BEFORE THE NOMINATION.

The Cincinnati Enquirer, Democratic, published by John R. McLean, never dreamed that the Democratic National Convention would put him "in a hole" by nominating his enemy, Grover Cleveland. The following headlines, copied from his paper, will haunt him all through this campaign:

THAT WHICH Washington could not conscientiously take. That which Grant tried to obtain, but had to submit to cold refusal.

That which the father of his country thought should never be bestowed.

That which the saviour of his country was denied—namely, a third nomination. Is now sought—aye, demanded—in this generation—and by whom?

By a man who has already been crowned with that laurel wreath.

Which the sainted Tilden lost through diabolical treachery?

Which the immortal Hancock and Seymour the great were deprived of.

And which did not even adorn the brow of learned and illustrious Greeley.

Thou mayst call this sentiment, dearly beloved brethren—perhaps it is.

But does the text avow of policy? No, no, Clarence—or of politics?—nay, nay, Pauline.

Neither does the inspiration reveal a solitary line of Democracy—yet if, after a fruitless search for ages, a man has been discovered who is greater than his party.

THEN LET IT GO AT THAT.

The fine hand of Col. J. K. P. Scheiffy was seen in the demonstration last evening. No use, Colonel, however deserving you may be, and in case of Cleveland's election, of which there is not the remotest probability, you will not be "in it" for the postmastership. West Penn, or the Brunswigs, can furnish all the material wanted to fill offices, should there be any to go around.

THE National Democratic Convention first rapped Cleveland across the knuckles on the tariff question and then nominated him for President. That is like a teacher putting a fool's cap upon the bad boy's head and then standing him up to be laughed at.

THE Shenandoah elevated railroad is not running just now. Meanwhile the structure continues an eye-sore to Fourth ward residents.

THE first gun of the campaign has been fired in a grand ratification meeting in New York, at which McKinley sounded the keynote.

THE Tammany braves will have to eat crow or put on more war paint and keep their tomahawks brightened up.

THE Glorious Fourth is rapidly approaching and the discharges of fire crackers are becoming more frequent.

"I AM a Democrat" is becoming a chestnut. What is a Democrat, anyway?

WILL the White street school house be saved? The taxpayers hope so.

THE brewery is going to be a "go." Further particulars on Monday.

MURDERED HIS NURSE

An Italian's Crime in a Reading Hospital.

SISTER HILDABERTA STRICKEN DOWN

She Had Ministered to Her Slayer for Weeks—No Motive, Whatever, for the Horrible Deed—Threats to Lynch the Assassin Freely Made.

READING, Pa., June 24.—Sister Hildaberta, who was stabbed at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday afternoon by an Italian patient, cannot recover.

At about 5 o'clock the inmates and attendants of the hospital on the ground floor were startled by a shrill scream of "murder."

Looking toward the kitchen they saw a tall, thin, pale-faced man stabbing a black-robed Sister who had just descended from one of the upper wards. The man had seized the skirts of her robe and was hacking her to death with a knife.

He had approached her from behind, and after clutching her apparel he swung his right hand around and plunged the knife into her abdomen. The Sister turned, and the murderer stabbed her again in the right breast.

Then she struggled and sank to the floor, and as she went down the assassin struck her a third time. He was about sinking the blade into her neck when the people rushed in, overpowered him, and held him prisoner until the police came.

The assassin was an Italian named Pedro Buenerri, who has lived in Reading some time, following the occupation of shoemaker. Four months ago he sustained severe injuries in a fire and was admitted to the hospital. For the past four weeks Sister Hildaberta was in his ward.

Night and day she waited on the Italian with loving care. Yesterday afternoon she passed through the ward, as was her custom, and served each of the patients with a glass of milk. The Italian was served with the rest, and behaved as well as usual.

Sister Hildaberta then left the ward and went down toward the kitchen. The Italian followed her.

He had borrowed a large pocket knife during the afternoon from Scott, the animal keeper, who was torn by a tiger in one of the cages of the Forepaugh show when it paraded here some weeks ago.

It had a sharp blade four inches long. With the knife concealed in his sleeve he followed the unsuspecting Sister down the stairway, and overtaking her at the kitchen, struck her down.

The entire hospital was thrown into intense excitement. Threats of lynching were made as the assassin was hurried away to jail. A short time before he was burned he made a murderous assault on a farmer about a pair of boots.

When asked why he had attacked the Sister, he replied to Police Sergeant Mayors: "Merican girl no like Italian."

THE DANN DEFALCATION.

Said Now That It Will Not Amount to More Than $75,000.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 24.—At the secret meeting of the bank directors it was expected that Mr. Dann would make a full confession, but on advice of his counsel he declined to tell what had become of the money. He made one important statement, however, which was that the defalcation would not amount to over $75,000.

He did not tell where Judge Daniels' $10,000 had gone, though pressed to do so by the directors, but said he would explain at some other time. It was stated that he had promised the Board that within 30 hours he would turn over to the bank $25,000 in cash and $50,000 in other securities. His counsel asked if the directors would agree not to prosecute if this was done, but they refused to make any promise.

President Beard went to the Police Court and swore out a warrant for Dann's arrest. Mr. Beard alleged that Dann had appropriated $10,000 last Saturday for his own use. It is believed to be Judge Daniels' deposit. The first warrant for Dann's arrest charged him with taking $850.

Late in the afternoon Dann was arrested and brought before Justice Farrington. Bail was fixed at $20,000 which was furnished. The date of the hearing of the case was not set.

Swiss Watch Exhibit at the Fair.

LONDON, June 24.—The Swiss National Council has voted one hundred and twenty thousand francs for exhibits at Chicago of the Swiss watchmaking industry. There was considerable hesitation about voting the money, on the ground that the American watch manufacturers had attained considerable perfection, and would take advantage of the opportunity to copy the Swiss models. One member of the council is said to have remarked that American watches were fully up to anything Switzerland could produce.

A NATURAL TOMB.

For Ages a Death Trap for Wild Animals.

A Montana Cave That Has Caused the Disappearance of Many Buffaloes—A Curious Subterranean Charnel House.

The cave recently discovered continues to be the center of attraction to all interested in the wonderful and phenomenal freaks of nature, says the White Sulphur Springs Husbandman.

The cave is located in the dry range, twenty-five miles northwest from town, in the vicinity of the Len Lewis and John Moore ranches.

The mouth of the cave is from two to three feet wide and six feet long, located on the southeast side near the top of a pocket in the mountain. The cave is almost the shape of a flask, thirty-four feet deep, and the bottom being sixty-two feet long and thirty feet wide. We speak of the bottom of the cave but mean the top of the debris and vast amount of bones of animals which fills the space of what may be called the bottom.

Be it known that the cave, instead of being adorned with crystals and stalactites and stalagmites, is a regular charnel house, and evidently has been a death trap for ages to the unsuspecting beasts of plain and forest. The opening of the cave is peculiarly constructed for the purpose of relentlessly swallowing any living thing that ventured near its brink. The mouth of this destroyer of the living is composed of limestone rock somewhat on an incline, the depression being at its widest part.

Along the upper side is an old animal trail. It is easy to see how the buffalo or elk passing this way when the trail was slippery with ice or snow would easily lose their foothold and be precipitated into the cave. It is also a plausible theory to believe that at times during the winter the mouth of the cave is entirely covered with snow, so that the unsuspecting animal passing over the familiar trail would at this point, if diverging a few inches to the south, slide through the snow and be swallowed alive.

Many animals, doubtless, were killed by being suspended by the head and fore part of the body, as the buffalo, or by the antlers, as the elk, while many were evidently directly mangled and killed by the fall. But there are also evidences that some landed at the bottom of the pit with sufficient powers remaining to drag their bodies to remote corners of the cave and there perish from wounds and starvation. Some of the largest skulls and skeletons of buffalo were thus found.

We could not determine the depth of the bones in the bottom of the cave, as we did not have the necessary tools for making such exploration, but we counted in eight twenty-nine buffalo skulls, several elk, bear, wolf, etc. I have brought with me a specimen skull of the buffalo, bear and wolf, which is on exhibition at the office of the Husbandman. It is probable that for centuries this wonderful office of swallowing these living creatures.

Old hunters, who have gathered their information from the Indians, say that it is at least half a century since the buffalo was last seen upon the Dry range. It would not be surprising that when further explorations are made human bones should be found. For should the lonely hunter, prospector, or Indian chance to break through when the cave was covered with snow he would be doomed to certain death, for there are no visible means at present whereby a man could extricate himself from that horrible pit. The discoverer has securely constructed a ladder into the cave whereby ladies and gentlemen can enter with safety.

Growing More Liberal

That's what the human race is doing—particularly the American part of it.

There are a few left who are satisfied with ancient history. But most people are ready to apply modern progress and common-sense to the treatment of the human stomach—an organ that demands its rights whether or no; that resents the insults of worn-out methods. All this is to emphasize the facts about

COTTOLENE

There was once a prejudice against Cottonseed oil. But people who are alive, who investigate, who have no bigotry in their composition, have found that pure, refined cottonseed oil combined with selected beef suet is a better article in every conceivable way than hog's lard. And they wisely use it for cooking—and are correspondingly healthy and happy. The sales of COTTOLENE are enormous and constantly increasing; a proof that it is appreciated by appreciative persons.

$11,000 For a Foot.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 24.—The jury in the suit of Albert E. Foth against the Street Railway Company, rendered a verdict of $11,000 for the plaintiff yesterday. Foth fell while alighting from an electric car August 12, 1891, and his left foot was crushed so that it had to be amputated. The claim of the plaintiff was that conductor signalled the motorman before he had a chance to get off and the car was started violently, throwing him under the wheels.

An Amazonian Encounter.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Mrs. Maggie Tasse, 40 years old, and Mrs. Maggie Wetzel, aged 39, fought yesterday in Kensington for the possession of a snuff barrel which the latter's child was carrying. It ended by Mrs. Wetzel smashing her opponent over the head with the barrel, and the victim is in the Episcopal Hospital with a compound fracture of the skull. The assault is under arrest. Mrs. Tasse may die.

Quay Wants to Bet on Harrison.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—"I'll bet $10,000 that Harrison will be elected," was the declaration Senator Matthew S. Quay made to ex-Sheriff Kern, and Collector of the Port Cooper. "And if you hear of any one who wants to accept the wager," continued the Senator, "send him to me."
