BURSTING DAMS.

A Tamaqua Flood of Many Years Ago Recalled.

The recent spells of excitement arising from the bursting of the Mahanoy City dam and the threatened bursting of the Kauffman dam recalls to mind the bursting of a dam on the Little Schuylkill, above Tamaqua, in 1850. It had been raining hard during the night and before dawn Tamaqua was submerged. The Little Schuylkill, Panther Creek and Wabash were one body of water. Houses, pig styes, fences, bridges, etc., were carried away and many lives were lost. Among the victims was a prominent German Lutheran preacher whose name the writer cannot recall. The damage done to railroads and properties was great. The freshet swept through the valley with tremendous force and carried everything in line before it. There were a number of dams on the Little Schuylkill, which, before the heavy rain and freshet, was a mere creek, but the bursting of the upper dam swept the others out of existence and turned the creek into a river. The writer witnessed the freshet from a porch of his house on Hunter street in Tamaqua. There was a row of houses on Centre street and the water was rapidly rising above the door steps. A man who had apparently just left his bed appeared at one of the doorways. Taking in the situation at a glance the man shut the door. Shortly after he was seen crawling upon the roof from the chimney as the house was carried away by the turbulent water. As the house floated past a tree near Donaldson's breaker the man caught hold of a limb and pulled himself from the roof.

Shortly after a cradle floated down the stream. In it was a sleeping babe which was soon lost to view and the writer heard nothing of it until a few years ago he learned the babe had been miraculously saved. It grew to womanhood and is now the wife of a resident in the southern part of this county. The writer had the name and address of the party, but has mislaid it. If this should meet the eye of one who knows the party the writer would be pleased to receive the address again.

During the flood the residence of Rev. Charles Spurr, who died recently at Mahanoy City, on Hunter street, Tamaqua, was used as a morgue and many bodies were carried there to be prepared for burial.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. C. H. Hagenbuch, Druggist.

NOTES OF WESTERN TRAVELS.

Interpreted by a Townsman Who Recently Returned East.

During a recent visit to the West the writer visited a relative who resides near the junction of the Tippecanoe and Wabash rivers, in Indiana, and was shown a large number of relics of ancient Indian times ploughed up on the farms in that locality. Among the relics were a cannon ball three inches in diameter, a stone hatchet, many flint arrow heads, darts used for striking fire, and flat and round stones which had no doubt been used by the Indians for grinding grain, etc. These relics were found on and near the grounds upon which the battle of Tippecanoe was fought by General William Henry Harrison, grandfather of the present President, in November, 1811, eighty-one years ago. The writer brought a number of the arrow heads east with him.

Natural gas is being discovered in many places in Indiana where it was never expected. Wherever it is found new towns spring up as if raised by a magic wand, and old towns partake of new life and spread out with surprising rapidity. Industrial establishments follow in the wake of these discoveries when the fuel is given gratuitously, which is an encouragement that is frequently extended. The gas is piped many miles and supplies a great number of towns and cities. Those who use the gas for heating or cooking say they would not do without it at any price. There is no trouble, dirt or waste in connection with it. All that is necessary is to strike a match, turn the gas valve and presto you have a bright fire in your stove. It does not take long to heat the largest and coldest houses, and the heat can be regulated. In the summer, after a meal is cooked, the gas can be turned off and there is no waste.

When the writer was in Muncy years ago that place was a mere village, although a county seat, and the population did not exceed 1,200. It now has a population of 12,000, a large number of manufacturing establishments, some very large and fine business houses, and many elegant residences. This growth is due to the discovery of natural gas and oil in and about the place.

Marion is another place in Indiana that was scarcely known a few years ago, but which is now a place of large proportions with many manufacturing establishments.

One of the largest tin plate establishments in Wales is to be transferred to this country in the near future and located in one of the towns of this great natural gas field. The establishment will employ 2,000 hands.

A number of former Schuylkill county people reside in Muncy and are well off.

Speaking of meeting former Schuylkill countians in the West reminds me of a story told by 'Squire' Hay, formerly of Lost Creek, but now of Dubois, Clearfield county, this state. While traveling through a Western town one day the 'squire' heard the notes from a fife. Listening intently for a few moments the 'squire' made up his mind that he knew the player, although he could not see him. The character of the playing was such that he identified it as that of an old acquaintance in the east.

"If that isn't George Brown," said the 'squire' as he sought the player, "I'll eat my hat." And it was George Brown, a blacksmith, who resided in Schuylkill county in the fifties and who was a member of a fife and drum corps at Tamaqua with James Hinkley, now of Reading, and John W. Boyer, now of New Harmony, Indiana.

A Million Friends.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at C. H. Hagenbuch's drug store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Across the Continent on Foot.

New York, June 29.—J. Edward Stone arrived in this city from San Francisco yesterday. At one time, owing to sickness and storms, he was 135 miles behind time, but on reaching a better climate regained the lost ground.

New York, June 29.—Several steamers arrived in port to-day, but so far none of them brings any additional tidings of the ship, supposed to be the Fred B. Taylor, of Yarmouth, N.
