PROSPECT IN NEW YORK.

Ex-Senator Warner Miller, of New York, one of the closest political observers in the country, speaks in a very hopeful vein about the prospect for Republican success. He says: "New York state can be carried by the Republicans at the November election. There has been a tremendous reaction all over the state against the Democratic party as dominated and ordered about by David B. Hill. The exposures of Democratic purposes at Albany, taken in connection with the methods by which they obtained control of the upper branch of the Legislature, have disgusted large numbers of Democrats, who will follow Hill to the polls if necessary to defeat him. The best feature, however, of the Democratic domination and legislation has been to arouse Republicans to a pitch where they will do their utmost to carry the state, and will be able to effect perfect unification for that purpose, and to make an attack on the Democrats that will be irresistible. It is apparent at the present time that Hill has killed Cleveland as a Democratic Presidential nominee, but Cleveland's friends, by their anti early convention movement, have also killed Hill. He may secure the nomination, but he certainly will not secure the election. By the way, it is a most unfortunate spectacle for the state of New York to be presided over by a Governor whose only answer to the committee of business men of the metropolis who visited him to secure his influence to increase the appropriation for New York's exhibit at the World's Fair was to exclaim: "Rats!" It is ignominious that the state should be ruled by such a Chief Executive."

Some doleful people are going about the country saying that within the next ten years the United States will not produce enough breadstuffs and provisions to meet the demands of home consumption. They probably do not know that not half of the lands of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, have yet been surveyed.

AT KEITER'S.

much less settled upon. The surveyed lands in the United States amount today to 285,000,000 acres, the unsurveyed to 294,000,000. Substantially all the surveyed land is arable, and not more than half of it is now under cultivation. Of the unsurveyed land, at least half is arable. The production of the United States could therefore be, at the lowest calculation, three times as great as it is, so that even when we have 200,000,000 population we shall be able to supply ourselves with agricultural provisions and still send abroad three times as much as we are sending to-day. Despite the poor old croakers, there is a lot of fun to be had in this fine old country yet.

NO SUBTERFUGES.

The stupendous and unlawful "deal" can only be properly and effectually assailed by the state authorities and in the name of the state. It is a mockery and false pretense to say that a private litigant should institute legal proceedings against the "combine." A private person would not have the legal status, the wealth, nor the legal facilities for making an efficient contest. The state has a standing and priority in her tribunals that the citizen has not. Besides, the issue should not be embarrassed nor obscured by the injection of any private interests in the controversy. The state may well say and ought to say that it has no concern with the conflicting interests, ambitions, or rivalries of corporations, syndicates, or individuals. Its concern ought only to be to uphold the laws, enforce the Constitution, protect the rights of all the people, and to compel the corporations that hold the franchises of the Commonwealth to obey and conform to its fundamental law. There need be and should be no subterfuges nor false pretenses in the matter. If the state authorities do not act efficiently and the monopoly will be given immunity. There can be no shifting of responsibility. The executive authorities, as all the world can see, are either with the Constitution or with the monopoly. There is no middle ground and the people will not be deceived.—Harrisburg Patriot.

HUNTING FOR SCHOOL ROOMS.

THE SUPERINTENDENT SECURING ACCOMMODATIONS.

THE ADDITIONAL EXPENSE LARGE

Bids Being Made for All Available Halls in the Town—Large Number of Pupils Closed Out.

Superintendent Freeman is hustling about trying to secure halls and other places that will make suitable temporary school rooms for the accommodation of the pupils who attended the schools in the White street building. Thus far he has been quite successful and it is expected that accommodations will be provided for all within a few days. The abandonment of the White street building has deprived the School Board of six large school rooms. The teachers in these rooms were A. E. L. Leckie, Misses Lizzie Lessig, Carrie W. Faust, Maggie E. Cavanaugh, Mary H. Wasley and Carrie Smith. The pupils numbered about 300. Among the places applied for and offered for school purposes are the P. M. church hall, the M. E. church infant class room, the Presbyterian church chapel, Phoenix Fire Company's room and the hall in Franey's building occupied by the Salvation Army. Even should all these places be taken it is quite likely that more room will be required. Some of the places under consideration are hardly suitable for school purposes on account of the means of entrance and exit, but so many pupils are now shut out and the school rooms in other buildings are so crowded it will be necessary to put up with such inconveniences for a while at least.

A Leader.

It will cure Sick Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, and drive Malaria from the system. Satisfaction guaranteed with each bottle or the money will be refunded. Price only 50c. per bottle. Sold by C. H. Hagenbuch.

Another Railway Rumor.

A gang of P. & R. railroad navvies were put to work on the open piece of ground at the north end of Emerick street yesterday morning, and a report spread to the effect that the P. & R. company intended building a short branch line to connect its road with the Lehigh Valley at a point a little this side of the red bridge. A HERALD reporter found the gang tearing out an old foundation wall which was laid some time ago for an ice house to be used by a brewing company. The site was abandoned before the wall was completed, because the parties who were to have use of the building wanted it located nearer the freight depot. The foreman of the gang said he was instructed to tear out the wall so that the stones may be used at other places. When asked if the work was not a forerunner of a connecting track between the Reading and Lehigh roads he said he knew nothing of it, only what he heard outsiders say, but he did not think there was anything in the report.

Knight, an affable young gentleman from Shenandoah, who is generally well posted on current affairs, was in town yesterday, not exactly on business, nor to see the town, because he had often seen it before, but anyhow he got half an hour off in the afternoon to go out and smoke a cigar and I ran into him on Centre street.

Cancelling Machines.

Under the contract for one hundred cancelling and post-marking machines, which has been entered into by the Postmaster-General, the machines are to be furnished on the first of March. There are 128 first-class post offices, and the machines will probably be placed in 75 of them. They have an average rate of cancelling and post-marking of 30,000 pieces of miscellaneous mail matter per hour. An electrical machine, manufactured in New York, is soon to be put into several of the offices for experimental test. It is claimed that this last-named machine has developed a rate of 40,000 pieces per hour. The cancelling machines now in use are rented by the Government, the title of the machines remaining in the patents. The object of the Department in putting in these cancellers is not only to prevent all delays in post offices due to any accumulation of mail, no matter in what quantities it may be dropped, but also to enable the clerks who have hitherto done the hand-cancelling to devote themselves to other work.

THE WATER QUESTION ARGUED IN COURT.

ALL PARTIES TO THE SUIT REPRESENTED.

THE COURT TOOK ALL PAPERS

A Decision is Looked for at an Early Date—A Growing Sentiment That the Injunction Will be Sustained.

The much-talked-of injunction suit of the Shenandoah Water and Gas Company against the borough of Shenandoah has been argued at last. The suit was called up yesterday before a full Bench at Pottsville. All parties were ably represented by counsel and the arguments made were listened to attentively by all in the court room. The joint committee which has handled the water question in behalf of the borough was represented by Messrs. M. E. Doyle, T. J. Higgins and A. B. Lamb. Messrs. J. O. Roads, S. D. Hess, John Cather, Elmer Wasley and Thomas B. Ddall, Esq., represented the old company. D. O. Henning, J. W. Ryan and S. G. M. Hollister, Esqs., presented arguments in favor of the injunction and ex-Judge James Ryan and J. H. Pomeroy, Esq., presented the case for the joint committee. The court carefully noted all the points made and took all papers submitted upon conclusion of the arguments. The case is an important one and the decision will be awaited with interest by many others outside, of those directly interested in the case. Many people who heard the arguments are of the opinion that the injunction will be sustained. In fact some members of the joint committee have conceded that the new water works cannot be pushed ahead until a special election is held. This concession is an admission that the injunction will be sustained. Still these opinions and concessions do not alter the law and the people will be on the anxious bench until the decision in the case is announced.

Dr. Parkhurst Before the Grand Jury.

New York, Feb. 24.—Dr. Parkhurst who, in a recent address, charged the city officials with neglecting their official duties in the matter of suppressing crime, etc., has been before the grand jury, having been subpoenaed by the district attorney. What the reverend gentleman told the grand jury is a matter of surmise, as the session of that body was secret. It is believed, however, that he modified materially some of the accusations made against the mayor, district attorney and police officials.

Voice From the Third.

EDITOR HERALD:—Please allow me space in your paper under the head of "Is It True?" wherein it is asked if Lamb and Malone made a deal. If they did not, I believe Baird would have been elected in the Second ward, because it would take all the Republican workers in the town to save Lamb from defeat. Do you, as a Republican, believe it right for Lamb to go to the Second ward and make a fight for Council and forget the School Director in his own ward? I heard him say that he had a more important fight in the Second ward. Now, if the Council was more important in the Second ward than the School Director in the Third they might forget that they had any one running for School Director in the Second ward and only work for Council. Give us a straight Republican ticket next year. Why did not Baird run with Stout if the Stout men were all for the ticket? Keep quiet, pet Lamb.
THIRD WARD REPUBLICAN.

Why Not "In It"?

EDITOR HERALD:—An article communicated to the Republican a few days ago concerning the formation of an amateur base ball league sadly neglected to include our town as one of the number. For what reason I am unable to account. I therefore beg leave to ask Mr. S. S., the instigator of the movement, his object in omitting Shenandoah from the deal. I think we can compete with any of the towns enumerated, both in support and in material of a team. We are by no means in the rear. When it comes to ball playing we are "in it." Just give us a chance, Mr. S. S., to enter your proposed league. We will willingly appropriate the sum required for the entrance fee and place a pennant winning team in the field. N. J. S.

A Prize Winner.

EDITOR HERALD:—In the report of the Shamokin election a mistake was made in the omission of the name of a prize winner. Miss Lizzie Rees, of town, secured half the prize offered for the duet, "Let Music and Song." Miss Annie Wynne, of Mahanoy City, secured the other half. There were six competitors. E. BEVAN.

Ice-Harvesting.

Frank Leslie's Illustrated Weekly goes quite fully into the subject of harvesting the ice-crop of the Hudson river, in the issue of February 27th, devoting a full page of illustrations and a considerable reading space to it. The front page is also devoted to the picture of a race between an ice-yacht on the Hudson and the Empire State Express of the New York Central Railroad, the fastest train in the world. The picture is entitled "A Mile a Minute." A page is also devoted to illustrations of the famous French Ball recently held at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. There is the usual page of illustrations of leading foreign events, and altogether this is a wonderfully attractive publication. Price, ten cents. To be had at your newsdealer's.

Always keep the bottle handy. Do not place it out of sight. For it cures our little Aches. Who was coughing day and night. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.
