TWO STEAMSHIPS IN COLLISION.

Without Even a Cry of Warning Fifty-four Sink to Eternal Sleep.

The Loughbrow Collides With the Forest City, and the Latter Goes to the Bottom. Carrying With It All on Board Except the Captain-No Trace of the Wreck Can be Found After a Dillgent Search-Only Meagre Details of the Accident.

Loxpon, Feb. 27 .- A fearful disaster, involing the loss of fifty-four lives, has scenred in the North Sea, off the coast of Yorkshire, England.

The full details have not yet been re-

It appears from brief dispatches that the two British steamships, the Forest Queen and the Loughbrow, came into ollision near the promontory known as Flamborough Head, which rises, with the lighthouse that crowns it, to a height of 214 feet above the North Sea.

The collision appears to have come without the slightest warning. The two vessels crashed together, the bow of the Loughbrow cutting the Forest Queen in Fears That 100 Miles of Southern Pa-life Track Will be Submerged.

Salron, Col., Feb. 27 .- From present indications the desert lake here will be much larger than last year. At present the lake is about half a mile wide and, after running along the Southern Pacific track about two miles, extends off out

At this time last year there was not a drop of water visible, although there was a few inches below the surface of the sink. It was not until several months later that the floods occurred in the Gilla and Colorado rivers, caused by melting snows, and only in August that the water in Salton Sink began to attract attention. The snows in the mountains at present are heavier than for years, and, coming as the water will when they melt on the land already in large part saturated, a lake of unexampled extent will probably

Yestering a public trial was made of the new contact in the presence of a large num and members of the company and ordinate experts, among whom were dudge Henry A. Gildersleeve, the counsel for the company.

The party arrived at the works at noon By sending to J. M. Hillan's or C. J. Mcand preparations were immediately made for the firing tests. The cylinder to be tried represented as before the powder chamber of a five inch rifled gun Carthy's drug store, for a free sample bettle of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. It instantly cures colic pains and is free from and consisted of twelve steel segments three inches thick, covered with two inches of wire wrapping in thirty-one All the world loves a loyer, and all courses and lined with a tube half an inch thick.

The external diameter of the cylinder was a trifle under sixteen inches, and its length about two feet. Profiting by the experience of last summer. Mr. Brown had encased the cylinder in a cast steel jacket, both ends of which were closed with screw plugs, the uppor one of which was perforated by a vent one-eighth incl in diameter. Two crusher gauges were screwed into between the control of the control o the lower plug and a preliminary shot of one pound of coarse grained black cannon powder was fired to warm up the piece.

It exploded without report, but with a fizz like a colossal squib.

Two pounds and a half of powder were then placed in the tube, and Lieutenant Whistier ordered the crowd back while he adjusted the electric primer. A touch of the firing key was accompanied by a sound that resembled the sudden release of steam from a safety valve, and a jet of flame and smoke shot up into the air for thirty feet. The gauges registered a pressure of 35,200 pounds to the square inch. The next shot with two and three-quarter pounds of powder gave 42,337 pounds pressure.

Three pounds of powder gave 47,726 pounds, and three and one-fourth pounds of powder gave the enormous pressure of 52,850 pounds to the square inch. The highest pressure used in modern guos does not exceed 35,000 pounds.

All the experts agreed that the trial could not have been more successful, and all joined in admiring the perfection with which the segments of the cylinder had been assembled, the lines of juncture being invisible except in the strongest light.
