STRIKERS AND CITIZENS TO MARCH OUT TO MEET THEM.

Comment Upon the Fact that Troops from the Eastern Part of the State are Hundreds of Miles Away, While Those from the Western Part Are to be at Homestead Where They Have Friends. One Train Passes Through the Town and the Strikers Shook Hands With the Soldiers-The Color Question May Be Injected Into the Trouble-The Matter of Returning the Pinkertons' Arms Causes Some Uneasiness-Scenes at the Departure of the Troops from Philadelphia Becall the Sights of the Sixties.

HOMESTEAD, July 12 .- It is difficult to reduce the feeling of the people of Homestend to words.

From daybreak the town has been in a state bordering on that doubt beneath which smolders a flame that only needs some reckless one to fan it into a conflagration.

The troops are not here yet. They are expected about noon. Acting under the counsel of their leaders and on the strength of p ledges made the military will be received by the people with banners flying and bands playing. This action is a concession by the work men who disclaimed most vehemently the idea that it is in any sense a submission. The feeling is so deep here since the battle of Wednesday that no temporary truce is safe. Arbitration or war seems to be the only natural heir to the situation. Numbers may cower and quiet for the moment, but an adjustment of the differences in some way seems to be imporatively demanded by the circumstances.

This is not the case of a strike in a large city, where the disaffected may seek other scenes, and where, in the multiplicity of events crowding one fast upon another their woes or their grievances meet with a passing comment.

This is the case of a whole town being on strike, of men whose all is treasured up on this hillside, of fathers of families, who have put the savings of a lifetime into comfortable little cottages.

They have cast their lot here for good or for ill, and it is for themselves and for their homes they are fighting.

That is what makes the case so pittable to one who comes here, and which seems to appeal so strongly to the moral influ-ences of the larger world outside for arbitration.

The men are naturally law-abiding, thrifty, honest, akiliful and industrious. According to the latest reports received here there are forty carloads of troops at Fort Perry, a couple of miles up the river, and the others are assembling at Blairsville intersection. Two carloads of guns and ammunition are at Brinton and the first brigade is under arms at Mt. Gretna. There is some comment here upon the and disciplined mercenaries, have imbibed too strong a taste for warfare to give it np under compulsion. A State bordering on anarchy cannot be changed to one of recognized law and order without great danger. The thought is in the mind of every workman that the assumption of authority by the State, backed by 8,000 armed sol-diers, is the preliminary step to the intro-duction of non-union laborers in the Comparison multi-

Carnegie mills. 'Non-union is second only to Pinker-Non-union is second only to Finker-ton" is the feeling that arises in the minds of those whose bread and butter depend on the result of the present trouble. The growth of this feeling may give birth to discrete provide to first disastrons consequences. Forced to its fruition one cry of revenue may place thousands of excited men in a frenzy and "to the works," and "to the bastile" would be synonymous.

While the correspondence between Sheriff McCleary and Gov. Pattison ap-parently shows the reason that induced the Governor in ordering out the troops, another view is had by some of the leaders. They think that the rumors from many points of the active recruiting of the man for the Pinkerton service and the belief among the strikers that the Pinkerton men were assembling near Homestead induced the Governor to take action.

LEADER BY COMMON CONSENT. Hugh O'Donnell's Remarkable Influence

Over the Workmen. HOMESTEAD, July 12 .- The central figare among the locked-out workmen at Homestead ever since the trouble at the Carnegie mills began has been Hugh O'Donnell. He is the recognized leader among the iron-workers here, and exerts a most remarkable influence over them. He is cool headed and brave and had it not been for his efforts it is probable that not one of the imprisoned Finkertons would have escaped alive from the barges when they were besieged on the first day of the rioting. O'Donnell is a man of medium height and slender build, and in no way presents a striking appearance. His features are clear-cut and regular and he has a high, intelligent looking forehead. His heavy black mustache and strongly marked dark cyebrows give him an expression of florco-ness and determination.

He is a native-born American and lives ere with his family in a house which he built out of his own savings. The men look to him for advice in every-thing, and obey him implicitly. No one else in Homestead commands the confidence of the mill hauds so completely.

O'Donnell is a good talker and argues intelligently and clearly, and it was be-cause of this that he first became a leader in the meeting of the powerful organiza-tion, the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, which he represents in the present clash between the Carnegies and their employes.

He occupies this position by common consent, for he is not an officer of the Association, although he has long been a member.

THE COLOR QUESTION. It May be Injected Into the Trouble at

Homestead. HOMESTEAD, July 12 .- The statement of Secretary Lovejoy of the Carnegie Company that he looked for a large number of the locked-out men returning to work at the company's scale is not the feeling that pervades the atmosphere of Homestead. Rumors of an attempt on the part of the Carnegie Company to secure non-union workmen in Richmond and other places in Virginia have caused many mutterings of a vindictive character and these assume open threats when it is mentioned that the majority of the men secured to take the places of the locked-out man are negroes. The color question is likely to be injected into the Homestead difficulty in a very forcible manner if the attempt is made. Non-union workmen of Caucasian extrac-tion would be made to feel their position very keenly, but negroes would fare far WOrse.

M'LUCKIE'S PROCLAMATION. The Burgess Warns Strangers to Reep Away from the Town,

HOMESTEAD, July 12 .- John McLuckie, the burgess or mayor of Homestead borough, has issued the following proclama-

Whereas, many strangers are coming to Homestead with no other purpose in view than to gratify a curiosity aroused by the pending wage question, and, inasmuch as the presence of these idle strangers only tends to further complicate the adjustment of the difficulties and the maintenance of order, "Therefore, I, the Burgess of Home "Therefore, I, the Burgess of Home-stand, do earnestly request and warn all persons not having important business in Homestead at this time, to reimain away from the town, and further notice is hereby given that all strangers will be held accountable for their conduct and be dealt with in a memory surgestead by the dealt with in a manner warranted by the

By 7 o'clock the armories of the First, Second and Third regiments and the State Fencibles were surrounded by a crowd of the friends and relatives of the guardsmen and the usual throng of people curions and anxious to see the boys off for the scene of the trouble at Homestead.

Although the officers and men of the National Guard expected to be called out, the order, when it came, was at an unex-pected time and fell upon many like a thunder clap.

thunder clap. Col. Wendell P. Bowman's regiment, the First, had the post of honor. It was the first to leave its armory at Broad and Callow Hill streets, 578 men strong.

The second regiment, under command of Col. Bosbyshell, marched at 10 o'clock from the armory. There were 237 men in line out of the 251. They followed the first regiment in their march down Broad street and out Market to the old Pennsyl vania railroad depot at 32d and Market streets.

The officers have been drilling the men every night for several weeks past in anticition of going into camp, and they are thoroughly disciplined, well versed in the tactics, thoroughly drilled in methods of abape.

TROOPS WILL NOT BE MOLESTED. Homestead's Burgess Thinks There Will Be No Trouble.

Pattison's action In ordering out troops, said that while he and began shooting at everybody in sight, could not speak authoritatively for the In Court the case was dismissed on the people of the town yet from what he knew of them he was certain that the State troops would not be molested if they took up quarters at the mills. Question of Returning the Guns and Am munition Causes Uneasiness.

HOMESTEAD, PR., July 12 .- The question of returning the guns and ammunition taken from the boats of the captured Pinkerton men at Homestead last Wednesday is at present giving the citizens of that borough some little uncasiness since it is a matter of history that the boats were pillaged by a crowd the moment the detectives were taken ashore. One of the leaders and a member of the Advisory Committee said to reporter: "Of course the Pinkerton agency will make a demiand for their guns, revolvers and animunition and we will do our best for them, but you will understand that for them, but you will understand that we are in a peculia position. "The terms of surrender were that the guns should all be boxed up and sent back to Finkerton headquarters with the ammunition, and God knows when that promise was given we intended that it should be kept, but the mob was too work for up to the state of the stat much for us.

'Those guns I suppose are distributed in every town in the county, and one long-headed fellow from McKeesport got away with seven of those Winchesters.

"He hired , skill to carry himself and guns to Port Perry where he disposed of them at $7,50 a piece, and when we went after him the next day he had not one of the methods of the section of the sect the captured guns."

GEN. SNOWDEN S ORDER. How the Troops Will Act When in

Action. PITTSBURG, July 12 .- The following is an extract from an order issued by Maj. Gen. Snowden referring to the govern

"The movement of the troops will only be in compact bodies. No firing will be permitted except by order the officer in recommend.

"When all other means of quieting riot and restoring order having first been ex-hausted the commanding officer shall notify the rioters that they will be fired upon unless they promply disperse. "Should they not disperse the order to fire will be deliberately given, and every soldier will be expected to fire with effect and continue firing until the mob disperses.

DEPARTURE OF THE TROOPS. The Scenes at Philadelphia Recalled the Sights of the Sixties. PHILADELPHIA, July 12 .- The scene around the Pennsylvania Railroad station at Market and Thirty-second streets reminded many of the stirring sights in the sixties.

Great crowds witnessed the departure of the soldiers, and cheer after cheer was sent up as the trains left the depot.

Many groups of sweethearts and moth-s were shedding tears outside the gates, and many impressive scenes were seen One old, gray-headed woman fervently blessed a number of soldiers, who stood bareheaded while the old lady poured forth her words.

Mining Trouble in Washington.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 12 .- A special from Spokane, Washington, says that a repeti-tion of the Homestead slaughter has begun in the Court d'Alene mining region. The report comes that three non-union miners had been killed by union men. A report comes that the Frisco mine has been blown up by dynamite. The union handling armed or unarmed mobs, and, as men are resolved to drive every non-union the officers declare, in the very best possible man out of this mining district. The women and children have been moved from the mining camps to places of safety

Unbalanced His Mind.

CHICAGO, July 12.-Michael Slater, one of the Pinkerton men who was in the recent battle at Homestead Pa., was arrested on a charge of attempted murder. He entered the house at 805 Fifth avenue ground that the experience at Homestead had unbalanced Slater's mind.

NOT WANTED IN THE BOROUGH.

The Men Take a Peculiar Attitude in Regard to the Militia.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 12.-The locked-out workmen of the Carnegie mills and the citizens of Homestead who sympathize with them, have taken a peculiar attitude in regard to the militia. They raise the point that the Carnegie mills are in Allegheny county, outside of the borough of Homestead, and claim that the borough is in a peaceable condition which does not the a practicate continion which does not call for the intervention of the armed forces of the State, Chief Byrne of the Fire Department, who is also a member of the borcugh council, said to a press representative to-day that the troops are not wanted in the borough, and that while there will be no resistance on the part of the residents the officers have been informed that the town is in the hands of its civil authorities, and that in terference by State troops is neither desired nor necessary.

Anxiety is written on the face of the town's people. Relief stands prominently on those of strangers. Conservative men welcome the arrival of State troops. The hotheaded ones resent the invasion. The leaders counsel co-operation with State authority but angry mutterings show that their view is not shared by these under their authority.

There is no thought that the troops will be molested but danger lies in the desire be molested but danger lies in the desire for rotaliation, or whatever it may be call-ed, on the Carnegie Company for attempt-ing to bring in Pinkerton men. Those who have gone openly about with loaded weapons in their hands are not in a mood to have this privilege restricted. Men who have witnessed scenes of blood-shed, who have seen their failows welter-ing in their blood and who have weaped ing in their blood and who have waged warfare sgainst a force of well equipped HOMESTEAD, July 12 .- A mounted miner rode into town from Six Mile Ferry and reported that 4,000 miners from the Allegheny Valley were gathering and intend to come here and aid the strikers.

The man reported that 2,000 of them were armed with Springfield rifles and that they would come here at once to fight the militia or any other body of men that might attempt to down the Homestead

He said that the miners believed that if the mill men here are crushed into sub-mission it would be a severe blow to all organized labor men and the miners are willing to go to any extreme to assist the Homestead men. The story was not fully credited here, for, although it is known that the miners are in sympathy with Carnegie's men, it is not believed that they could assemble and arm 2,000 men without it leaking out.

NEW CARNEGIE MOVE.

The Men Will Be Charged With Firing On a Government Vessel.

PITTSBURG, July 12 .- When the Carnegle Steel Company goes before the Congressional Investigating Committee an attempt will be made to make the assault upon the steamer Little Bill at Homestead by the mill hands an offense against the government of the United States.

The Carnegie people assert that the boat towing the barges carried the American fing and was engaged in the United States service in towing various govern-ment barges. She was on a navigable stream at the time of the fight.

object of this move on the part of the steel company is not known, unless it be to get United States troops ordered to the scene of the trouble.

Location of the Camp.

HOMESTEAD, July 12 .- Nothing definite as to the location of the camp could be learned in advance of the arrival of the troops, but it was thought that the main encampment would be on what are known as the Carnegie Fields. These are large open spaces just south of the mills and nearly oppposite the present headquarters of the mill meu. The fields run up to the brow of a range of hills over which the night attack of the Pinkerton forces was expected.

Guarding Gun Stores.

Privisevan, July 12.-To prevent any attack on the gun stores in Pittsburg, such as happened in 1877, Superintendent of the Police O'Mars has had every gun atore in Pittaburg watched night and day since the battle at Homestead. Decision of the Muss Meeting.

Homestead, Pa., July 12.—At the mass meeting of strikers it was decided unani-monsly to receive the National Guard with open arms. All the workingmen's lodges were directed to assemble whet the troops arrived and escort them with bands of music to the rendezvous. The greatest enthusiasm marked the meet-ing and the name of Governor, Pattison was frequently cheered.

CHICAGO, July 12 .- A check for $5,000 has been sent to the strikers at the Homestead Mills by the iron and steel workers at the South Chicago Steel Works. Other checks from industrial organizations are to be forwarded in a few days. It is stated at least $15,000 will be collected for

THE BURNED CITY.

Relief Measures for the Stricken People of St. Johns.

HALIFAX, July 12 .- The Citizens' Committee forwarded seven hundred barrels of food supplies on the steamer Ulunda last night, also 35,000 feet of lumber. Archbishop O'Brien, General Ross and others, promptly headed the relief subscription list. All the men in the garrison give mittee were hard at work getting off supplies on the Ulunda, the naval authorities were not inactive. Gen. Sir John Ross had also forwarded, by the Alaska, tents and merquees to shelter some 15,000 peo-ple, as well as a quantity of blankets. The general also started a garrison subscription list.

Admiral Hopkins, although out of the city, gave telegraphic orders for the Blake to proceed to the scene of desolation and to forward such stores of provisions and canvas for tents as could be spared. The Emerald, now on the coast of New foundland, having on board six months' supplies of food for three warships, was also ordered to St. Johns. Half an hour after the Ulunda steamed down the harbor, the lines were cast off from the Blake and that magnificent cruster salled for St. Johns, carrying a large quantity of flour, pork, beef, choco-late, split peas, sugar, biscuit, etc., 560 blankets and twenty-five large new sails for erection into tents, and capable of sheltering 2.000 to 2,500 people.

The Blake has reached St. Johns.
