POLITICAL POINTS.

Local, County, State and National Themes Considered.

Blaine, Blaine, from Maine, is going to take the stump again.

"Tom" Reed's tactics would break the deadlock in Congress and save the country many thousands of dollars.

All the nominations in this county have been made for this year. Now for work.

Go where you will, in any part of the county, you will find that James B. Leasing, the Republican candidate for Poor Director, is well known and very popular.

Congressmen get drunk on ice tea.

Coyle's Legislature boom is expanding. It is only a question of majority.

If the Democrats with a majority of 140 in the House cannot pass any legislation when old Mr. Holman objects, would they be any better off with a majority of 280? Or, is Holman a bigger man than the whole Democratic party?

The Democrats have carried Alabama again! Bring out the roosters.

Senator Keiser, of the 29th district, doesn't seem much concerned about a re-election. He feels certain of it and is not worrying about it.

Senator Hill isn't talking politics just now. He is more interested in base ball.

Senator Fassett, of New York, is now ready to do effective work for Harrison and Reid.

Chairman Carter's father, 61 years of age, "a fine old Irish gintleman, one of the rare old stock," is employed as a watchman in the Philadelphia mint, and has been there for years.

The New York Democratic gerrymander is likely to meet the same fate as that one in Michigan. They were both tarred from the same stick.

INCIDENTS AL A IAMS.

Reminiscences Suggested by the Recent Military Punishment at Homestead.

The punishment of Private Iams is denounced as "medieval torture." Let us see how medieval it is. Gen. Butler is reported as dreadfully shocked at the action of the commanders of the Pennsylvania militia. It is not worth while to allude to the more brutal episodes in that general's career. Let us take an illustration of his more playful methods of discipline, told by himself in "Butler's Book," page 312. The Ninth Connecticut Regiment was sent to Gen. Butler, then recruiting at Lowell. It was mainly made up of Irishmen just recruited, unarmed and somewhat wild, with a propensity for climbing out of camp for a lark. This is the philanthropist's story:

"There was around our camp a board fence, some nine feet high. I put the usual number of sentries on the inside, but I doubled the number outside the fence. I directed the officer of the guard to instruct his sentries on the inside not to have any quarrel or trouble with the men unless they were attacked. But the picked guard on the outside were instructed, whenever they saw a man swinging his body over the fence, to poke him back with their bayonets, using the bayonet on that part of him where they would have the most room, and to do it effectually." A guard who put back on the point of his bayonet the first man who tried to climb over the fence was promoted next day to be a Sergeant, and the tender-hearted Gen. Butler paraded the regiment and said: "Now, my men, I am going to put a guard to-night around this fence with muskets loaded with ball cartridge, and if any of you attempt to get over the fence that way again I will make the man who first shoots one of you a Lieutenant."

These things are to be remembered to be deplored. They recall how evil a thing strife is, even to its remote details and minor incidents, and how dangerous it may be to communities to put aside reverence for the civil law with its safeguards and appeal to arms. An army is organized for its purpose is coercion; its methods are force and bloody. It accomplishes its duty with suffering and preserves its discipline by arbitrary authority.

Iams had to be punished, for he was a disobedient and dilatory soldier; we do not like the first item of his punishment, however justified by precedent; none the less we are convinced that the great clamor raised in his behalf is insincere. It is not due to sympathy for Iams so much as sympathy for his opinions. The one side had a victim in the wounded Frick, and the other side has set up a victim in the punished Iams.

Not Quite as Bad.

An exchange says the meanest man found this summer is living at Hazleton. He was recently married and the bride is not only supporting her husband, but is paying something every month on his first wife's funeral expenses. We haven't got people quite that bad, but we have some who are trying to foster upon the people for self-hands public water works which, they say, the "coming generations" will have to pay for. The cases are somewhat similar, but, of course, not quite so odious.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Arthur O'Leary, general agent of Landay, Ont., is missing. His detention is estimated at $50,000.

—It is announced that John Morley has agreed to take the Chief Secretaryship for Ireland in Mr. Gladstone's Cabinet.

—It is reported that a new play by Sir Edwin Arnold, called "Adams, or the Japanese Wife," has been brought to San Francisco for production at the World's Fair.

—William R. Robins, attorney and conveyancer of Philadelphia, has disappeared, and it is believed that the discrepancies in which he is involved aggregate about $150,000.

—The Russian authorities have ordered that a person who dies from cholera shall not be buried for 34 hours, in order to prove groundless the popular belief that many are buried alive.

—The Pope is reported to have said that he regretted that the priests of Alsace were trying to be faithful to their native country, and declared that he himself felt a deep affection for France.

—The heirs of the late Samuel J. Tilden have paid into the New York State Treasury the sum of $147,283, being the total amount of taxes under the Collateral Inheritance law which was imposed on the Tilden estate.

THE SCRUTINY OF MARS.

Nothing Startling So Far, Added to Our Knowledge of the Planet.

VIENNA, Aug. 5.—Assistant Astronomer Hildebrand says that careful observations of the planet Mars were made from the night of July 30 to that of August 3, inclusive, by Herr Palisa, the chief assistant astronomer, and himself.

Owing to the proximity of the planet to the southern horizon, however, the result of the observations was unsatisfactory. The progress of the planet was watched for an hour.

At a point 52 degrees above the horizon snow fields could be seen distinctly extending 80 degrees from Mars' south pole. Immediately under this point three large, dark groups were observable.

"Perhaps," the astronomer added, "they are continents like those of our earth. The haze which enveloped the lower part of Mars, however, rendered accurate observation impossible. The north pole and the equator were completely obscured."

Destructive Hail Storm.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 5.—The hail storm of Wednesday evening was the worst that ever occurred in this section. The amount of the damage done in the city from window lights broken is estimated at from $5,000 to $7,000. After the hail came a terrific wind storm which leveled hundreds of shade trees in the city. In the country the damage was almost complete to the wheat crops that had remained standing. Some estimate the loss to crops and fruit at $50,000.

Garza's Capture Expected.

RIO GRANDE CITY, Tex., Aug. 5.—If the plans of United States Marshal Paul Frick and his large posse of deputies do not fail, Catirino Garza, the notorious Mexican revolutionary leader, will be in the hands of the law within the next two days. Garza is believed to be corralled on the ranch of Cecilio Salinas, a revolutionary now out on bond, northwest of here.

Weather Report.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 5.—For Eastern New York, Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey: Generally fair; slightly cooler, southwesterly winds.

For Western New York and Western Pennsylvania: Generally fair weather, preceded by showers; cooler, southwesterly winds.
