The honest laboring man who investigates the subject without prejudice will be convinced that the Republican party was organized chiefly as the friend of free labor; that it has been faithful to its first principles on this subject and is depending to-day more upon the support of intelligent labor than upon any other element of our national sovereignty. It is a great, powerful labor party.

HILL, in his first Virginia speech, at Roanoke, said of the Democratic party: "It is the party that has always upheld civil liberty and individual freedom." "Always" is a long time, Mr. Hill. How about those days before Lincoln issued his emancipation proclamation? Or does the word "white" go with "civil liberty" and "individual freedom" in your category?

THERE are more paupers, supported at the public expense, in free trade England than in any other country on earth and vastly more pauperism in proportion to population. Does this condition of the tolling masses speak well for free trade. On the other hand, there are vastly fewer publicly supported paupers and infinitely less pauperism in proportion to population in the United States than in any other country. Protection rescues the laboring masses from poverty.

THERE is much mawkish and puling sentimentality talked and written over the alleged friendly feeling of the people of England towards "their cousins across the water." The feeling of England towards America is that of a great commercial country towards its most formidable rival, which must be crushed at all hazards, or Great Britain's supremacy is ended. That is the hereditary and constant attitude of the two countries. It is shown in the status of the Behring sea question. It is shown in the attitude of all English people and English sympathizers on the tariff question in this country. So far as sentiment goes, there is hardly a country that Great Britain would more willingly go to war with than this country. If war between the two countries is improbable, it can only be while it would injure John Bull's pocket.

The policy of the Democratic party on the wool tariff question means the immediate annual transfer of over one hundred million of dollars a year of our money to foreign lands to pay for foreign cheap labor on manufactured wool products and wool raised by cheap labor on cheap lands in South America and Australia, taking a like amount away from our enterprising manufacturers, well-paid labor, and not too prosperous farmers. The excuse for this hideous and criminal folly is the falsehood, demonstrable in every clothing store of the land, that the tariff is a tax upon the necessary clothing of the people. There are thousands of living witnesses in the land to-day who will truly testify that the most enormous taxes upon clothing were paid to foreign manufacturers under free trade or tariffs for revenue only. Protection has been steadily decreasing the price of the people's clothing during the last twenty-five years, until now it has become almost as low as it is anywhere on earth.

ONE of the first advocates of free trade in this country, a Senator of the state of South Carolina, once said that the Northern free laborers were all "mud-sills," "greasy mechanics" and "small-fisted farmers." His meaning was interpreted by another free trade apostle of his time, who more boldly declared that "capital should own labor, white or black." They were the fathers of our existing free trade Democrats, but the latter are less courageous and honest.

THE ELECTRIC FIRE ALARM.

THE SYSTEM WAS TESTED SATURDAY EVENING.

IT WAS PRONOUNCED A SUCCESS.

A Brief Description of the System, Showing the Location of the Alarm Boxes, and How to Manipulate the Same. Locating a Fire.

THE electric fire alarm system was formally tested Saturday and found satisfactory. George Oehmer, the electrician who put in the system under the contract of the Gamewell Company of New York with the borough, finished his work before six p. m. Saturday and at 7 o'clock he met the members of the fire apparatus committee, Messrs. Coakley, Hopkins and McGuire, and other borough officials, to make the test.

The committee and electrician, accompanied by Fire Marshal Frank Lewis, went to all the boxes and sounded an alarm at each. Members of the fire companies stood at the indicators in their respective houses to see that they recorded the signals properly and Sam Wragg, who was Mr. Oehmer's assistant the past week, remained in the bell tower to watch the movements of the electrical apparatus that operates the hammer.

The first alarm was sounded from box No. 25, at the southeast corner of Main and Centre streets, the lever being pulled by Charles, the five-year-old son of Councilman Coakley. Instantly the bell in the tower sounded "2," and six seconds later "3." All the same time the figures "25" were recorded on all the indicators. The second alarm was sounded from box No. 16, at the corner of Bowers and Centre streets. This alarm was sounded by Edward Williams, son of Division Superintendent John L. Williams. This alarm was also satisfactory. The rest of the boxes were sounded in the following order: 24, 15, 35, 32, 42, 43 and 34. All, except the last three, gave satisfaction. But upon another trial the exceptional boxes, 42, 43 and 34 met the requirements.

Councilmen Devers, Hopkins, Coakley and McGuire were then anxious to determine whether or not the system was really a non-interfering one and selected boxes 16 and 25 for the test. The lever of the first box was pulled and as the alarm was being sounded box 25 was operated. The bell sounded 1-6 four times and then stopped, showing the pulling of the lever of box No. 25 in no way interfered with the first alarm. Lever 25 was again pulled and the alarm was sounded correctly.

All the borough officials interviewed expressed themselves as well pleased with the system and Mr. Oehmer was complimented upon his work.

It is understood that Council will hold a special meeting to-night to decide whether all the requirements of the Gamewell company's contract have been complied with. The following list shows the location of the alarm boxes.

- No. 15 corner Coal and Bower streets.
- No. 16 corner Coal and Centre streets.
- No. 24 corner Bridge and Centre streets.
- No. 25 corner Main and Centre streets.
- No. 34 corner Main and Poplar streets.
- No. 35 corner Main and Coal streets.
- No. 42 corner Gilbert and Centre streets.
- No. 43 corner Gilbert and Cherry streets.
- No. 52 corner Chestnut and Coal streets.

To send an alarm open the box, pull the hook once and let go. When an alarm is sent in the fire bell will sound the number of the box and repeat the alarm four times.

To locate an alarm pay strict attention to the taps of the fire bell. If the alarm is sounded from box 15 the fire bell will strike one, then pause and strike five which will indicate that the fire is in the vicinity of No. 15 box. Every alarm is sounded four times.

One key will be left in the most convenient place nearest each box, the Chief Burgess, each of the policemen and each of the fire marshals have been given keys and the balance of the forty-five are distributed among members of the fire companies.

The fire bell in the tower can be sounded from any box in the town.

All keys are numbered and are charged to the parties receiving them, and these parties will be held responsible for their proper use.

A release key is furnished the fire marshal and the key that unlocks the outer door of the box cannot be taken out until it is released with the marshal's key, so that there will be no difficulty in tracing a party who may tamper with the boxes in that respect.

SUNDAY SERMON.

Rev. Powick's Discourse in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The sermon Sunday morning in the Methodist Episcopal church was from the text: "Peace, be still," Mark IV; 39. These words were addressed to the raging sea by the Son of God. A storm at sea is the most frightful manifestation of the forces of nature with which we are familiar. Jesus Christ proved His divinity when He showed His superiority to them. Among the practical lessons we are to learn from this miracle is that of God's superiority to the forces of nature. This is an important truth in this materialistic age in which men are writing nature with a big N and calling it God and are worshipping at its shrines. It is a comfort to know that there is One who presides over nature who is not only all-powerful but all-loving. Nature is a monster that rides with relentless fury over everything that stands in his way. But our God

"Yokes the whirlwind to His car And sweeps the howling skies."

A sea captain entered his cabin in a storm and found his wife terror stricken. He seized a dagger and held it at her breast. "Why are you not frightened?" he asked. She answered "because my husband holds it." "Then," he demanded, "why do you fear the storm when your Heavenly Father holds it?" Properly understood God's great power should be a source of great comfort to all His children. The more powerful my Father is the better for me. This miracle also teaches us that all forces that array themselves against the progress of God's cause are destined to perish.

"No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper." This triumph over natural forces was symbolical of the victories to be won over moral forces. However impudent haters of God and of right may be now some day the command will go forth "be still" and there will be a great calm. Another lesson is that most of our trials arise from a want of faith—not that a want of faith brings the storm or the ship wreck or the sickness or the bereavement but that they derive their sting from a want of faith or from allowing it to slumber. Most of our trials, however, are those which never come. Faith in God saves us from those overhauling worries that exist only in imagination. I am not much surprised at the disciples' want of faith for they had not learned much about Him. He was only beginning His displays of wonder-making power. But I am often surprised at my own and at yours. With the accumulated evidences of His omnipotent love that the centuries contain our doubts are truly surprising.

We are much like the weary traveler who, after accepting an invitation to ride, continued to carry his burden because it was enough for the horse to haul him. So we often commit our destiny to God but continue to bear our burdens instead of laying them upon Him. Another lesson is that some of our richest experiences come to us some of sorest trials. This trial of the disciples' faith gave them a new view of Christ. When the calm ensued and the sun shone their faith was stronger for the test. As the fearful storm sways the mighty forest and threatens to uproot the giant oaks but in reality only sends their tap-roots the deeper so the stormy trials of life often send the tap-roots of our faith the deeper into the soil of eternal love and make it cling the more tenaciously to the rock of immutable truth. The ship that bears the Son of God cannot go down.

Prevention Better Than Cure.

Many persons are afflicted with skin eruptions, boils or ulcers. Brandreth's Pills taken freely will in a short time effect a complete cure of all such troubles. Ulcers of long standing have been cured by them. Carbuncles have been checked in their incipency by them. The worst fever sores, bed sores, and the like have been driven from the skin by them. Only begin in time and a few of Brandreth's Pills will prevent many a sickness.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time. 1w

A DESPERATE STREET FIGHT.

STRUGGLE TO ESCAPE THE TAX COLLECTOR.

CHURCH SERVICES YESTERDAY.

The Sermon Preached by Rev. Powick Yesterday—Funeral of the Late John Beck—A Large Attendance—Police-man Tempest's Capture.

PEOPLE who chanced to be in the vicinity of the Lehigh Valley depot Saturday afternoon witnessed a street fight that threatened to precipitate a riot. It arose from the capture of a Hungarian by Deputy Tax Collector Higgins, who insisted that the man should pay his taxes before leaving the town. The Hun intended to leave for New York and was fighting drunk. When Higgins attempted to arrest him he resisted. He was as strong as a bull and for half a square down East Centre street the collector had one of the fiercest struggles of his life. Higgins adjusted a pair of chain handcuffs, but the Hun struggled so they were thrown off. Again Higgins grabbed his man. The Hun struck out right and left and his captor was obliged to jump about pretty lively to escape the blows. The collector occasionally put in a hot "right-hander," but the punishment only served to increase the Hun's anger. The fight lasted for several minutes on the pavement, in the gutter and in the mud on the streets, over ankle deep. Then two big fellows, friends of the Hun, attempted a rescue. One of them struck Higgins a powerful blow. At the same instant Constable Toomey and several men of the first ward jumped in and the two would-be rescuers were punched into submission. The three Huns were then taken to the lockup. After reflecting some time the Hun who related arrest paid his taxes and costs. The other two paid fines and costs for fighting on the street.

Pat Conroy's Scheme.

The World Museum, with its fat woman, living skeleton, snake charmer and other wonders, is in town. The curiosities arrived via a Lehigh Valley train at 9 o'clock this morning. "Big Hattie," the fat woman, was comfortably seated in an immense chair in the baggage car and attracted so much attention several people narrowly escaped missing their trains. Pat Conroy was among the spectators and stood close to Hattie's chair. "I was thinking," said he to a questioner, "that this is a fortunate arrival in case the weights for the chain in the bell tower fail to arrive." "Could the fat woman be of service?" "Yes," replied Pat as he crossed to the Pottsville train, "if the chain would stand it." Hattie is so large she was obliged to leave the car through the baggage door and the united efforts of seven men were required to transfer her and the chair from the car. She rode up to Robbins' opera house in O'Hara's big furniture wagon.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. C. H. Hagenbuch, Druggist.

The World's Museum.

The World's Museum is now open in Robbins' opera house. Don't fail to see big Hattie Bowen, largest woman in the world, actual weight 718 pounds; Abnetta, queen of all snake charmers; Deloeno, the man of many forms; Princess Lulu, the moss-haired lady; Prof. La Monte, the world's greatest magician; Prof. A. Bell, the wonderful tattooed man; Delmoato, the fire king; Russel, the human pin cushion; Prof. Hurd's London Punch and Judy. See the happy family of monkeys. A strictly moral entertainment. A TRUE PICTURE.

The Soldiers Did Not Have the Picnic Many Suppose.

Let some man who thinks so take a blanket some cold, rainy night and go out and sleep in the pig pen. If he wants to be really luxurious he may lay a couple of rails together to keep him out of the mud. He will thus find out how the "boys" slept about 100 days out of every year they served.

Let him get up in the morning and make his breakfast off a slice of the fattest, rankiest salt pork he can find in the bottom of a barrel of brine; sandwich this between two ancient crackers, about as digestible as white-popper chips, and wash it down with scalding black coffee, made in a quart cup over a fire of wet sticks in a fence-corner.

Let him pick up his dirty blanket, load himself down with about 50 pounds of odds and ends, and tramp off through the rain and ankle deep mud until noon, when he can stop for a few minutes for another snack of fat pork, hardtack and black coffee.

Then let him resume his tramp, with no loutering, no picking out of dry places, no avoiding the mud holes in the middle of the road, no hunting around for dry crossings of the creeks in his way, until late at night, when he may stop for awhile to make his supper out of the same materials which comprised his other two meals.

Then, as his every bone and muscle aches from the laborious march, let some one say to him: "Here, Jones, you had a good rest last night; you must go on picket to-night." And then let him stand the livelong night under a dripping tree, peering out anxiously into the dense darkness for skulking enemies intent upon putting a bullet or a bayonet into his weary body, and be kept awake by the fear that he will be shot either by friends or enemies if he dares to yield to fatigue. Let the morning bring no rest to him, but another day of weary tramping through the mud and rain with the prospect that in the course of it he and his companions will encounter a horde of bitter enemies, intent upon their destruction, who will at once proceed to shoot down about one man in every three or four of them.

If he will go through a week of this sort of picknicking, he will think that a pension of $8 a month for the rest of his life would be mighty poor compensation for all that he had to endure.

Yet this is only a sample of what the men in the Union army had to go through, not merely one week, but nearly every week in all the years of their enlistment.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Resumed Work.

To-day work was resumed at Koblnoor colliery, which has been idle for the past six weeks for the purpose of repairing the shaft. The colliery gives employment to about 600 men and boys. It is also stated that the new colliery near Lanigan's, known as Maple Hill, will start up on the first of April. This is the largest colliery in the district.
