all human experience. David's God may be our God, and his loving kindness may be to us, as it was to him in the wilderness, better than life. We may rest assured that if we are on God's side He is on our side. But, as the latter part of the Psalm shows, if we are against God, God is against us. The stars in their courses fight against the man that fights against God. Here is the ground of the christian's hope as he encounters the conflicts of life—and encounter them he must—but if God be for us who can be against us? Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall life, or death, invisible foes or natural forces? Our God holds them in the hollow of His hand. Shall things present or things to come? Our God is the God of eternity.

The God that rules on high,
 That all the earth surveys,
 That rides upon the stormy deep
 And calms the raging sea.

This awful God is ours,
 Our Father and our God,
 He will send down His heavenly powers
 To carry us above.

THE SHAMOKIN ESTEDDFOD.

Some Shenandoah Singers Made a Good Showing.

The Shenandoah Choral Union did not capture the principal prize at the Shamokin esteddfod yesterday, but its members brought home four prizes. The principal prize, $200, offered for the best rendition of "Worthy is the Lamb" was won by R. S. Roser's Mahanoy City choir. The $100 band prize was contested for by the Central and Lansford bands and the former won. The piece was "Gloria," from Mozart. The $50 prize offered for the best rendition of the male party piece, "Longing" was won by the Thomas B. Hughes party, of Shenandoah. The other competitions won by Shenandoah parties were: Quartette, "O Come Every One That Thirsteth," Messrs. T. B. Hughes and J. J. Price, Misses Edith Morgan and Ruth Williams. Tenor and bass duet, "For So Hath the Lord," $6, Thomas B. Hughes and J. J. Price. Tenor solo, "His Salvation is Nigh," $5, J. J. Price.

The Vendetta.

Will be produced at Ferguson's theatre this evening. The Brooklyn Eagle has the following to say: "It was a well pleased audience that left the Grand opera house at the conclusion of the performance last night. The production was 'The Vendetta,' and a more thrilling entertainment has not been given in Brooklyn this season. The scenes of the play are laid in France and the plot is good. The company is composed of sixteen persons and their efforts to give a good entertainment have certainly been crowned with success. W. A. Whitecar, the leading actor, carries his part well and shows ability of a high order. The company as a whole is well balanced and all the members did excellently at the performance last night. One of the important features of 'The Vendetta' however lies in the scenery. This was magnificent and the spectacular effects produced won hearty applause from the audience. The ship scenes in the fourth act were probably the finest ever seen in Brooklyn. The destruction of the prison walls, the Monte Carlo scene and the burning of Paris were also realistic and extraordinary in their magnificence."
