CASES HEARD IN THE LOCKUP.

THE PLACE WAS FULL OF PRISONERS THIS MORNING.

THE BURGESS AS A MAGISTRATE
A Mute One of the Prisoners.
Mrs. McEver Sent to the Pottsville Jail on a Serious Charge.

CHIEF Burgess Smith held court in the lockup this morning and disposed of the cases in full-fledged legal fashion. The first prisoner was Mike Bolick. He was led out of his cell by Policeman Tempest, who stated that Mike made repeated attempts to cross the high trestle near the Pennsylvania depot, but was too much intoxicated to navigate.

Chief Burgess Smith pulled out his notebook and pencil, adjusted his spectacles, coughed sotto-like once or twice, gazed with dignity upon Mike Bolick and said, "Mike, the officer charges that you were drunk and unable to navigate."

"Ya-a-a, meester."
"Well, the borough ordinances call for a fine of five dollars in such cases."
"Ya-a-a, meester."
"Well, Mike, where is the fine?"
"Ya-a-a, meester."
"And, say," interrupted Tempest, "the next time you start out on a racket, leave that confounded old umbrella at home. I had more trouble keeping track of that than I had with you."

"Ya-a-a, meester."
"Well, you haven't paid the fine, Mike."
"Ya-a-a, meester."
Mike was finally made to understand what a fine meant and he was released upon leaving this silver watch with the Burgess as security for payment. After opening the case of the watch to see if it contained any works, and finding it satisfactory, the Burgess called the next case.

A mute was brought forward by Tempest, who said, "This man makes himself understood by writing on pieces of paper. He says a relative who died recently left him a bottle of whiskey and he is now on his way to Baltimore to get it."
"What is your name?" asked the Burgess, absent mindedly addressing the mute.
Tempest again interposed and said, "He promises to leave the town if we let him go this time."
"Let 'er go Gallagher," rejoined Smith, and the court closed.

To be Heard To-night.
After the hearing in the Guy case in the Council chamber last night, Levi Refowich started to return to his store. On his way he met John Colett, the green truck dealer. The two men had an exchange of words, which was followed by an exchange of several blows. Policeman Holvey hurried to the scene and all the parties went to Squire Shoemaker's office. It was agreed to have the hearing at 8 o'clock this evening. Colett claims that his wife was addressed in insulting language by Refowich, and the latter claims that he was insulted when he passed Colett's store.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.
Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dread ail cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones."—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store.

Mary McEver Again.
Mrs. Mary McEver occupied a cell in the lockup last night and was taken to Pottsville this morning. She was arrested by Chief of Police Davies for being drunk and keeping a disorderly house. She was also charged with harboring young girls for immoral purposes. The police have secured the names of the girls and say they will arrest them at the first opportunity.

THE GYPSY'S WARNING.

He Mistook Mourners For Grave Robbers and Creates Excitement.

A band of gypsies have been camping on the mountain near the cemeteries for several days past. Last night one of them, a man named Peter Guy, saw some men walking towards the Hebrew cemetery. One of them carried a small casket and the gypsy jumped to the conclusion that they were bent on robbing a grave of its dead. Guy hitched up a horse and drove to town with all possible speed. Arriving at the corner of Main and Centre streets he told what he had seen. He soon had the people greatly excited and, like all sensation stories, the report that there were grave robbers in the cemeteries spread to all quarters of the town like wild fire. Guy was excited and as he stood in front of Refowich's store his actions led Levi to believe that the gypsy was one of a gang of men appointed to put the recent Polish and Lithuanian threats into operation. Refowich called upon the police to arrest Guy for disorderly conduct and the man was taken to the Council chamber. There the whole matter was explained. The parties Guy mistook for grave robbers proved to be Jews who brought the body of an infant child from Hazleton for burial in the Hebrew cemetery. They arrived here late in the afternoon and by the time they secured a burial permit and reached the cemetery it was after dark. Guy was discharged and returned to his camp on the mountain.

THIS IS A CASE OF DISTRESS.

A FAMILY ON LINE STREET IS SORELY AFFLICTED.

PUBLIC APPEAL FOR RELIEF
A Son Lying Dead in the House and an Infant Dying—The Family Without Means of Support.

THE ATTENTION OF Chief Burgess Smith was called to-day to a distressing case on East Line street. The Burgess and a HERALD reporter went to the place designated and found that the distressed parties were Washington Eisenhower and his family. In the front room of the poorly furnished house was an ice box containing the remains of the sixteen-year-old son, James. In a rear room sat the weeping mother nursing a dying child six weeks old.

The son whose remains rested in the ice box died at 4 o'clock this morning. After watching the circus parade on Monday he was taken ill and Dr. Stein pronounced it a case similar to sun stroke.
The family has been extremely unfortunate within the past seven years. During that period seven of its members have been carried off by death. One son was killed on the Lehigh Valley railroad about six years and a half ago, and another son was killed by an engine at Kohinor colliery a year last October. Four were carried off by disease, and the seventh lies in the ice box. The infant in the mother's arms will probably be dead before this report is read by the public.
Chief Burgess Smith urges all who can afford to do so, to contribute something to the aid of the family. He will receive all contributions and see that they are properly applied.
The case is certainly a distressing one.

BURIAL OF JOHN PARKER.

An Immense Throng Pays the Last Tribute of Respect.
All that was mortal of the late John Parker was yesterday consigned to its last resting place in Odd Fellows' cemetery, in Tamaqua. Funeral services were conducted at the late home of the deceased in Mahanoy City. There was an immense throng to pay the last tribute of respect to the dead—the assemblage having been composed of men from the highest as well as the lowest walks of life. The services at the home were conducted by Rev. Harrison, pastor of the Methodist church, assisted by Revs. Woods, Golightly and Jones. At the conclusion of the services the funeral cortege moved to the P. & R. depot, from whence a special train conveyed those attending to Tamaqua, where interment was made.
The members of the Schuylkill Press Association attended the funeral in a body, as did also the trustees of the Miners' Hospital and Summer Circle Brotherhood of the Union, the pall bearers having been chosen from the latter organization.
At Tamaqua brief services were conducted at the grave.
The human mind has achieved wonders in many things, but none more wonderful than the curative virtues of Dr. Cox's Wild Cherry and Seneca, for Croup and Whooping Cough.
