A WITHDRAWAL FROM POLITICS

Beer and Politics Won't Mix Now as They Have if "Our Jim" Remained an Offering for the People.

E. DAVIS, of Lynn, Mass., who paid this town a visit a few days ago and made a thorough inspection of the M. C. S., G. and A. electric railway, is probably one of the best experie in connection with such roads in the country. Mr. Davis receives a princily salary from the Thomson-Houston company for traveling about the country inspecting electric rallways and pointing out any detects he may discover in their construction. So expert is he, that when ridng on a car with his hand on the motor lever he can bring the vehicle to an instant halt and point out the slightest defect in the trolley wire. The result of Mr. Davis' inspection of "our electric" was flattering to the company. For a new road he said it was the best he had ever seen and he predicted that with necessary wear the coad will rank with the best in the country. His report on the power house was equally gratifying and he complimented the company highly on the entire plant. ***

When digging a trench for the heat and ower company at the corner of Main and Centre streets workmen struck and pulled out one of the wooden water pipes originally laid in town. The old pipe is an object of curiosity and many a story of old Shenandosh is told by those who stop to look at it. The pipe is well preserved.

James J. Francy, of "halls and palaces of commerce" fame stated to a leading cluded from the committee's meetings. politician yesterday, in speaking of a recent article in the Tamaqua Recorder, that he is out of polities. "I am making andown Herald and News, Girardville lots of money," he said, "and building a Gazette, Ashland Telegram, Bloomsburg

"Jim" was all smiles when he spoke of his future prespects and he did not fail to admit that, while the HERALD does not always speak kindly of him, it is one of the greatest advertising mediums in the state. .

m the political field will be a severe blow to many of his Democratic admirers, for with his much talked of brewery be hind his back he would have made a most available candidate And, then, just think of it! with "Jim" in Congress and the owner of a brewery what an excellent place Shenandcah would have been for an occasional special Congressional session?

We hope the gentlemen who are in town studying the social condition of our people | the family residence on East Coal street. A will not fail to urn their microscopes upon large number of town people and people some of the members of Council and the from other towns attended the funeral and joint water committee. They will make escorted the remains to the place of interinteresting subjects and their characteristics ment in the Odd Fellows' cemetery. The would shine brilliantly in the "Conditions pall bearers were Gustave Dusto, Ross and customs of the Shenandoahites." If Glover, Samuel Renney, William Lewis, the inspection is a careful one we may yet Jonas Gilfillan and Robert Leckie. learn something concerning the famous block of stock and the agreement made before the last Council was organized, We may also hope to eventually learn the nature of the agreement that influenced the last election of a Councilman in the Third ward.

THE PARADE QUESTION.

Communication on Secretary Scanian's Version of the Matter.

EDITOR HERALD:-In your issue of last vening I was somewhat surprised to read he interview of Mr. Scanlan, not so much rom the fact that he had been interviewed, as for the contents of the same. In order that the public might not be misled as to the cause of the two parades on the Fourth, I think a fair statement of the case would iot be out of place. Mr. Scaplan says he was not aware that the Jr. O. U. A. M. were making preparations for the day until he had published his notice. The question of raising a flag over the High School, to be preceded by a parade, participated in by all societies of town, was decided upon last April. The flag raisers have gone to coniderable expense in this matter, procuring peakers, music, etc., and the matter has een noted in the public press for the past we menths. Furthermore, a member of he committee called upon Mr. Scanian and notified him personally free works bere his invitation appeared in your paper, that his societies would certainly receive an nvitation to parads with us, but they night be a little late, owing to the delay in grocuring the orstor of the day. This fact, I think, would be sufficient notice for the average mortal, and was sufficient for those societies who kindly consented to as ist us in the work of raising the stars and stripes over the school building. Our preparations-the appointment of chief marshal, aids, division marshals, and inviting a number of sister societies from out of town-were also completed before Mr. Scanlan's committee was organized. The latter gentleman was given an invitation to attend the meeting of our committee this week in order to come to an amicable settlement and do away with the necessity of two parades, but he has yet failed to put in an appearance. Feeling, Mr. Editor, that the public appreciates the work in which we are enlisted, and that Mr. Scanian and his societies may yet Join in our parade and flag raising, we await the coming of the Fourth with much pride. FLAG RAISER Shenandoah, Pa., July 2, 1802.
