LOCALETTES.

Spring trade is a little slow. The April snow didn't stay long. Clean up the yards and private alleys. Farmers are busy plowing and seeding oats. We have now thirteen hours in this section. Precipitates are more in favor than a delicate fall. Nature seems to have gone into the green goods business. The man who is shadowed is necessarily under a cloud. The next religious anniversary is Ascension Day, May 22nd. A fresh invoice of baby coaches will be required to move the spring crop. If Shenandoah wants to keep growing it must get more manufacturing to locate here. Doctors say that the dust blown about this town from our dirty streets is very unhealthy. If the weather warms up properly a very few days will see spring to unfold itself in real earnest.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my Lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all, eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store, regular size, 50c. and $1.00.

ELECTRIC RAILWAY MUDDLE.

junction and secure an injunction against the electric railway company."

Lamb said he did not think it well to enforce the motion before seeing the officers of the company.

James also expressed himself in favor of a conference with the company.

Mr. Strouse asked, "Mr. Pomeroy, can the electric railway be stopped and cannot the Council force the company to pave?"

Solicitor Pomeroy, instead of answering the question, proceeded to set forth the circumstances surrounding the actions of the company and Council since the passage of the ordinance, including conversations had with Lawyer Coyle and Judge Sadler, and concluded with the statement with a sentiment in favor of an amicable adjustment of the matter.

Mr. Watson said the object of the citizens' committee was to try and have the electric railway extended if it could be done, or else stop the road at the borough limits.

James said, "You don't intend that anything asked here shall interfere with any agreement Council has with this company?" Mr. Watson said that if Council wished citizens' committee to join with a committee of Council that he, as one, was willing to do what he could.

Mr. Strouse again asked Mr. Pomeroy whether or not the Borough Council could stop the operation of the road after the track laying if the company failed to pave, and also whether or not the borough could do the paving and charge the expense against the company.

Pomeroy said he doubted whether Council could, after stopping the company, tell it to go ahead again.

Mr. Strouse: "You claim you stopped them and a little while ago you said you didn't."

Pomeroy: "No, we didn't legally, but we would have done so if they hadn't stopped it."

Strouse: "You have stopped them."

Pomeroy: "They have stopped on notice. It is for the Town Council to say whether they shall continue."

Strouse: "Don't you think it would be fair to appoint a committee of Council and citizens to wait upon the electric railway company and see if an adjustment can be made?"

Pomeroy: "I agree, providing they won't do anything until an adjustment is reached. The difficulty is you want to let them go ahead and make the amicable adjustment after. If a majority of the Town Council is in favor of allowing the electric railway to be moved one foot further in violation of that ordinance, then let a resolution be passed that that position be embodied in a new ordinance."

Lamb again said that he thought it would be dangerous to allow an extension of the road and James said he thought the citizens' committee was fair and that Council should do one thing or the other.

Mr. Scanlan asked, "If the Borough Council can stop the road from running now, even if the company does not intend to run it any further, can they stop them if they go on and do not pave?"

Pomeroy: "I would like to answer that question. I don't suppose anybody, when you consider the expense the road has been put to, would want to stop it." He continued by stating that the road could be stopped at the borough limits.

Mr. Watson said that he did not think it fair to allow the road to continue to violate the borough ordinance for the benefit of the people at the upper end of Main street. He thought the road should be laid altogether, or stopped.

Mr. Strouse said to Mr. Pomeroy "You say the law in the matter is that they can be stopped, but the feeling is to let them go ahead."

Pomeroy answered that he thought it would be well to let things remain in statu quo until an amicable understanding could be reached.

Mr. Watson again said he did not think it fair to allow the operation of the road in one end of the town in violation of the ordinance and prevent track laying in another part.

Strout thought the people on East Centre street had more cause to complain than the people on South Main street.

Finally Lamb moved that the resolution be accepted and laid on the table. The motion was not seconded and Hopkins said he was willing to withdraw his motion if it was the sense of Council that a committee should be appointed to act with the citizens' committee in consulting with the electric railway company.

Coskley said he never had anything against the electric road, but he wanted to hold it to the ordinance.

McGuire said: "I think if the road is to go ahead it should go all through. I move to amend that we adopt that part of the resolutions calling for the suspension of the road at the western end of the town. The motion was not seconded and Lamb thought it would be well to give the company a chance, as Judge Sadler had been busy with other affairs lately and would have more time to give to the matter since that business had ended.

A vote was taken on the motion to accept the resolutions and it was carried, Gable casting the only dissenting vote.

Lamb at once moved that the matter be referred to the street and law committee and Besteridge seconded the motion.

McGuire said the matter was already in the hands of the law committee and it was time they did something and James said, "I believe we are fooling too long with it."

McGuire said: "I don't want the road stopped and I don't believe it will be stopped, but I believe that to enforce the injunction is the only way to get the company to comply with the ordinance."

James said he understood McGuire's object—that it was intended to put life into the committee.

The motion to refer was finally carried and Council then proceeded with its other business.

It is understood a conference will be had with the electric railway committee. After the citizens' committee left the Council room they asked the HERALD reporter to express their gratitude to Chairman James for the courteous manner in which he treated them.

"Joe."

A large and appreciative audience witnessed an excellent production of J. L. Tempest's excellent drama, "Joe," by the "Honest Bube" Stock Company at Ferguson's theatre last evening. The cast was an exceedingly strong one, each member acquitting himself admirably, as was evidenced by the numerous encores received. The scenery, painted especially for this production by our former townsman, J. L. Tempest, was superb, being along well worth the price of admission. Mr. Tempest has proven himself an artist of rare ability. A number of other towns in the region are booked for this season. The public can patronize the company without the least fear of disappointment.

Marigold Tea.
 Last evening Lydia Degree Lodge, No. 112, I. O. O. F., entertained their friends in Robbins' hall in an excellent manner. The Marigold tea, held under the auspices of the lodge, was a success in every particular, many visitors along the line of the electric road being present. Quite a nice sum was realized.

A Corner in Hats.

Some hats are neither worth throwing nor taking out of a corner. A good hat is light, durable, shapely and a pleasure to the wearer; a bad hat isn't worth powder enough to blow it into perdition. Good hats are no more expensive than bad ones, but bad hats are expensive at any price and sensible men couldn't be paid to wear them. Our $2 hat is a perfect gem, and there is no reason to be without one at this low figure. The same is true of our $20 Neckwear and Suspenders. Good shirts from 50c up to $2.
