Spring goods are displaying.

The boys are busy with their tops.
The ground hog's reign ends on the 15th.
The sun crosses the equinoctial line on the 21st.

Early Southern vegetables will soon be appearing.
The snow banks are fast going into liquidation.
This is the month to keep your storm overcoat handy.
Moving day, that dread of housekeepers, is coming on apace.
The loudest signs of spring are to be seen in the milliners' windows.
A nobby thing in hats—the head that has been rapped by a policeman's club.
The present is the right time for trimming your grape vines, if you have any to trim.
The time when a woman has no mercy is when she gets a mouse in a trap.
Altogether this has been quite a remarkable winter, with a good variety of weather.
A mile is not as good as a mile in a pedestrian race, and one lap is enough for any miss.
Warmed skimmed milk applied to an oil cloth floor after washing will brighten it up wonderfully.
Well, girls, two months of your twelve have vanished. Remember that time flies and don't be timid.
Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved.
From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all, eight bottles. It cured me, and I thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store, regular size, 50c. and $1.00.
The proprietors of Pan-Tina have spent thousands of dollars to make it known that it cures Coughs, Colds and La Grippe. Trial bottles of Pan-Tina free at P. P. D. Kirlin's drug store.

THE DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLE.
Oh, I'm a tariff thinker.
You bet that's what I am
I'll monkey with the tariff,
For I don't care a d—m.

A DANGEROUS TENDENCY OF EDUCATION.
He had been directed to the most prominent man in a strongly Democratic county to consult with him concerning the organization of a school.
"So you want to start a school?" said the old man severely, when the visitor had explained his business.
"Yes, sir, I thought I might teach the children in a barn or an old empty house or some other place of shelter."
"Ain't we got a school down to Squazum?"
"Yes, but it's ten miles away and the children can't go so far."
"It's nigh enough," and the old man looked black. "We don't want none here. If you come here and go to teachin' in a barn you'll be gittin' into the dwel'in's next, an' then into the meetin' house, an' then you'll be wantin' us to build you a school house, an' the first thing we know we'll all be votin' the Republikin ticket. That's whar we'll land, shore, an' we ain't that kind. No, sirc, I reckon you'd better be skippin'!"
The old man looked up toward the shot gun hanging on the hooks over the fireplace and the school teacher skipped.

A LEADING DEMOCRAT.
In a Republican township of one of the reliable Democratic counties of Ohio lives a country merchant who has his wife about pretty much all the time. Not long ago an agent for some sort of Democratic literature drove up to the merchant's store and called him out.
"I am representing a publishing firm in New York," he said, "and I am looking for a Democrat to act as our agent here."
"Yes," replied the merchant, questioningly.
"What we want," continued the visitor, "is the leading Democrat of this section."
"I know the man you want," said the merchant, "but he isn't at home now."
"When will he be at home?"
"Can't tell you."
"Are you sure he is the leading Democrat? We want a representative man."
"Oh, yes; he's the leader."
"Can you tell me where I might find him?"
"Yes; in Columbus."
"I'm going that way. Will he be there long?"
"Yes, for some time; at least that was the impression here when he went away," and the merchant smiled.
"Member of the Legislature, I presume. Can you give me his address?"
"Certainly. Ohio State penitentiary. Just send in your card to the warden."
"The merchant was going to give the visitor some further data, but he drove away so hurriedly that it wasn't possible.

"Fablo Romani."
Alden Benedict's "Fablo Romani" Company opened another Metropolitan engagement at the Grand Opera House last night. Since last appearing here Mr. Benedict has engaged that incarnation of grace, Senorita Es-rina. The story of the play is sad, but mixed with the dark passages of the sombre story were many enlivening scenes that helped to make the whole a pleasant entertainment. The present realism came at the end of the drama in the earthquake scene. The last commenced in a mausoleum, which occupied the entire stage. At the climax of the subterranean connection the huge tomb sank out of sight and revealed dwellings falling in ruins, the earth rocking and rent with fiery fissures, while Mt. Vesuvius in the background belched forth a huge column of fire and smoke, and poured red streams of lava on the city of Naples, shown at its feet.—N. Y. Sun. "Fablo Romani" will be produced at Ferguson's theatre to-morrow evening.
