DECAYING MONARCHIES.

Dynasties in Various European States Dependent Upon a Single Life.

Monarchical Europe is at the present moment in a most peculiar condition, says the New York Recorder. In almost every instance the dynasty is dependent on a single life, the loss of which would result in confusion and a possible disappearance of the national independence. Since the death of Prince Baldwin of Belgium his younger brother, Prince Albert, a delicate youth still in his teens, is the sole male heir to the crown, his father, the king's younger brother, having already resigned his claims to the succession.

Should Prince Albert die the Belgians would be driven either to declare a republic or else to elect some foreign prince as king, for the Salic law holds good in that little kingdom. In Holland the independence of the country rests entirely upon the life of the extremely delicate and frail little Queen Wilhelmina, the next heir being the reigning duchess of Saxe-Weimar, whose accession would involve the de facto absorption of the kingdom by Germany. Should the boy king of Serbia die—and several attempts have already been made to assassinate him—the Serbian kingdom would be left without any monarch, for he has no relative to succeed him. Spain would doubtless be plunged into civil war once more if little King Alfonso were to disappear from the scene. The heir of the grand duke of Baden is childless and afflicted with pulmonary disease. The king of Wurtemberg has no children, and on his death his Protestant kingdom, now affiliated with Prussia, would pass into the hands of a Catholic whose entire military career has been spent in the Austrian army. In England Prince

George's life stands practically alone between that of his father and the accession to the crown of the duchess of Fife, which latter would be sufficiently unpopular to bring about something very much akin to a revolution. In Austria the succession to the crown will devolve upon the Archduke Francis, who is both sickly and stupid and who declines to marry. His younger brother, Otto, is a man whose vagaries have been such that he can only be described as a positively dangerous lunatic. The hereditary grand duke of Hesse is very much of an invalid, and should he die without marrying and leaving children the grand duchy would be absorbed by Germany, for both of the brothers of the reigning grand duke aremorganati-cally married and debarred from the succession.

POOR MAY OF TECK.

Her Wedding Gifts Displayed in the Windows of London Shops.

It is a pitiful item in a story full of pathos that several of the presents originally bought as wedding gifts for the Princess May should now be once more offered to the public, their intended destination lending them a special charm to a certain class of buyers. One feels additionally touched when one remembers the delight with which the princess is said to have received those which were sent to her before her terrible trouble. Yet in a little shop in the Strand, well known to connoissors, who have a very high opinion of Mr. Boore's knowledge of old silver, jewelry, etc., can be seen the celebrated Tiffany necklace, a review of magnificent diamonds, which were bought in New York to present to the popular princess. It is one of the collection of jewels which Mr. Boore may be persuaded to show to special customers,

BOMBS IN PITTSBURG

Anarchists Making Them in Large Quantities.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP A MILL.

Narrow Escape of Workmen at the Carnegie Works at 29th Street in That City—

More of the Reds Under Arrest—26

More Warrants for Homestead Workmen Were Issued Yesterday.

PITTSBURG, July 28.—The police, to-day, have come into possession of facts leading them to believe that bombs are now being made in this city. A merchant on Smithfield street reports to the police that within the past three days he has sold unusually large quantities of small glass tubes and other materials that are used in the construction of the usual Anarchist bomb.

The merchant's customers have been mostly foreigners of repulsive appearance and, he says, Russian Jews, having every appearance of Anarchists.

A remarkable escape from almost certain death on the part of the 141 workmen in the forge department of the Carnegie 29th street mill has just been made public, while the perpetrator of the fiendish act is yet unknown.

An attempt was made Monday evening to blow up the boiler and engine departments of the lower Union mills at 29th street. The engineer in charge of the machinery had left his post but a few minutes. The water man, whose duty it is to keep guard of the gates, fires and water, left his position to breathe the fresh air on the outside of the building.

When he left his post the gas was burning under the boilers. When the waterman returned he noticed that there was no fire under the boilers. He threw a piece of lighted waste into one of the grates. A slight explosion occurred.

The quick return of the water man doubtless saved many lives. Five minutes delay on his part would have permitted an accumulation of gas sufficient to blow the building to atoms and the workmen to eternity. Supt. Dillon was seen this morning and confirms the report.

A sensation in the Private Iams case was brought out when members of the Randall Club announced that they would take steps to have Lieut. Col. Streator expelled from the Randall Club.

Call Finster of Troy Hill, and August Turnop of Allegheny, two supposed Anarchists, were arrested by Detective Mc-Tighe yesterday afternoon. Shortly before that hour the two men came to the Central police station and asked to see Bauer. Their actions were so suspicious that they were locked up. When searched nothing was found on them. The houses of both men will probably be searched.

The police think they are important arrests.

Unless one of the Anarchists now in the Central station can be induced to make a confession, it is very doubtful whether the police at this end can accomplish much more in the direction of unraveling the meshes of the conspiracy surrounding the attack upon the life of Chairman Frick.

The imprisoned men, contrary to the general habits or practices of the element, have for some taken the precaution to cover their tracks behind them, and a thorough examination of the correspondence found in the rooms of Knold and Bauer develops the fact that not a scrap of it bears a date within the past six weeks.

Yet it can be proven by the postoffice officials that the mail of both men during that period has been much larger than for some time before.

Detective Shore, who is chief of the

TO CONFER WITH ANDREW CARNEGIE

Stated That He Has a Proposition from the Homestead Men to Their Late Employer—Its Terms—Mr. Blaine Also Reported Interested.

New York, July 28.—Hugh O'Donnell, leader of the locked-out Homestead workmen, is now near this city and is awaiting the outcome of great efforts to win victory for his cause.

The men are willing to compromise. An offer has already been made to them, on which they are willing to go back to work.

Chauncey M. Depew sailed for England yesterday on the White Star steamer Majestic, and it is considered certain that he took with him a proposition from the locked-out men to Mr. Carnegie, to be delivered to the great steel manufacturer as President Depew sets foot on English soil.

The proposition for a cessation of the troubles provides that the workmen shall be given everything for which they have contended; will sign the reduced scale proposed by the Carnegie works, and will permit the scale agreement to expire in December instead of June, provided the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers is recognized as an association.

This is the one thing that Manager Frick has said he will never do. Before he was shot down he said he would never treat or con
