St. Louis Convention,

ONE VERY DRAMATIC INCIDENT.

Congressman Moses, of Georgia, Varies the Monotony of the Session.

If It is a Crime to Re. a Democrat, Then You Can Take Me Out and Hang Me Now"-A Cyclone of Groans and Hisses Followed This Outpurst-The Episode Mude Munifest the Final Determination of the People's Party to Form a Third Party and Nominate an Independent Presidential Candidate.

Sr. Louis, Feb. 24 .- "If it is a crime to be a Democrat, then you can take me out and hang me now." Thus, with quivering frame, distended eyes, upbited arm and clinched fist, Congressman Charles T. Moses, of the Fourth Georgia District, hurled defiance at the delegates to the Industrial Conference. A cyclone of groans and alsses followed.

"Hang me now," repeated Moses, in a voice that penetrated the din, and again there was a chorus of groans, in the midst of which, shaking with passion and excitement, the Georgia Congressman sank back into his seat.

In this exciting episode was made manifest the final determination of the delegates to declare in favor of the third party and an independent Presidential ticket. Moses request the party and an independent Presidential ticket. Moses reaoned the city at the head of four delegates from the Farmers' Alliance of his State, who had been designated to act by the State executive committee of the party. C. C. Post, the Alliance advocate, had proceeded him with the same number of delegates, who had been chosen by the different dis-terets. tricis.

Moses was avowedly in favor of framing a declaration of principles and sub-mitting them for approval to the Demo-gratic National Convention, opposing a third party ticket on the ground that it might result in the delivery of some of the Southern States to the Republicaus.

The committee on credentials gave a night and half a day to the contested delegation, and finally decided to seat three of the Post and two of the Moses delegates. It was on this proposition that the fight occurred.

Outside of this episods the day was practically wasted. All that has so far been accomplished in twenty-one hours could have been done by a well-regulated assemblage in one hour. Business was continually interrupted with songs and interrupted with songs and torytelling. There were twenty-two organizations represented by the 700 delegates when they gathered. Colonel L. L. Polk was made permanent chairman, after having once refused the gavel, and greeted with cries of "Our next President "

Miss Frances Williard was literally carried to the platform and given a royal reception. John W. Hayes was elected permanent secretary. Warwick, of Vir-ginia, a delegate from the Colored Men's Alliance, was elected assistant secretary, but not without a good deal of opposition from Georgia and Alabama dele gates, notwithstanding the conference had already informally declared in favor of no color line. It took nearly two hours for the delegates to get together and appoint their representatives on the various commit-tees, and when the list came to be read it was found that nearly a third of the envire convention had been made committeemen. During the afternoon session, Wilkins, of Ohio, submitted a resolution demand ing the passage of the bill for free and unlimited coinage of sliver. Willits of Georgia, amid great cheering, said nine-tenths of the great industrial and agri-cultural classes were in favor of free and was in the platform. In the end the resolution went on the table, and after 3en. Weaver's son had done a whistling and banjo act, and Mrs. Nicholls, of Chicago had rendered a song that told how the gold and silver in the cellars of the White House was going to be cleared out when the people got to Washington, the convention adjodrned until to-morrow morning.
