

MURDER AND SUICIDE

An Artist Kills His Wife and Then Himself.

DESPONDENCY WAS THE CAUSE.

One Death Caused By a Train, Probably Another By a Horse.

An Actor Kills Another in a Theatrical Boarding House in Boston in a Discussion Over Some Personal Matters—Lowell, Mass., Also Contributes a Case of Murder and Suicide—Edward G. Drew Kills His 17-year-old Wife.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—(Life) Murder and suicide is becoming the popular craze in Washington.

On Sunday night, Jan. 31 last, Edward Schneider, to all appearances, willfully and maliciously shot and killed his wife and her brother, Frank Hamlin, while they were on their way to church. The cause of the deed was that Mrs. Schneider refused to live with her husband on account of his bad conduct. His trial is set for to-morrow. Following this tragedy a saloon keeper named "Reddy" White, while intoxicated, shot his wife through the lungs, she dying from the wound.

About 1:15 p. m. yesterday Fernleigh L. Montague, an English artist, aged 57 years, and living at 518 Fourth street, northeast, shot and instantly killed his wife, Emula Montague, 51 years old. He then shot himself in the mouth, dying instantly. The cause of the deed cannot be definitely learned as the parties lived alone, but it is attributed to despondency and a desire on the part of them both to end the struggle for existence.

Meagre information of the history of Montague and his wife was obtained from Mr. Charles Moore, private secretary to Senator McMillan.

About a year ago the Senator bought a painting of Montague, not because of any particular excellence of the picture, but to add a struggling artist. Three or four weeks ago Montague asked permission to hang two of his paintings in the room of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia, of which Committee Senator McMillan is chairman. The request was granted and the paintings were inspected by a number of Senators, but they were evidently not fancied as neither was purchased. One painting was an English scene near the home of Wordsworth, and the other was a scene which was described as having the appearance of a snow storm on the fourth of July.

Mrs. Montague, the artist's wife came to the committee room one day last week to look after the paintings and she was asked to have them removed, as there was no likelihood of their being sold. This she did, saying at the time that her husband was not well.

Mr. Moore said she appeared to be very bright on the occasions she called, but her husband appeared morose and despondent and seemed to be in poor circumstances.

Another fatality occurred yesterday. P. Cullen, 14 years of age, living at 429 Maryland avenue, southwest, was run over and killed by engine 185 of the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad at C and Sixth streets, southwest. The engineer was John Diehl, the conductor of the train attached to the engine was Frank Holland.

What may prove to be a fatal accident occurred in Anacostia, a suburb of Washington. Sidney Riever, son of a prominent real estate man, while out horseback riding lost control of his horse and was thrown. Policemen Branson, while attempting to assist him, were kicked on the left temple by the animal, crushing his skull. He is in a very critical condition.

A TRAGEDY IN BOSTON.

Fayette Welch Murdered in a Theatrical Boarding House.

BOSTON, Mass., March 7.—About three o'clock in the morning, Fayette Welch, an actor, was shot and killed by Wm. F. Flannery, a variety performer, professionally known as Wm. J. Gould. The shooting occurred at a theatrical boarding house, 10 Dix place, where Welch occupied a room on the second floor, Flannery and his wife occupying rooms nearly opposite on the same floor. It is said that soon after Flannery and his wife returned from the theatre Saturday night, they and Welch had a discussion over some personal matters, during which Welch called Mrs. Flannery some bad names.

Flannery went to Welch's apartment, and failing to get a retraction, fired the fatal bullet just as Welch was approaching him in a threatening manner with hands uplifted.

Welch fell without a sign of life, Flannery at once retired to his room and sat down quietly. The police were on the scene in five minutes and placed Flannery under arrest. He acknowledged doing the deed, but said it was unintentional. His intention was to fire over Welch's head but he missed the mark by about an inch. He could not bear to have Welch abuse his wife in such a vile and scandalous manner. Welch was the larger man of the two, and was said to be ten years older than Flannery, who gave his age as 38. Flannery and his wife have been doing a sketch at the Gaiety and Bijou during the past week and were engaged in Boston for this week also.

Welch had not played for two weeks, his last appearance being at the World's Museum. Mrs. Flannery is a woman of about 21, with blonde hair and is very fascinating. Several theatrical people who were in the house at time of the shooting have been held as witnesses.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Supposed Murder and Attempt at Suicide in Lowell, Mass.

LOWELL, Mass., March 7.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the room of Edward G. Drew and wife, in Howe's lodging house, 24 Elliott street, was broken into after repeated attempts to talk with Drew. Mrs. Drew was found dead in bed, having been shot through the forehead, while her husband laid beside her with a bullet hole in his head. Drew was conscious, but professed lack of knowledge as to how his wife was shot. He told conflicting stories.

A 22-caliber Smith revolver was found on the bed, four chambers of which were empty. Drew claimed that there had been no trouble between himself and his wife. Neither of them had been seen before since Friday night.

Dr. Irish said that the woman had been dead several hours. It has been learned that two years ago, when she was 15 years old, Mrs. Drew, whose maiden name was Clara Bergeron, ran away and married Drew in Suncreek, N. H.

Her mother became crazed over the marriage and is now at the Wilton, N. H., town farm. Drew is about 25 years of age. It is reported to have been jealous of his wife and to have threatened her with a razor. Drew had until recently worked at Adams' box shop.

WAS IT MURDER?

Sounds of a Fight and a Man's Dead Body Found.

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 7.—The body of a man was found in Roselle yesterday morning some distance from the Lehigh Valley Railroad track. It is said that sounds of a fight were heard last night in a neighboring field, and there is a theory that the dead man was killed and afterwards placed on the track to be hit by a train. The face was badly battered as if with a blunt instrument, while both legs and one arm were broken. The latter injuries were caused doubtless by a train. A part of an axe handle was found in the man's hand, and the rest of the axe some distance from the body. Both fragments are at the morgue.

The dead man is about 40 years old, dressed like a mechanic, and from the odor on the clothing Morgue Keeper Jensen of this city thinks he was employed at the fertilizer works at Carteret. The county physician will investigate the case. Nothing was found on the body to indicate who the man was, except a letter apparently written in Holman, and which has not yet been translated.

PETER INTENDED TO DO IT.

Rob Fitzsimmons Says That Maher Was Very Despondent.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 7.—Rob Fitzsimmons, the puglist, who frustrated Peter Maher in his attempt at suicide by leaping from a swiftly moving train on which they were both passengers, said Maher had been very despondent ever since his defeat.

In a conversation with two gentlemen, a few hours previous to his attempt on his life, Maher stated that it was his intention to end his life as soon as possible. His listeners tried to cheer him up by stating that the fight he had made against Fitzsimmons was nothing to his discredit, but, on the contrary, was a very game one. Their efforts, however, were unavailing, as Maher's desperate attempt at suicide shortly afterwards indicated.

PUT OUT OF THE BUILDING.

The Rev. Mr. Conway Interrupted at Yonkers.

YONKERS, N. Y., March 7.—The Rev. Mr. Conway, while attempting to preach last night in this city, was dragged from the platform by the police and put out of the building. The police came to the hall at the request of E. O. Carpenter, who asserted that Conway was about to make a speech that would cause trouble.

When Carpenter ordered Conway to stop he refused, and Roundman Woodruff and two officers then caught hold of Conway, who made a desperate struggle. Much excitement prevailed, and benches and chairs were overturned by the spectators in rushing for the door. When the preacher had been ejected the lights in the hall were put out.

MAYOR HONEY'S DEMAND.

Newport's Savings Bank Sued for $150,000.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 7.—The present municipal government seems bound to enliven Newport's winter dullness. The announcement has been made that Mayor Honey had, in the name of the city, brought suit against the Savings Bank of Newport for the sum of $150,000 for breach of contract in refusing to give up $21,000 of the city's sinking fund held by the bank, which was to have been invested in the new city bonds.

It appears that while the first demand met with a refusal to pay except upon two weeks' notice, no further demand had been made, not even after the expiration of the time of notice, hence the surprise at the turn of affairs.

Slit at the Altar.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 7.—Jennie Lambert, a highly respected and beautiful young woman, died yesterday at her home in Mill Creek from the effects of poison taken purposely. She was to have married Charles Copley last week. The guests arrived, but the bridegroom sent a note saying that he loved another and had fled to escape marriage. Miss Lambert fainted and remained in a delirious condition until Friday night. Then she found some poison and swallowed it.

Murdered in a Dive.

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—William Bernard, a fairly well dressed stranger from Chicago, was murdered in Cuddy Mack's variety dive, 1,015 North Broadway, in the presence of forty people. Three shots were fired, killing Bernard instantly. Whereupon his body was dragged out of the way and the dancing was resumed. The police are looking for the proprietor and John Tracks.

$25,000 for Sullivan and Mitchell.

NEW ORLEANS, March 7.—The Olympic Club agreed yesterday to offer a purse of $25,000 for a fight between John L. Sullivan and Charley Mitchell, to come off the first week in October. The articles for the fight were drawn up last night and forwarded at once to the two men, Sullivan in St. Paul and Mitchell in St. Louis.

Dynamite Blew Their Boat to Pieces.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 7.—Charles A. Egle of Ashville, and Nathan E. Clurey of Baltimore, were drowned while fishing with dynamite in the river at Newport last night. Both men were drinking, and a premature explosion blew their boat to pieces.

Secretary Blaine Improving.

SHE SEEKS REVENGE

Mrs. Minnie Platt Shoots at Her Husband.

THEY MET ON THE STREET.

A Friend of Platt's Snatched the Revolver from Her Hand.

She is Arrested and Locked Up in Brooklyn—Although Declared Not Guilty by the Jury in the Divorce Suit, She Says Her Husband Had Hounded Her Until She Could Stand It No Longer.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 7.—Mrs. Minnie L. Platt, who recently figured as defendant in the sensational divorce suit in which Martin B. Waller, son of ex-Gov. Waller of Connecticut, was named as co-respondent, spent last night in a cell in Brooklyn. She is charged with having attempted to shoot her husband, William H. Platt, on Livingston street, last evening.

Mrs. Platt, who is a young and very attractive woman, left her apartments at No. 292 Livingston street. She told Mrs. Rodman, with whom she boarded, that she was going to the postoffice and would return in a few minutes to meet her sister, whom she expected from Long Island. Ten minutes later Mrs. Platt returned in an apparently excited condition. Again she left telling Mrs. Rodman to detain her sister if she called during her absence.

What followed is a mystery on which both Mrs. Platt and her husband throw little light. Five minutes later Mrs. Platt was seen some distance from her house engaged in a struggle with two men.

"Don't do that! Don't do that!" shouted one of the men.

Neighbors who heard the loud talk raised their windows. Just then an officer appeared and one of the men asked him to arrest the woman. He said he was her husband and that she had attempted to shoot him.

His companion, John Reid of No. 658 Herkimer street, said the woman had a revolver, which he had tried to take from her. The party went to the Adams street station, where Captain Platt made a charge against his wife, and she was locked up. Reid, who was with him, corroborated what he had said. The two men then disappeared.

The reporter saw Mrs. Platt in her cell in Adams street. She was sitting in a chair by the cell door, attired in street costume, just as when arrested. Her hat was still on and her long cloak was wrapped about her. One of her hands was wrapped up in a handkerchief. Her hand had evidently been hurt in the struggle. At first she refused to speak about the case. She said: "I prefer that my husband should do all the talking."

After a while she went on to say: "The fact of the matter is that my husband has haunted and hounded me continually. Detectives and his friends have shadowed me day and night. I could not go out on the slightest errand without being followed. I wish to deny emphatically that I attempted to shoot my husband, nor did I take a revolver out of my pocket."

"Mr. Reid did not take one from me; he did not know that I had one, and didn't see it. Mr. Reid is a Masonic friend of my husband, and he has aided him in watching my movements. I had just left my house when I saw Mr. Platt and Mr. Reid. I did not speak to them, and did not interfere with them in any way. Now I've said all I intend to say about the affair."

"How did you get the revolver?"

"I bought it," she said, "a few days ago because I was going to the country."

Mrs. Rodman, the lady with whom Mrs. Platt boarded said: "Mrs. Platt and her sister came to my house five weeks ago. Their conduct has been most lady-like and exemplary. They had no visitors and kept to their rooms. This evening Mrs. Platt went out to post some letters."

"She returned, expecting that her sister had arrived. She went out a second time, but did not return. A little while ago an officer notified me of her arrest. Mrs. Platt's sister arrived shortly after she left the second time. For several days past Mrs. Platt has been acting as if mentally troubled. She complained that she had not received alimony due her on the first of the month."

Last summer Captain Platt began suit for an absolute divorce from his wife in the City Court, Brooklyn. He accused her of continued intimacy with Martin B. Waller, son of ex-Gov. Thos. M. Waller of New London, Conn. Gov. Waller did his utmost to prevent the case from becoming public.

At the trial which came off before Judge Osborne, the jury decided that Mrs. Platt was not guilty.

WILHELM WILL NOT GO.

To Berlin to Hear the Debates on the School Bill.

BERLIN, March 7.—Prince Bismarck will not come to Berlin to hear the debates on the school bill in the Prussian House of Lords, as has been announced during the last week by several conservative dailies. Not only has his physician forbidden him all active participation in politics, but the Prince has no desire to pass any length of the time in Berlin.

"I have not the least desire," he said to a friend in Friedrichsruh last week, "to return to the place where I experienced that 20th of March, 1879."

He has made a similar declaration to a newspaper correspondent from Kiel, who called on him recently. The wishes of his wife, who is still ailing, are that he should remain at home, and he has promised her, he says, to respect them.

Run Off With the Deposits.

PITTSBURGH, March 7.—President Hugo Kahl of the Slaviansky bank at Mount Pleasant has left town with about $10,000, the savings of the foreign element of that place. The Hun and Slav threaten to tear the place down and trolley is expected.

Sioux Cows for Sioux.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—The Indian bureau Saturday opened bids for furnishing eleven thousand nine hundred and thirty and forty bids received. The total cost will be about $300,000. No award was made.

BISHOP-ELECT MESSMER.

The Pope Names to (Reconsider His Appointment.)

Several months ago the pope appointed Rev. Dr. Sebastian Gebhardt Messmer, professor of canon law at the Catholic university in Washington, to be the bishop of Green Bay, Wis., which had been made vacant by the elevation of Bishop Frederick Xavier Katzner to the archbishopric of Milwaukee. Dr. Messmer had set his mind on remaining a member of the faculty of the Catholic university, and was not overjoyed at the honor the pope conferred on him. Through Archbishop Katzner, of Milwaukee, he requested the pope to name some one else for the bishopric of Green Bay. Word has just come from Rome that the pope has declined to accept his resignation, and Dr. Messmer will therefore soon leave the Catholic university.

Dr. Messmer was born in St. Gall, Switzerland, on Aug. 27, 1847. On completing his course in the Realsschule of Roeschbach, near his native place, he entered the junior seminary of St. Gall, at the age of 18. From there he went to Innsbruck, where he studied under the Jesuit professors for four years. In Rome he completed his theological studies, and on July 21, 1871, he was raised to the priesthood at St. Gall by Bishop Greth.

Two months later he came to this country, and was almost immediately appointed to the professorship of dogmatic theology at Seton Hall, in South Orange, the ecclesiastical seminary of the diocese of Newark. He held this post until 1880, when he was selected to fill the chair of canon law in the new Catholic university. In August of that year he went to Rome to study, and took his new post in October, 1890. At the third plenary council, of Baltimore, held in 1884, his accomplishments as a theologian and as a Latinist led to his appointment as one of the secretaries. As professor of canon law in the Catholic university he showed himself to be familiar with the civil law of the United States and to possess a comprehensive knowledge of the peculiar circumstances which environ the Catholic church in this country.

A. JEFFERSON SEAY.

Remarkable Career of the New Governor of Oklahoma.

Abraham Jefferson Seay, the new governor of Oklahoma, is thoroughly a self-made man, says Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper. Born in Amherst county, Va., November 28, 1832, he was three years later taken by his parents to Osage county, Mo., where he grew up on a farm. Up to twenty-one he had received almost no education. At that age, however, he struck out for himself, and by hard work succeeded in getting through the academy at Steelville, Mo. After working awhile to secure the requisite funds he began the study of law in that place and was admitted to the bar the day preceding the firing on Fort Sumter. Though most of the Seay family sympathized with the confederacy, in a few days this young man marched away as a private in a Missouri regiment of volunteers. After four years of hard service, having been in a score of battles and marched with Sherman to the sea, he was mustered out as a colonel. He returned to Steelville, began the practice of law and was soon at the head of the local bar. First he was chosen county attorney, then circuit attorney, and from 1875 to 1887 sat on the bench as circuit judge. Always an active and aggressive republican, he has participated in every campaign, and twice has made an unsuccessful race for congress against Senator Bland. In May, 1890, he was appointed associate justice of the supreme court of Oklahoma, which position he has filled in an admirable manner.

The New Papal Prefect.

Cardinal Ledochowski, who has been appointed prefect of the Roman propaganda, as the successor of Cardinal Simoni, is a Pole of noble birth. He was in a German prison when Pius IX. conferred the red hat upon him. He gave Bismarck no end of trouble during the Kulturkampf times and of course he cordially hated Russia. He is said to be the ablest man of the sacred college resident at Rome, and Cardinal Monaco in Volterra, who is spoken of as the successor of Leo XIII., is said to be entirely under his influence. He flies France and England as cordially as he dislikes Germany, Italy and Russia. His promotion is politically significant. It is a matter of interest that Cardinal Ledochowski's cousin, a gentleman of more than ordinary scholarship and culture, is a well-known teacher of music in Chicago, where he has followed his profession for many years with great success.

Attacked by Mosquitoes.

When a Marlon (O.) boy attempted to kill a muskrat, caught in a steel trap a few days ago, the animal showed fight, and as it gave a death wail the banks of the creek seemed to be fairly alive with the little animals as they came to the assistance of their companion. The boy was attacked on all sides, and was getting badly scratched and bitten when his dog, which had been chasing a rabbit, came to his assistance and proceeded to battle with the enraged animals. In less than five minutes seventeen of the muskrats were lying around dead, while the rest scampered to a place of safety.
