CONSIDERATION OF TARIFF BILLS

For Silver Legislation the Outlook is Not Very Bright

The Less Radical of the Silver Advocates Do Not Deem it Advisable to Block Leg-Wants Another Vote on the Indian Agent lalation by Filibustering - Mr. Dawer Illi-He Hopes to Secure the Betention of Civilian Agents.

Washington, April 4.—The House will devote the greater part of this week to the consideration of the tariff. To-day Mr. Wilson (W. Va.) will close the general debate on the Democratic side, and acting for Mr. Springer, will move a vote on the pending bill. It is expected that the consideration of such amendments as may be submitted will not occupy more than two days. It is the desire of the Democratic leaders to send the bill to the Senate on Wednesday at the latest, but no advantage, it is said, will be taken of the suspension rule.

The Binding Twine bill will be taken up upon the passage of the Free Wool bill, provided the House should not decide to side-track it for an appropriation

It is altogether probable that the mem-bers interested in measures on the pri-vate calendar will make a strong effort to secure the regular order on Friday for that purpose. This the House may de-feat, as it is the plan of the managers to hasten the consideration of the tariff bills as rapidly as possible.

The prospect for silver legislation in the House is decidedly poor, the boasts of the free silver men to the contrary notwithstanding, nor is it probable that the ardent advocates of the Free Silver bill will go go so far as to attempt to ob-struct all measures except the tariff bills if their efforts to secure consideration for their pet measure are disregarded. The less radical element of the sliver advocates believe that it would be both poor policy and poor politics to filibuster against measures of paramount national importance and to go to the extreme of attempting to block necessary legislaon the Morgan resolutions, remains to be seen. Appropriation bills also have to be taken into consideration. They have the right of way at any time. The Indian bill is not yet completed. Mr. Dawes wants another vote on the question of authorizing the President to appoint army officers as Indian agents. That passed the Senate with a discretionary modification, when there was barely a quorum in attendance. Mr. Dawes hopes to secure the compulsory retention of civilian agents, as at present, if he can get the question before a full

Mr. Allison has the District of Columbis appropriation bill ready for presenta-tion. Its consideration is likely to occupy two or three days at the least. Between these opposing forces the general bills on the calendar will probably stand a poor show, especially as Mr. Stewart's free coinage bill is high up on the list, and he has given notice of his intention to call it up to-day.

BOARDSOF ARBITRATION.

A Rumor that Judge Putnam, of Maine, Will be Selected by the President.

WASHINGTON, April 4.-Judge Putnam, of Maine, called on the President in company with Senator Hale, and his visit started a rumor that he is to be assigned to duty in connection with the Behring Sea arbitration, either as an arbitrator or as one of the counsel on the part of the United States. He is a Democratic lawyer of prominence and was a member of the commission which considered the Canadian fisheries controversy during President Cleveland's administration.

It is impossible to verify the rumor, but it finds many believers from the report that the President desires to have both political parties represented on the Board of Arbitration.

QUAY'S WORTH.

A Fair Estimate of His Services in the United States Senate.

Favoring Pennsylvania's Industries.

A Complete Refutation of the Mugwumps' Charge That He Neglected His Official Duties, It Being Shown That When He Was Reported Absent from His Scat in the Senate He Was Doing Invaluable Service in the Committee Rooms in Framing the McKinley Bill.

Among the many manufacturers of western Pennsylvania who are indignaut at the charge of absenteeism from the senate against Senator Quay and by implication that he neglected his duty, none is more vehement in denouncing the outrageous attack as false and malicious than James Chambers, ex-president of the Chamber-McKee Window Glass company, and the head of a new concern that is building a large window glass plant at Kensington. In commenting on the attacks on Senator Quay in regard to neglect of duty Mr. Chambers said:

Mr. Chambers said:

"No meaner or more unfounded assertion could be made against Pennsylvania's jumor senator than this. I never knew a member of congress who has been more devoted and worked harder and longer for the interests of his constituency and the Republican party generally than Senator Quay. A Fact to be Remembered.

"Not to mention his brilliant cam-paign of 1888, when he elected Harrison over Cleyeland, the Democratic child of destiny, a fact to be remembered is that if Senator Quay had done no other thing, his party, and especially that por-tion made up of the manufacturers of this end of the state, can never fully this end of the state, can never raily repay him for his service on the last tariff bill, which he not only aided largely in getting in its present excellent shape, but the passage of which he se-cared in the senate by his generalship, at the expense of legislation of greatly inferior importance.

'I am chairman of the tariff committee of the American Window Glass Makers' association. This position I have held for twelve years past, and I speak officially for the members of that organization. I have directed the preparation of the window glass schedules of each tariff bill during that period. This necessitated my presence in Washing two or three days at a time at intervals of a week or two while the tariff bill was under consideration.

finance committee, consisting of Mesars.
Aldrich, Allison and Hiscock. Mr.
Aldrich was much interested in the framing of the window glass schedule, and readily consented to the changes I had to suggest. Mr. Allison was a little chary about some matters and only gave chary about some matters and only gave his consent after I had Mr. Quaygo to him and back up my arguments as to their necessity. Mr. Hiscock was a hard man to deal with, and instead of favoring any increases was decidedly for reduction in the rates. Here again I had recourse to Mr. Quay, and it was only after long and persistent labor on his part that Mr. Hiscock was won over to our view of thinking. Senator Quay neglected not the slightest detail, and the window glass manufacturers have him to thank for their present excellent schedule. It is by far the best we have ever had, and on the most important items we secured a liberal increase in the rate.

Manufacturers Can Never RepayHim When questioned about Senator Quay's work on other breaches of the tariff bill Mr. Chambers said: "Of course I am best acquainted with the facts relating to the schedule of which I had charge, Council, which has been for six months looking over the accounts of ex-City Treasurever the accounts of ex-City Treasurever the season of ex-City Treasurever whith the aid of two experts, has reported that Mr. Webster's accounts are correct, and that he does not owe the city a dollar.

Referring to the candidacy of Congressman Dalzell for senator, Mr. Chambers said: "I have no word to speak against Mr. Dalzell; he is a good man and a fine orator. He lent us his aid in the house, but he is uo man like Senator Quay, though he has the proper stuff in him. Should the Republican party of Pennsylvania so far forget its duty as to not return Senator Quay it will soon realize the full meaning of my words. I do not think there is a more influential man in the senate than him, and anybody who has ever had need of and anybody who has ever had need of his help will tell you so. I cannot speak words strong enough to express my spinion of his worth.

Days When He Was Absent.

"Now, a word on his absenteeism," said Mr. Chambers. "The fact is that said Mr. Chambers. "The fact is that hille, if anything, bejond voting and speech making occurs on the floor of the senate, and whenever Mr. Quay was needed there the record will show he was always on hand. Where he worked most, however, was in his committee room and outside the cavitol building. I have known him to be in his committee room day after day from early until late engaged in the most ardoons labor. bee room day after day from early until late engaged in the most ardious labor, and on these days his name does not ap-pear as being present in the senate. It would have been an easy matter for Mr. Quay to lave gone to the senate cham-ber, had his name put on the list of those present and then left to continue his work, as is the custom of many sen-ators, but he appears not to have cared to bother with this formality, and now his enemies are trying to take advan-tage of this triling oversight on his part.

His Equal Not to be Found.

"In conclusion I take this opportunity of saying that, although I do not think there is any question about Mr. Quay's re-election, should the party fail to return him, there are many good men they can send in his stead, but not one that would for many years prove of equal value to his constituency or his pasty, if indeed he ever succeeded in reaching so high a station in the upper branch of congress."

Learned Mr. Quay's Value.

"On these occasions I learned the value of Mr. Quay's aid. There was nothing I wanted he did not do for me. He is in close touch with all the powerful men of the party, and never failed to invoke the aid of anyone whose services were necessary to my work.

"The last tariff bill in the senate was in the handa of a sub-committee of the finance committee, consisting of Mesars.

DISASTRCUS FIRES

New Orleans Swept by Two Conflagrations.

PEOPLE FLED FOR THEIR LIVES

The Losses Will Aggregate Over Three Million Dollars.

The First Fire Was in the Cotton Pre-District- It is Supposed 80,000 Bales of Cotton Were Destroyed-It is Though Some One Threw a Lignted Match on the Cotton-The Second Conflagration Was Caused by the Carelessness of a Woman in Using Coal Oil Which Exploded.

NEW ORLEANS, April 4 .- This city was visited by two serious conflagrations yesterday, and property aggregating over $3,000,000 destroyed.

The first and most disastrous of the fires started in the district bounded by Peters, Front, Thalia and Robins

A high wind was blowing at the time, and the flames spread with appalling rapidity. Building after building was quickly licked up, until all in the district mentioned were either in ruius or very badly damaged.

Among the presses destroyed were the Fire Proof, Penroxe Brothers, managers; Shippers, Boyd & Herrick, proprietors; Independence Yard and the Orleans Cotton Press.

It is thought that 80,000 bales of cotton were in the buildings destroyed, but it is believed that much of this will be saved. It is estimated, however, that the loss on cotton will be close on to $2,500,000. The loss on the sheds and presses is placed at $200,000.

The fire is believed to have been of accidental origin, due probably to the accidental origin, due probably to the careless handling of a lighted match.

A panic prevalled in the vicinity of the fire which was close to the residence district, and people living many blocks distant began fleeing for their lives carrying what few belongings they could gather up in their haste. There were also destroyed in the cotton district several minor buildings. The New Orleans Vinegar factory was completely de-Vinegar factory was completely de-stroyed, involving a loss on the stock of $10,000. A frame barroom, No. 325 $10,000. A frame barroom, No. 329 Front street, was rased. At 321 South Front street, a two-story brick building was entirely destroyed. No. 833 Front was chilled destroyed. No. 333 Front street, a two sary brick residence, was damaged common abity, as was 335 and 337 Front street, buildings of the same character. A three story brick building, No. 2 Thalia street, was damaged considerably.

The cotton loss is estimated at about $65,000. This would mean a loss of about $5,325,000 in cotton alone.

It is claimed by some that the fire was the work of laborers who wished to avenge the purchasing of the press by the trust. The fire proof press is owned the trust in the name of Penrose Bros., managers. The Orleans is also in the trust in the name of Adam Lorch, manager. The shippers press is owned by Boyd & Herrick, who are not in the

While the firemen were engaged in a hopeless struggle with the cotton fire, another blaze broke out at the corner of Laurel and Third streets, a mile away.
