THE NEW CHAIRMAN. In another column of today's HERALD we publish a short biography of the newly elected Republican State Chairman, Genl. Frank Reeder.

Now that Harry T. Hall is in jail, there are a number of people to the front with fists reflecting upon his character. "Don't kick a man when he is down" is an appropriate injunction in this case.

THE HERALD will have an interesting article on the proposed water works before the close of the week. The taxpayers will find it to their interest to read it carefully.

THE news of "another tin mine opened" or "more tin plates made" in the United States, gives the Democrats a repetition of those same cold shivers that once affected their political ancestors whenever they heard of a victory with Union arms in war times.

THE uncertainty regarding the White street school building is furnishing matter for discussion by the taxpayers.

THE people will not "buy a cat in a bag." They, very reasonably, demand substantial facts regarding the cost of water works.

THE New York Mail and Express says: "The 'Tariff Riddle' should be freely circulated in shops and factories, in mines and fields, wherever there is a workingman who does not know that the free-traders are plotting to undermine his wages."

THE decision of the joint committee to have its report published in circular form reminds one of a man beating Satan around the stump.

New Move to Exclude Undesirable Immigrants. TO BE EXAMINED BEFORE SAILING.

Provisions of the Bill Reported from the Immigration Committees of Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The General Immigration bill, reported from the Immigration Committees of both houses of Congress as their ultimatum for the present session, is understood to be satisfactory to the Government so far as it goes.

In February last the Secretary of the Treasury sent to Congress the reports made to him by the special commission detailed to investigate the immigration question in Europe.

First—That the cubic air space for immigrants on board ship should be largely increased.

Second—That the present head tax of fifty cents each upon immigrants should be abolished, and a special license tax upon the steamships amounting to $1 for each immigrant be substituted therefor.

Third—That the owners or agents of immigrant vessels should be required to furnish a bond of $50,000 for the faithful performance of their obligation to return to the countries from which they came all immigrants landed here contrary to the laws of the United States.

Fourth—That some system of inspection of immigrants before their embarkation at foreign ports should be adopted.

The Composite Committee bill, now presented as containing the only legislation to be attempted this year, makes hardly an allusion to the first three of the Secretary's points.

The most important feature of the new bill, perhaps, is that which relates to the Secretary's fourth point. It is provided that the lists of manifests of emigrant passengers shall be made out before sailing, giving full and complete information as to the character and condition of each emigrant.

Further than this, the bill compels all companies engaged in transporting emigrants to display in their offices printed copies of the immigration laws of the United States.

THE news of "another tin mine opened" or "more tin plates made" in the United States, gives the Democrats a repetition of those same cold shivers that once affected their political ancestors whenever they heard of a victory with Union arms in war times.

He Got the Right Girl.

Briggs—That was a narrow escape Billdergate had, wasn't it? You know he was just about to marry a girl when he found that she spent $1,500 a year on her dresses.

Griggs—Yes, but he's married, all the same.

Briggs—True, but he didn't marry that girl.

Griggs—He didn't, who did he marry then?

Briggs—Her dressmaker.—Cloak Review.

Human Endurance. Rev. Dr. Fourthly.—The capacity of the human organism to stand a prolonged strain is wonderful.

Father (a few years hence)—No, I'll never consent to your marriage with young Saphend. He's as poor as Job's turkey.

Daughter—Why, he has a whole trunkful of railroad stocks and you are only a railroad brakeman.

Father—Yes, but his stocks pay no dividends, and I get good wages.—N. Y. Weekly.

Getting Down to Hard Pan. Helen Hyler—I suppose you find America very different from England?

Lord Blazonberry—Ah, yes; in some things! For instance, in England, we put the pavement on top of the dirt; but here in New York, you seem to put the dirt on top of the pavement.—Puck.

Tommy's Explanation. "I wonder why that dog barked at the moon all night?" remarked papa at breakfast.

Herote Self-Control. Little Miss (breathlessly)—Oh, sir, papa hit his finger-nail with a hammer, and I'm afraid he's going to have an apoplectic fit.

Minister—Dear me! He's one of my latest converts. What can I do for you?

Little Miss—He wants you to give him permission to swear.—Good News.

HELP WANTED. Bridget (head of the stairs)—Be ye in the sugar, Master Dolph?

Dolph (in a subdued voice)—Yes.

Bridget—Well, if yez don't get out at once I'll be after pullin' you out at Dolph (desperately)—If you will, I'll give you some of the sugar.—Golden Days.

She Was Able to Do It. Tumper—Is the editor at home? Editor's Wife—No.

Tumper—Are you his wife? Editor's Wife—I am; is the business anything I can attend to?

Tumper (sizing her up)—I shouldn't wonder; I was going to thrash him.—Truth.

Pa Was a Poor One. "I had to be away from school yesterday," said Tommy.

"You must bring an excuse," said the teacher.

"Who from?" "Your father."

The Exodus to Europe Explained. Mr. Wealthy—Where are you going this summer?

Mr. Hardup—To Europe, of course. At the present steamer rates to and from Europe it is cheaper to travel than to stay at home and pay house rent.—Texas Sittings.

A Give Away. Minnie Hall—I know you have proposed a great many times since leap-year began.

Amy Butt—How do you know? Minnie Hall—Because your gown is bagged at the knees.—Puck.
