Pardee, the wealthy coal operator who ST. PAUL, April 9.—Correspondences from Chamberlain, S. D., details at length the exploits of a band of horse and cattle thieves, known as the "Cul-Pardee's private secretary rummaged and cattle theyes, shown as the Chr-bertson (iang," who commenced opera-tions in Eonhomme county, and being driven from there went to Northeastern Nabraska, where they resumed operathrough the dead man's papers, but Acto Pardes, jr., the son of the dead coal operator, took out papers of admin-istration. He had to file a bond for $5,000,000, as the estate is worth about $ions.

The band was short lived in that see tion, and a vigilance committee hunted down and dishanced the gang, killing several and driving the survivors out of the colliner.

Two Unifertion brothers escaped and afterward went to the Black Hills, where their identity was hidden until they were arrested for the brutal killing of a friendly Indian named Few Talls during the closing days of the Indian disturbances at Pine Ridge five months 4120

Although they practically admitted the killing, they were liberated on the ground that war with the Indians existed at that time, and that the killing was an act of war. "Old man" Hoyt, one of the band who was not fully identified with the running off of cattle and horses, but who is known to have harbored the thieves, was permitted to escape with the first his life.
