CHICAGO'S GREED.

How the Tammany Men Were Imposed Upon.

Old stories are told about the experiences of Tammany men in Chicago during the Democratic National Convention. It seems that the general impression in Chicago concerning Tammany Hall was that it was composed of dangerous and wicked political thieves and robbers, whose money was all procured through stealing from the public purse. Under these conditions the Chicago saloon keeps, hotel proprietors, barbers, hackmen and storekeepers looked on them as fair game for plunder, and charged nearly two prices for anything that a man wanted who wore a Tammany badge. We were told by Mr. C. W. Ridgway, the brother of District Attorney Ridgway, of Brooklyn, who is a member of Tammany Hall and wore a Tammany badge in Chicago, that even at the bars where liquors were sold they charged a Tammany man twenty-five cents for a drink of whisky at the same time that they would sell two drinks for a quarter to any one else. If complaint was made to the cashier or the head barkeeper, the complainant was told: "We have orders to charge an extra price to all Tammany Hall heebers for accommodations here."

It is related of one of the big Tammany leaders that he got into a barber's chair to have his hair cut and was charged a dollar for that operation. On his expressing surprise at the charge the barber said to him that this amount was their regular price for cutting the hair of Tammany men, whereupon the Tammanyite replied: "Oh, my surprise was not with reference to the greatness of the price, but at its smallness. At home I pay my barber $2 for a hair cut and give him 50 cents for himself." The Tammanyite who thus got the best of the barber is said to be John J. Seaneell.

Another story of the experiences of Tammanyites is that Bourke Cockran took a carriage to drive with a friend to the depot when he was about to leave the Lakeside city for the metropolis, and being a little late for the train urged the driver to push his horses. He had some small baggage with him, and on arriving at the depot the Jehu demanded $5. The big orator objected, but the driver insisted that he would call the police, and the experience of the visiting Democrats with the Chicago police had been so unsatisfactory that Mr. Cockran paid the price rather than have a conflict with them.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS.

Remarkable Snakes and Their Extraordinary Instinct.

As to the truth of this extraordinary story we can only refer to the Baptist Recorder. Coming from such a source it should be true:

In Central Dakota on the "Missouri bottoms," there exists one of nature's strangest freaks. The settlers term it the "pump snake." How it came there and where it came from is yet unknown. It first made its appearance in Emmons county in the spring of 1888. A full-grown pump snake measures about sixteen feet in length and about three inches in diameter. They are of gregarious habits, roaming the prairies in large herds, as many as three hundred having been counted in a single flock. In dissecting one of these reptiles there is found a tube which extends from the root of the jaw to the extremity of the tail and terminates in an opening. This tube is about two inches in diameter and lined with a tough, yielding substance similar to rubber. The pump snake is easily trained to answer the call of man. The inhabitants of this section trap them in large numbers.

A farmer on Cat Tail Creek has a flock of twenty pump snakes trained to a remarkable degree of proficiency. At the blast of a whistle the snakes assemble on the banks of the creek. The leader (there is always a leader to a herd of these snakes, who is elected by a two-third majority) dashes into the water of the creek, leaving only the extremity of his tail on the bank. Another snake immediately grasps the end of the leader's tail in his jaws, a third snake takes hold of the second snake's tail in a similar manner, and so on, extending to the water trough in the cattle yards, three hundred feet away. The leading snake begins to swallow or pump the water of the creek, which passes through the long line of snakes as it would through a hose and falls in a heavy stream into the trough.

The agriculturist told of an extraordinary circumstance which occurred a short time ago. While working in the field near his home he observed flames issuing from the roof of his barn. Wild with excitement, he hurried to the burning building only to see that it was a hopeless task for himself alone to attempt to extinguish the flames. In despair he gazed on the destruction. Suddenly he heard a loud rustling in the tall grass, whence issued his herd of pump snakes on the run. The leader hurled himself into the creek; the rest instantly adjusting themselves heads and tails from the creek to the burning building. The last snake, standing on its head, waived its long and flexible body from the tail of which issued a stream of water that was thrown with terrific force on the burning building. Back and forth dashed the tail end of the living hose, squirting the water where it would do the most good, while the loud pumping of the leader could be heard above the conflagration. Within fifteen minutes the last spark was out. Then, and not until then, did the pump snakes quit work. They were completely exhausted, the leader having fainted dead away. The main part of the building and its contents were saved. Thanks to the presence of mind of these wonderful snakes.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. C. H. Hagenbuch, Druggist.

CHEAP TRIP TO NEW YORK.

Low Fares, via Reading Railroad, to the Christian Endeavor Convention. The Eleventh Annual International Convention of the Christian Endeavor Societies will meet in New York City July 7th to 10th, and will be a monster gathering of christian workers from all over the globe. The Reading Railroad will sell special excursion tickets to New York on July 6th, 6th and 7th at the temptingly low rate of a single fare for the round trip. These will be good to return until July 15th, and upon compliance with certain conditions, which will be explained to purchasers, they will be extended until August 15th. This not only places attendance upon the convention within the reach of everybody interested in its objects, but it affords an unprecedented opportunity for everybody else to visit New York City. That powerful body, the Philadelphia Christian Endeavor Union, has selected the Reading Railroad's Royal Blue Line as the official route from Philadelphia to New York.
