

SHE LOST NO TIME

Baroness De Stuers is Now Mrs. Zborowski.

DIVORCED IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

She Married Again As Soon As The Decree Was Granted.

Claims De Stuers Was Planning to Put Her in a Mad House—She is Given the Custody of Her Daughter Now in a Paris Convent—Zborowski is a Well-Known Character in New York and is Very Wealthy.

STOUT FALLS, S. D., March 8.—Judge Aiken mailed to the clerk of Court of this county Saturday night a decree of divorce in favor of Mme. De Stuers, wife of the Minister Plenipotentiary for the Netherlands at Paris. The decree was regularly filed yesterday.

A license was issued yesterday by the same clerk granting permission to Wm. Elliott Morris Zborowski and Mrs. Margaret De Stuers to marry. At 11 o'clock Rev. J. A. Crusan, pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, performed the marriage ceremony.

Mrs. Zborowski is a granddaughter of William B. Astor, and a cousin of John Jacob Astor, and is well-known in New York society circles. About eight months ago she went to Sioux Falls, S. Dak., and after securing a legal residence at that State began a suit for divorce. In his answer to the suit Chevalier De Stuers alleged infidelity on the part of his wife and named a certain William Elliott as co-respondent. Later he amended his answer and declared that Elliott Zborowski, of New York, was the William Elliott referred to in his complaint and that his wife and Zborowski had traveled through various countries during the past two years under the names of Mrs. and Mrs. William Elliott.

Zborowski became acquainted with Mme. De Stuers at Newport several years ago. His attentions to her in Newport and afterwards in New York attracted attention among society people. Uni Chevalier De Stuers amended his answer and charged Zborowski with being the co-respondent it was not known in this city who the mysterious William Elliott was. Zborowski's absence from New York and his alleged presence in Sioux Falls gave rise to the belief that William Elliott and Zborowski were the same person.

Ernest Zborowski is a well-known character in New York, and has figured in many during escapades. Through inheritance he became very wealthy, and he has increased his wealth by shrewd business ability. One of his fortunate investments was in uptown real estate, notably in the Broadway Theatre property. At Newport Zborowski was well known and, with several others belonging to his set, he introduced polo there. He was an excellent horseman and devoted much of his time to riding and driving.

Medical attendance was hastily summoned, but the doctors think the young couple cannot live.

The girls, it is said, were inmates of disreputable houses. The desertion of their lovers is said to have caused them to attempt their lives.

SARATOGA EXCITED.

Police Commissioners Charged With Black-Mailing Gamblers.

SARATOGA, N. Y., March 8.—This village has been thrown into a high state of excitement by the publication of an affidavit in the daily "Saratogian," sworn to by John Webb, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners.

Rumors have been in circulation for several days to the effect that members of the Board of Police Commissioners had levied blackmail to the extent of nearly $10,000 on the Saratoga Club House and other gambling places last summer.

Webb's affidavit recites that Albert Spencer, proprietor of the Saratoga Club House, confessed to him in an interview held in New York last Friday that R. E. Knapp, a prominent real estate dealer and politician, and William H. Gallor, liveryman, both members of the Police Board, had called on him (Spencer) last summer and demanded $3,000. This Spencer paid.

Spencer also told Webb, the affidavit recites, that the proprietors of another gambling house in Saratoga Springs had admitted to him (Spencer) that they had paid $1,500 to the Board of Police Commissioners to secure immunity from police interference last summer.

Village President Lohman, who appointed both Knapp and Gallor to the Police Board, said last night that he would call a special meeting of the Board of Trustees to investigate the charges.

During the night, as Dr. Scudder was walking up a corridor in front of his cell, he suddenly gave a shriek, seized a chair, and exclaiming, "so you are in league with my wife, are you?" he struck with terrific force a harmless patient whose cell opened in the same corridor, and who was also taking a walk.

Scudder was disarmed by attendants and thrust into his cell, where he was manacled and the door securely locked. He was terribly excited and kept repeating: "It had to be done." The other patient's wound, while a bad one, was not serious.

A FIENDISH BRUTE

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde's Double.

SOME STARTLING REVELATIONS

In Springfield, O., Brought to Light—The City Excited.

Citizens Clinged in Dark Places With an Iron Rod—He Attacked Rich and Poor Alike—No Attempt at Robbery Was Made—Forsaken, But His Appearance Caused Them to Run Away—A Wealthy and Respected Citizen.

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 8.—An exact counterpart to Robert Louis Stevenson's famous character, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde has been found here in the person of Mr. William Bender, one of the wealthiest, most prominent and hitherto most respected citizens of this city. The astounding revelations about to be related were brought to light last night. The whole city is intensely excited over the affair.

For several weeks the city has been troubled with a criminal who lay in wait in dark places for passersby, and with fiendish brutality clubbed them with a heavy iron rod. He attacked rich and poor alike. When he had clubbed his victim into insensibility he would depart. No attempt at robbery was made.

The community became so agitated over these constantly repeated clubbings that a vigilance committee was organized to hunt down the fiend. For several nights he baffled them and each night another victim was struck down.

Last night James Curry saw the figure of a man answering the description of the fiend skulking along the street in the shadow of a fence. He gave an alarm and headed a party of citizens which started in pursuit of the fellow.

Curry caught up with the man. He turned quickly, dealt Curry a heavy blow with his club and ran toward the open country. The pursuers gave chase and gradually gained on him. Suddenly the man turned at bay. His appearance as he faced his pursuers was so terrible that the citizens turned and ran. The man also rushed back towards town.

The crowd recovered its courage and again gave pursuit. Suddenly the man ran toward William Bender's house. He darted through the door and disappeared.

The pursuers, believing he would assault Mrs. Bender, rushed in after him. On a lounge in the sitting room they found the man they had pursued. He was pale as death, his eyes were bloodshot and he was panting for want of breath. He was William Bender, the master of the house. He confessed the crimes, and said he was forced to it by an irresistible impulse.
