BEFORE THE CONVENTION. We credit the Democratic New York Sun for the choice paragraphs below:

"One glorious and undying honor is Senator Hill's name, before a delegate enters the Chicago Convention. He has fought the third term canvass of Grover Cleveland, without fear, hesitation, or disguise, and almost single handed. He has shown himself to be a Democrat and a man. He has fought boldly in his own name, behind no other man's shield, with the flag of Democracy and no other banner floating over him."

"The Democracy will never forget the heroic services Hill has rendered in this momentous contest; and the country will live in perpetual enjoyment of its fruits. The third term scheme will never be attempted again in any party!"

"The 'hoodle' mentioned must have accomplished its purposes. Cleveland gets there."

JERSEY CITY Town Talk which was very fond of Blaine, comes out with an editorial broadside for Harrison and Reid and this excellent sentiment:

"How is it about the Boodle fund of $30,000 said to have been raised in this town to promote the ambition of the Stuffed Prophet? Considering what they have spent, there can't be much of it left by this time."

"The 'hoodle' mentioned must have accomplished its purposes. Cleveland gets there."

"The Democracy will never forget the heroic services Hill has rendered in this momentous contest; and the country will live in perpetual enjoyment of its fruits. The third term scheme will never be attempted again in any party!"

GEORGE W. CHILDS, of the Philadelphia Ledger, in speaking of the two convention cities, says: Minneapolis is a much smaller city than Chicago, but it entertained the Republican convention handsomely, and no complaints were heard of either bed or board. The price of board, instead of being increased, was actually reduced by the opening of temporary restaurants under the management of women belonging to various churches and to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Great buildings were also fitted up as lodging houses, so that every one of the thousands of visitors was comfortably provided for and there was room to spare. Chicago, on the other hand, appears to have doubled up prices and to be making no special effort to please the delegates in any way. The fact of the matter is that the smaller cities, if enterprising enough to invite a convention to visit them, are much to be preferred to large cities. In a small city business men unite to make a good impression; in a big city every man is for himself and there is no concert of action.

SENATOR QUAY has announced his intention of calling on the President shortly. To Collector Cooper, who saw him in Washington, Monday, he said the ticket would receive his cordial and hearty support, and stated further that he would call on the President in a few days. President Harrison has told those who have called on him since the convention that in the event of his re-election all Republicans who helped to bring about the result would be treated alike, without regard to their attitude at Minneapolis, and it is believed that this expression of the President's sentiments has as much, as anything, caused Senator Quay to decide upon a call at the White House.

THE Blaine resolution of condolence adopted by the Chicago convention on Tuesday was a graceful tribute to a political opponent, upon whom the hand of bereavement has been so heavily laid within a brief period. There was nothing of a partisan character in it, and no political construction could be placed upon it. The applause with which the resolution and its unanimous adoption, were the best evidence that the resolution and the vote were the promptings of sincere sympathy.

HARRISON and Reid have been notified of their nomination.

It is the old ticket—Harrison against Cleveland.

"RECIPROCITY" or Retaliation" is a good campaign cry.

Hot weather and politics travel together.

The Ex-President Nominated On the First Ballot.

STORMY SCENES AT THE SESSION LAST NIGHT.

FIGHT OVER THE TARIFF PLANK.

Great Enthusiasm Manifested When Gov. Abbott Placed Cleveland in Nomination. Hill's Name Loudly Cheered—Principles of the Democratic Party as Embodied in the Platform—The Tariff Plank as First Read Not Considered Strong Enough, and an Amendment Substituted—Heroic Work of the Band—The New York Delegates Started to Withdraw from the Convention—Scenes and Incidents of the Proceedings.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Grover Cleveland was this morning nominated for President by the Democrats in National convention assembled, on the first ballot. He received 616 1-3 votes.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The convention effected a permanent organization at the morning session, selecting W. L. Wilson of West Virginia for permanent chairman.

The report of the Committee on Rules settled the unit question in favor of the unit rule. The Committee on Credentials had little to do, since there were no contests of any importance.

At the evening session there was an exciting and interesting debate over the substitution of the minority report of tariff plank in the platform.

The majority of the committee reported practically the plank of the convention of 1884, while the minority followed closely that adopted by the Democratic convention of 1876. The minority report was adopted.

Then came the speeches putting in nomination Grover Cleveland, David Bennett Hill, and Gov. Boies of Iowa. There was a great demonstration at the mention of each of these names.

The Second Day's Proceedings. At 11:15 not one-fifth of the delegates were in their seats, but there was a good deal of private conferring going on in the passages.

Gov. Francis, of Missouri, though not a delegate, was earnestly talking with those who were delegates.

Permanent Chairman Wilson, his intellectual face beaming with the pleasure of the anticipated fray, held quite a little informal levee.

At 11:17 the New York delegation, Gov. Flower and Chairman Murphy hand in hand, and closely followed by Mr. Croker and the rest of the delegation, made their way to the platform, and from that conspicuous point, where the galleries could plainly see them, fled back to their seats on the left of the main aisle, accompanied by cheers.

Cleveland Manager Whitney came in soon afterwards and joined the anti-snappers amid applause.

In the long walk the band was the only source of relief for the impatient galleries.

Precisely at 11:30 Temporary Chairman Owens rapped the Convention to order, and called upon the Rev. Alfred Henry, of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Chicago, to offer prayer.

Just as the prayer concluded, the Iowa phalanx entered the hall, the big blue banner with the picture of Horace Boies being borne in front of them.

There were cheers from all parts of the hall, and the band very inappropriately struck up "Maryland, My Maryland."

EUROPEAN VISITORS.

They Will Come as Prospectors to the New World.

Hon. Walter E. Gardner, the United States consul at Rotterdam, forwards an interesting letter upon the subject of the minimum cost per person for transportation and subsistence of Europeans who may wish to visit the world's fair. He says that there has been a great deal of comment lately in European newspapers, and also a great deal of inquiry at his consulate and other United States consulates in Europe. He says:

"The European, unlike the American, does not decide and act quickly; he must deliberate. His deliberation concerning a personal visit to Chicago will not begin until he has been authoritatively informed of the cost, and will not culminate in a decision until long thereafter. The European is unlike the American, too, in that a voyage across the ocean is to him an event, not an incident grown commonplace; his resolution to make the voyage must have time.

"What is here written relates, of course, to the European in moderate circumstances, to whom the offer of cheap fares would be an inducement. The wealthy few will go irrespective of low circular rates; but the wealthy few, whose interest and whose future are irrevocably European, will seek recreation only. The men of whom I write, and with some of whom I have talked, young business men, tradesmen and clerics, well educated, well disciplined and of good physical and mental and moral health, will go as prospectors alert to discover whether the new world holds for them better opportunities than the old.

"Rightly utilized, the event of the world's exposition may be made the incentive of an ultimate immigration into the United States of a class of men and women whose coming into any community would be welcome."
