A NEW YORK LYNCHING

Summary Execution of a Negro Fiend at Port Jervis.

THE VILLAGE POLICE POWERLESS.

A Maddened Mob Takes Bob Lewis, Who Made an Assault Upon Miss McMahon, From the Jail, and Hangs Him to a Tree—The Excitement Intense.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., June 8.—Port Jervis is in a state of the greatest excitement still over the lynching last night by an excited mob of a negro named Bob Lewis, a porter of the Delaware House, on account of a brutal assault on Miss Lena McMahon.

The crime occurred on the outskirts of the village, near the banks of Neversink River, shortly after noon. It was witnessed by a number of young girls, who stood about fifty feet away, and also by two young negroes, who would have interfered in the girl's behalf, but they were kept at bay by a revolver.

After the outrage was perpetrated Lewis fled, leaving his victim unconscious and with injuries which will prove fatal. A posse of men started in pursuit and tracked him for several miles along the highway as far as the racecourse, where all trace of him was lost.

The posse was determined, however, and after much difficulty he was traced to Cuddenbackville, a small village on the Delaware and Hudson Canal about nine miles from Port Jervis, where he was captured by Sol Carley, Duke Harton and a man named Coleman. The fugitive had boarded a canal boat at Huguenot and had reached Cuddenbackville when intercepted and taken.

On the way back to Port Jervis Lewis confessed the crime and implicated William Foley, a white man, who he claimed was in the conspiracy to ruin Miss McMahon. Foley has been paying attention to the girl against the wishes of her parents, and the feeling against him is such that should he be taken a fate similar to that which has overtaken Lewis would probably be meted out to him.

News of the capture soon spread through the town, and a large crowd of excited men collected about the village lockup, awaiting the arrival of the prisoner. The words were quietly whispered through the crowd: "Lynch him! Lynch him!" The suggestion spread like wildfire, and it was evident that the fate of the prisoner was sealed.

On his arrival at the lockup he was taken in hand by the mob. The village police endeavored to protect him, but their efforts were unavailing. It was at first proposed to have Lewis identified by his victim before hanging him in order to make sure that he was the guilty party. With this object in view the mob tied a rope around his body and dragged him up Hammond and down Main street as far as the residence of E. J. Fowler.

By this time the passions of the mob had reached a state of uncontrollable excitement, and it was decided to dispose of him without further ceremony. A posse was adjusted about his neck and he was strung up to a neighboring tree in the presence of a howling mob of over 1,000 people.

For over an hour the body hung suspended from the tree, where it was viewed by crowds of people.

Lewis is about 33 years of age and has resided in Port Jervis about one year. His parents live in Paterson, N. J.

"We always fry ours in Cottolene."

Our Meat, Fish, Oysters, Saratoga Chips, Eggs, Doughnuts, Vegetables, etc.

Like most other people, our folks formerly used lard for all such purposes. When it disagreed with any of the family (which it often did,) we said it was "too rich."

We finally tried

and not one of us has had an attack of "richness" since. We further found that, unlike lard, Cottolene had no unpleasant odor when cooking, and lastly Mother's favorite and conservative cooking authority came out and gave it a big recommendation which clinched the matter. So that's why we always fry ours in Cottolene.

On every horse will be found, on the inside of each foreleg, a dry, gray wart about the size of a silver dollar, apparently of no possible use. It is said that when the weary, overtaxed animal, sweating at every pore and covered with foam, can reach down and rub with his wet nose this always dry, hard substance, he is instantly refreshed with an odor like geranium.

ON GETTYSBURG'S FIELD

Dedication of the High Water Mark Monument.

MANY DISTINGUISHED VISITORS.

Governor Pattison Present With a Large Party—The President Unable to Attend—Ex-Governor Beaver the Orator—Description of the Monument.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 8.—The High Water Mark Monument was dedicated here yesterday afternoon in the presence of an immense throng largely composed of Union veterans, in which the First, Second, Third, Fifth, Sixth, Eleventh and Twelfth Army Corps, as well as the artillery and cavalry, were well represented, together with the representatives of the Army of the Potomac, the executives of this and adjacent States and others.

Gov. Pattison and party, numbering 200 persons, arrived early. Among the party were Mrs. Pattison, Major-General Snowden, Col. Austin Curtin, Col. Charles Green and the members of the Supreme Court, Captain Booth of the United States Army, Col. Chambers McKibbin, Adjt.-Gen. Greenland and Quartermaster McClellan. Immediately upon the arrival of the Governor and party were taken to the High Water Mark Monument.

President Harrison was expected, but Col. Bauselder received a telegram in the morning from Private Secretary Halford, saying that President Harrison found it impossible to attend the dedication. The Marine Band, however, arrived at noon. The exercises at the monument began at 1 o'clock. Rev. H. W. McKnight, of the Pennsylvania College, opened with prayer. Hon. Edward McPherson extended a welcome to the Gettysburg Col. Bauselder told why the cope of trees was called the High Water Mark.

Samuel M. Swope, of Gettysburg, unveiled and presented the monument to the Memorial Association, and John M. Vandervelde, of Philadelphia, recited it. Ex-Gov. James A. Beaver delivered the oration and James Jeffrey Roche, of Boston, read the poem. Short addresses were also made by Gens. Schofield, Slocum, Webb and Vessey and other prominent military men.

The High Water Mark Monument consists of a broad marble pedestal backed on either side by cannon, and surmounted by a great open book of bronze, the left page of which gives the names of Confederate commanders involved in that grand, mad charge, and on the right the names of the commanders of the Federal regiments which met, dispersed and annihilated the enemy.

Near by is a small monument that marks the spot where Captain Andrew Cowan put his New York battery from the Sixth Corps when the one that previously held the point had been disabled. In the fight, Captain Cowan lost all his commissioned and non-commissioned officers and had to serve a gun himself. The monument bears an inscription that tells significantly what a "hell corner" it was during the charge of Pickett: "Double canister at ten yards."

In all 870 monuments have been erected by the various States in honor of their citizens who fought there.

A POOR WOMAN'S GOOD FORTUNE.

Now Wealthy, After Living in Want For Years at Passaic, N. J.

PASSAIC, N. J., June 8.—Mrs. Gertrude Kessler, a widow, who has been a charge upon the good women of the Baptist Church for years, and lived in an humble room on the top floor of a Passaic tenement, has just received a call from her brother, Andrew Kessler, whom she had supposed to be dead these twenty-five years.

Andrew brought the news that another brother, Henry Kessler, who had died a year ago at Cleveland, had left $77,000 to be divided between them.

Gertrude Kessler came to America from Germany thirty-six years ago. Her parents died and her brothers disappeared. Then she married a man named Kessler, who was, however, no relative. He died some years ago. She has had a hard struggle with poverty, now happily terminated.

Will Not Make an Investigation.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—The Press Committee in the case of James R. Young, late Executive Clerk of the Senate, and a brother correspondent, have decided that they have no jurisdiction in the case. Upon inquiry into the charges that Mr. Young had been derelict in his duties as an officer in the Senate by making public executive business, the committee say all correspondents deny receiving such information from him. The committee, therefore, believe the charges unfounded, and decide an investigation impolitic.

A Thousand Men Out of Work.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 8.—An explosion of chemicals occurred in the mixing department of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, at Creighton station, during the morning. The building burned rapidly, and within an hour the plant was almost entirely destroyed. The loss is estimated at from $50,000 to $60,000, with an insurance of $10,000. One thousand men will be thrown out of employment until the works are rebuilt.
