

MURDERER DEEMING

A Story as Told By Late Australian Papers.

NEW FEATURES IN HIS CASE.

Miss Rounsvell's Terrible Discovery While on Her Way to Meet Him.

She Heard the Newsboys Calling the Details of an Atrocious Murder, and She Bought a Copy of the Paper Only to Find Out that She Was About to be Married to the Murderer—She Was Wearing His Victim's Jewels.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 15.—Australian papers which contain whole pages of the startling developments in the Deeming murder case arrived here yesterday. The discovery of this Australian murder, which is the most sensational ever known in the colonies, was brought about by the stench which arose from the fire place in the sleeping room at Windsor Cottage. The owner of the building, assisted by several constables, removed the hearthstone, and underneath, held in position by a compact mass of cement, lay portions of a nude body.

The body, which had been squeezed into a space about two feet wide by two feet six inches in length, was in an advanced state of decomposition. The knees of the dead woman were forced up over the abdomen, the left hand rested under the chin, the right arm was crossed over the body, and in the skull from which the skin and hair had completely disappeared, was a large aperture, into which a man might thrust three fingers. A deep cut was also apparent in the throat. The work of walling the woman's body in the masonry was done very skillfully, and but for the failure to use some means of quick decomposition, it would probably never have been found.

Had Deeming been an ordinary criminal he would have freed himself of every object connecting him with his victim and would have put the ocean between himself and Australia. He did neither of these things, evidently having great faith in his masonry work. He put up at a hotel in Melbourne, and brought with him a large amount of luggage.

An object which attracted much attention and gave a most valuable clue to the police in tracking the murderer was a gilt bird cage containing the murdered woman's canary. He carried this cage and bird with him in his subsequent travels, refusing to trust it to any one else. Deeming remained but a few days in Melbourne. Then he went to Sydney and Bathurst, and from there back to Melbourne, where he took a steamer for West Australia.

Scarcely a month after he had killed his wife, and while in Sydney, he advertised in a matrimonial paper. This, however, came to naught. On the steamer to Sydney Deeming made the acquaintance of a pretty 19-year-old girl, a Miss Rounsvell, of Bathurst.

The murderer seems to have become smitten with this young lady's charms and, being a persuasive talker and an ardent wooer, he soon won her promise to marry him. He told the girl that he had never cared for women before, and told her that he had never contemplated matrimony. Deeming sealed their engagement by giving her three very handsome rings and a brooch.

The callousness of the man is shown in the fact that these presents had been worn by the woman whom he hacked to death a few weeks before.

When the murderer reached Perth, West Australia, he sent letter after letter to his betrothed, begging her to join and marry him. This she finally consented to do.

On March 10 the girl left her sister's house in Bathurst. She reached Melbourne all right, and there met a young man she knew. While walking the street with him, within an hour of the time her steamer was to sail, she heard the newsboys calling the details of an atrocious murder. She felt a sudden desire to read about the murder, and her companion bought a paper. She had read but a few lines when she swooned away on her friend's arm.

When she was restored to consciousness her explanation was very startling to her friend. She had recognized the description and portrait of the murderer as the very man she was on the way to marry. Miss Rounsvell at once communicated with the police, placing in their hands Deeming's voluminous correspondence and the rings.

WITH MUCH POMP.

The Investiture of the Khedive at the Abdin Palace.
CAIRO, April 15.—The new Khedive, Abbas, was formally invested with the sovereignty of Egypt yesterday by the public reading of the Sultan's firman. It was made known officially Wednesday that all difficulties had been removed, and that the Sultan had modified the firman in such a way as to be satisfactory to the Khedive, to England, and to Italy, leaving the Khedive in full and undisputed control of all the territories over which his ancestors had reigned.

This news caused general satisfaction in Cairo, outside of the French colony, where some disappointment was shown, and general preparations began at once to make the occasion memorable, with a general rejoicing and grand political ceremony.

Flags floated everywhere, and those of England and Egypt were especially prominent, the crescent and the star of the Khedival banner being often intertwined with the cross of St. George. The flag of Turkey was only to be seen at the palaces and public buildings, including the Legations. Elsewhere it was invisible, and the French and Russian banners were almost equally rare.

DR. PARKHURST'S METHODS.

He is Pushing His Crusade Solely Against the New York Police Department.
NEW YORK, April 15.—Rev. Dr. Chas. H. Parkhurst, who gained such wide notoriety by his crusade against the city's dives, has issued an address to the citizens of New York, in which he tells why he adopted the methods he did to procure evidence, which have been the subject of so much adverse criticism.

His object, he says, has been solely to secure in the public mind an indictment against the police department.

He does not try to defend his methods, but says it was the only way in which he could get to the quick of this whole corrupt business. He refers to the police department as an "organized and salaried criminality" which threatens the community, and says he is determined in his course and will continue it.

Charged With Bigamy.

PITTSBURGH, April 15.—George L. Cuke, national secretary of the Window Glass Workers' Association since 1887, has resigned his office. On Friday of last week Mr. Cuke was snared on a charge of bigamy by a woman from Brooklyn, N. Y., who claimed to be Mr. Cuke's first wife. Mr. Cuke retains his connection with the Association, giving as the reason for his withdrawal from office that he wishes to devote his time to the preparation of his defense in the bigamy suit pending against him. Mr. Cuke is widely and favorably known in political and labor circles.

To Change the Clothing Law.

BOSTON, April 15.—The Legislative Committee on Public Health reported a bill to change last year's law to regulate the manufacture of clothing under the sweating system. It extends the law to cover all kinds of clothing, and to provide that all persons engaged in such manufacture must have licenses issued upon the recommendation of inspectors especially appointed to carry out the provisions of the act, and that all goods must be labelled "tenement made."

A Possible Arbitrator.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—One of the gentlemen whose names are mentioned as probable arbitrators for the United States in the Behring Sea matter is ex-Senator Edmunds, and there are surface indications that his appointment has been determined upon. If that shall prove to be the case the other arbitrator will doubtless be selected from the West. It cannot be learned that any person has been chosen to aid ex-Minister Phelps as counsel for the United States in the case.

Philadelphia's Census.

PHILADELPHIA, April 15.—Word has been received in this city from Washington that the Committee of Investigation into the 1890 census, appointed under the resolution of Congressman Mather, will be ready in a few days to begin its investigation into any complaints which may be made. Under the plan which has been napped out the charge made against the Washington Census Bureau will first be taken up.

Condemned by the Presbytery.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., April 15.—The Presbytery of Monmouth, in session at Freehold, passed resolutions condemning the actions of the Monmouth Park officials in announcing the opening of the race track. Committees have been appointed to get all law and order leagues and other churches to intercede with them toward have the track kept closed.

The Dead Gypsy Queen.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 15.—The body of Annie Lovell, the Gypsy Queen, who died in St. Louis on Monday, arrived in this city yesterday. She will be buried in the same grave in Mount Olivet cemetery in which her grandmother, a former queen, was buried. The gypsies have a plot and imposing monument at Mount Olivet cemetery.

Deny He is Ravachol.

PARIS, April 15.—The examining magistrate has decided that there is no evidence to justify the prosecution of Gustav Mathien, alleged to be an Anarchist, and an accomplice of Ravachol. The newspaper "Le Soir" says that the relatives of Ravachol deny that the Anarchist now in prison is Ravachol.

IS SPRING BEAUTIFUL ?

A LITTLE PHILOSOPHY UPON THE SUBJECT.

How Mud, Cold Winds, and Piles of Rubbish Announces the Coming of the Season.

"Spring, beautiful spring!" How beautiful it is! In the country there is mud, rain, stagnant pools where melting snows have accumulated, cold winds, a chilly atmosphere—in fact, everything that is disagreeable and injurious to life. In the city there are accumulations of the winter in the streets, in the back yards and even in the parks. They are exhaling poisons every minute, and these poisons are blown by the raw winds into the home of the millionaire, into the hovel of the squatter, into the nostrils of every one. A prominent doctor says: "The surest way of communicating disease is by the dust which is blown broadcast and inhaled by every one, whether he ventures upon the street or remains at home."

Spring is not beautiful until it has killed more people than any other season, spring causes more people to feel miserable than all other seasons combined. What do people do? Seek to endure it and tone up the system. This is all very well, very philosophical, but how foolishly people act when they seek to tone up the system. They take spring medicines, blood purifiers, nervines, and scores of other nostrums which force of habit rather than efficiency causes them to do. It is all absurd. Why not realize that all these disagreeable and dangerous things of spring would not be counteracted if the two great organs of the body were in proper condition. These two great organs are the kidneys and liver, and the kidneys and liver can positively be kept in perfect condition by the use of a little right thing. Read what Dr. A. C. Clark, a well-known New York physician says:

"I have never known a case of spring debility, spring fever, or any of the troubles which arise during this season, which has not been promptly and permanently cured by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. Its power at this time of year is wonderful. I have seen women run down by care and overwork, men whose vitality was exhausted, and even puny children restored to perfect health through its use."

Mrs. M. M. Simonon, of Buckley, Mo., says: "My daughter, who was once the perfection of health and happiness, was for years afflicted with kidney and liver diseases, complicated with scrofula, the tip joint being affected. She became so bad that the doctors wanted to un-joint the hip. I would not consent to it, and began administering a remedy which I had heard much about, and I am happy to say she is now cured, well and healthy, by the use of Warner's Safe Cure."

Is it not plain to you that, being in perfect condition, the kidneys and liver will throw off the seeds of disease which the wind and the dust bring into the system, will counteract the reeking danger caused by the ash heap, the rubbish pile, the slimy mud, or the cold winds, the raw at atmosphere produce? Suppose you think this over carefully and see if we are not correct, see if we are not right. When we make the assertion that "spring is the most dangerous season of the year," rather than the most "beautiful season of the year." See if your own feelings do not prove to you that your system is weakened and must have help; see if it does not present itself clearly to you that the only way to help your system is by strengthening the great organs which uphold it. Are we right? If so, follow our suggestions.
