BOLD ASSERTIONS.

THE MANLY ACTIONS OF GER-MANY'S GREATEST

Scientist-It is Warmly Endorsed by a Ringing Editorial in a Leading American Journal.

(Medical Tylbana)

Professor Rudolph Virchow was eriously ill some months ago. An admirer of his, the owner of a certain proprietary medicine, took occasion to present him with some battles of his discovery. Virebow recovered, and was certain that he had received much benefit from the remedy. He accordingly addressed a letter to his benefactor acknowledging the matter and expressing his gratitude. The letter, coming as it did from the most distinguished teacher of parhologic science in Europe, was published and widely read. The North German the death of one workman and the Medical Association, like similar bodies in America, has its cranks on were thawing out dynamite for blasting ethics. They endeavored to call the purposes. A cap exploded, thereby professor to account for disregarding letting off twenty-eight sticks of dynaprofessor to account for disregarding the code. Virohow regarded the in-stincts of a gentleman, and the honor that leads a man to render justice, as paramount to the peck measure ethics of a conceited gang of half fieldged medical men. He answered then with hearty contempt, and withdrew from the association. He chose to stand on maniness, and could afford to do so. It was an i-sue between ethics and a man, and manhood was associted.

At about the same time the editor of this journal wrote a letter to a gentle man in Western New York regarding the merits of a remedy known as Warner's Safe Cure. The circum the merits of a remedy known as Warner's Safe Cure. The circum stances in the cose were as follows: We had frequently been asked by patients if we knew anything about this remedy, and were colliged to answer in the negative. We then began to make inquiries about the remedy, and were surprised at the reports we heard regarding it. We then recommended it in several cases that had resisted all other treatment, that had resisted all other treatment and the results were surprising. The and the results were surprising. The albumen rapidly disappeared from the urine and the patients felt greatly improved in health. Feeling satisfied that the compound was a valuable one, and that it could do no possible harm to any one we continued to recommend it, and were surprised at the good results obtained.

After several months' fair trial we did not hesitate to indorse the remedy, believing as we did that it would prove a boon to suff-ring humanity. We have no reason to regret our action in this particular. We recommend a state of the second s remedy that has benefited thousands of persons; we have seen its good effects on our own patients after all other medicines have failed, and we are not airaid to say to the public and the profession just what we know of Medical journals of all schools of medicine are filled with advertise-ments and editorial puffs of proprietary medicines, many of which are worthless. The editors know nothing of their composition or preparation, but have an eye to the money they get for their advertisements. There has been no protest against these bings. How, therefore, a certificate based on experiences such asours, and without compensation, should have greater turpitude, is a problem beyond our capacity. Why one should be fish and another flesh we are not sagacious enough to determine. We leave it for those who care more for the rotten corpse of an old code than for combuttle at C. H. on fairness and common sense. Those who are eager to find fault wildoso. They are heartly welcome to their task. To be sure blows can be given as well as taken except that given as well as taken except that some escape because of their contempti-ble insignificance. We have no ammunition to waste on such. This, however, we will say: No man of common human sensibility, who has the red blood of a mammal, and not the rale, maky fluid of the lower races, will have the heart to judge our action- severely or to say that we have done aught but what we have always laimed to be our right—to use any laimed to be our right-to use any remedy that will benefit our patients, ithout reference to the source from which it comes.

The above able article from the pen of Dr R A Gunn, editor of the Medical Tribune, strongly corroborates the statements already made by the doctor in the public prints regarding the unusual merits of the greatest modern medicine. This preparation, after welve years of unqualified success, has finally received the commendation and indersement of the leading members of the medical profession, both in this country and in Europe.
