PURTE IN THEIR MIDST.

A Touching Episode of Everyday Life in the Tenement Districts. The following pathetic story will be read All kinds of Canned with tearful interest by our many readers. The incident occurred in New York City: "Ring around the rosle! A penny for a Imported and Do- posey !" sang a merry crowd of little ones as they, with joined hands, danced around mestic Cheese, Fine a ring June 14, in the back yard of a big street. They were having a jolly time despite the fact that the yard was small and dirty and God's sunlight was shut out by the towering walls of the brick tenements around it. The shadows of life fall early and thick in this neighborhood, and the children make the most of their simple pleasures. One of the bappiest in the whirling brong was Madeline, the blue-eyed, golden-haired, little five-year-old daughter if Henry Buck, a tailor, who lived in the enement. Faster and faster whirled the children and louder and louder rang the song. The circling became too fast for Madeline's little legs and the strain too great for per weak arms. She stumbled. The next noment, unable to hold her playmates ands, she fell violently out of the circle.

Her head came in contact with the corner of a small shed and she fell to the ground unconscious. The children at once storped their play and ran to their assistance. She revived in a moment or two in finish and quality with rock and was helped into her home. Meningitis set in the next day.

"Papa! papa!" she called to her father as the glare of Friday was deepening into the twilight, "Tum kiss me."

As the father bent over the child to comply with the request the little eyelids quivered and then closed. Before he could touch the child's lip the young life had

THE MALIGNED "KICKER." He Does Much to Preserve a Proper Equilibrium.

The "kicker" is not generally looked upon as a philanthropist and a benefac-tor to the race, but it would not be a very difficult matter to prove him so.

There is no man who is such a terror to corporations as the intelligent "Ricker." It is to him that the public owes most of the pleasures, luxuries and privileges which it enjoys, by means of the various corporate bodies which make our most important im-provements. A "kicker" is a man who objects to established abuses which have grown into customs. He is not well-pleased, and while there may be several hundred other men who are ing to protest, passing the discomforts by with the remark: "This is almost past enduring, but one doesn't like to make himself disagreeable." And all these go their way, and nothing is done nothing to doesn't like to make himself disagreeable." equally uncomfortable, they are unwillway, and nothing is done until the kicker comes along. Then there is a time. Timid people sit back and indulge in little chuckles of amusement, and those who would not be disagree-able for all the world, look on with one eye over the tops of their newspapers, eagerly watching the effect of the on-slaught, and hoping for a victory on the part of the objector over the tyranny of the corporation. By and by some one catches the fever, and there are two or three disaffected spirits, and the war goes on more fiercely than ever. The louder the noise of the battle, the

And by and by the fearful and unwilling the would-be-agreeables make their appearance, and some one says: "What a time we have had existent." a time we have had getting things as we wanted them," and the others chime in, and say: "What a time, indeed, but we beat 'em, after all, didn't we, boys! A German Schoolmaster.

After teaching school for fifty-one years Johann Jacob Haberle, of Germany, died some years ago, and his diary has just been published, in which the punishments he administered are all noted down. He gave 911,517 strokes with the stick, 240,100 "smites" with a birch rod, 10,986 hits with a ruler, 136, 715 hand smacks, 10,285 sinps on the face 7,905 boxes on the ears, 115,860 blows on the head, 12,768 tasks from the Bible, the head, 19,768 tasks from the Bible, catechism, the poets and grammar—every two years he had to buy a Bible to replace the one so roughly handled by his scholars—777 times he made his pupils kneed on peas, and 5,001 scholars had to do penance with a ruler held over their heads. As to his abusive words, not a third of them were to be found in any dictionary.—Chicago Times.
