BOTH LEGS CUT OFF ON THE RAILROAD

THE CASE WAS ONE OF RECKLESS TRACK CROSSING.

THE VICTIM DIED AT ASHLAND

He Was Neglected by His Countrymen and His Identity Was Established After Much Difficulty.

AFTON SEICH, a Galician, met with a horrible accident at the South Main street railway crossing shortly before 9 o'clock this morning. He attempted to cross the tracks when the east-bound passenger train in charge of Conductor "Ben" Hendricks was coming out of the cut that is just west of the crossing. Seich did not get over in time and was knocked down.

The engineer stopped his train as soon as he could and the victim was picked up. He was placed on the board pavement near the crossing to await the arrival of friends and, as the Shamokin train was due, Conductor Hendricks was obliged to pull up to the depot of town.

Seich presented a horrible sight. His right leg was cut off at the knee and his left was horribly crushed. It was held below the knee by shreds of flesh. His head and face were badly cut and bruised. The unfortunate man writhed in agony. Hundreds of Hungarians, Italians, Slavs and others from the neighboring barracks stood about him, but no one made an offer to relieve him of his suffering. They did not even send for a doctor. When conductor Hendricks made his run back to the Pennsylvania depot to go to Pottsville he took down "Squire Monaghan and a number of citizens.

No one in the crowd that surrounded the victim would acknowledge acquaintance with him, but after "Squire Monaghan declared that he would hold the victim's boarding master responsible for the inhuman treatment of the sufferer, several men in the crowd volunteered to point out the boarding house. The "squire and several people went to the place designated. It was No. 9, Schmidt's row, behind the old skating rink. When the boarding master saw the crowd approaching he attempted to escape. He was stopped.

No one in the house knew the victim. Even the boarding master said, "I no know him," but after learning that he was in the hands of constables the man said the victim's name was given above, that he was about 39 years of age and had left a wife and several children in Galicia, about two months ago. The boarding-master then consented to receive the victim in his house. From another source it was learned that Seich had been in this country about six months and worked on the dirt bank at Wiggans' colliery.

Pending these inquiries Chief Burgess Smith arrived, "Jimmy" Quinn brought a stretcher from the depot, and the victim was made as comfortable as possible for his removal to the Miners' Hospital on the 10:15 train. Seich was then very low. Seich's condition grew worse during the journey to the hospital and he died upon his arrival at Ashland. The remains were placed on the return train and are now resting at his boarding house in Schmidt's row. It is quite likely that the county will have to defray the funeral expenses.

Interesting Items Concerning Different Sections of the Region.

A 75-yard foot race will take place at Mahanoy City on Monday between Patrick Hyland, of Park Place, and Edward Sykes, Jr., of Trenton. The race will be for $50 a side.

A communication to the Hazleton Plain-Speaker says, concerning a dispute relative to the object of the National Slavonic League that the by laws of said League plainly states, that only a christian can belong to it; and that each and every member of said League must become a citizen of the United States in six years after joining.

Eighteen drivers, employed at North Mahanoy colliery, refused to go to work on Tuesday morning on account of a new order requiring them to hitch up their mules before the whistle blew in the morning. They went home, but returned at noon, when they were discharged by the boss. The new rule required the drivers to get to their place of work a half an hour earlier in the morning, without any compensation for the extra time.

The Bloomsburg Republican speaks thusly of our old friend, General Blaker, of that county: Gen. Blaker sees the bow of promise spanning his political future. He has gained one hundred per cent. Two years ago he had one delegate, this year he came up smiling with two. It is now only a simple problem in progression. In twelve years he will come in with sixty-four delegates and the nomination.

Hazleton and Audenried will send a large crowd to the Elstaddof.

Prof. Miles, of Minersville, who has been selected as the assistant adjudicator, will meet all the competitors on the baritone, tenor and soprano solos, at the residence of Mr. G. J. Roth, adjoining the pavilion, on the morning of the 15th, for the preliminary competitors, and the best three singers will be then selected to sing in the public contest.

Philip Evans, of Wm. Penn, is particularly pleased at the selection of Prof. Clarke as adjudicator, as he is an ardent admirer of that gentleman.

Gwylim Gwent's beautiful "Breese of Morning" will please the auditors as greatly as "The Summer" did last year.

The preliminary competition this year will avoid the tediousness caused by numerous contestants last year and give a better grade of singers in the public contest.

Shenandoah's quota to the festival which last year numbered 1,050, will leave here in two special trains at 8:15 and 8:30 a. m. and will be joined by the Centralia contingent, who will come in via Lehigh Valley at Brownsville at 9 a. m.

The choir competing for prizes this year will not be crowded as they were last year as the managers of Lakeside have erected a commodious platform for them in front of the grand stand.

Dancing to the music of Schoppe's orchestra will commence at the pavilion at 2:00 p. m.

PETER'S PUNGENT PENCIL PUSHING

HE TURNS HIS ATTENTION TO LABOR TOPICS.

MINERALS IN AND OUT OF HILLS

Surveyor Cochran, of Pottsville, Talks to a Reporter About Water Works—The Estimate he Made.

IT is understood that the locomotive engineers of this state are about to inaugurate a movement against the boy telegraph operators and that they will ask the next Legislature to pass a bill providing regulations for the employment of telegraph operators. The requirements they will advocate will be that every person before taking a position as operator shall have experience of one year, shall not be under 21 years of age, and shall not be assigned to block signal work without having some experience in that line. They will also ask for a provision forbidding an operator being on duty more than ten hours a day. No legislation touching upon railway signal service can be too strict.

This subject recalls to my mind a criticism made by an exchange on a speech made at St. Louis recently by Mr. Gompers, the great labor leader. The criticism is amusing to some extent, and for that reason I give it. Mr. Gompers said, "labor is the creator of all the wealth in the world; look at the grass, the trees, the hills and the minerals. Of what use are all these things until labor has made them marketable? And the exchange criticizing says: "But then the grass was not created by labor, nor the trees, nor the hills, nor even the minerals. The grass is useful as food for the cattle; the trees are useful, some of them in fruit bearing and others to stand under when the sun is hot or the rain lively; and as for the hills, they are useful in various ways to beasts and birds. But not any of these things was created by human labor. The grass and trees grew on the earth, and the hills raised their heads long before mankind got into the Garden of Eden and perpetrated a mischief which has not yet been remedied. Labor is truly a great thing. Few of us can steer clear of it, and nearly all of us do our share of it, but we suppose the globe would get along, and the creative forces would continue their activity, if all of us should strike our jobs to-morrow."

But, then, there is a more serious view of this question. It is true that labor is not "in it" when we speak of who made the hills, put grass on them, and put minerals in them; but let us go an inch or so farther and ask of what use the minerals in the hills would be if we had no labor to get them to the market? No, labor did not put in the minerals, but in this age it is mighty handy in getting it out, even if we must put up with it for three days a week and are obliged to pay the men the $2.50 base.

I had a conversation with Mr. A. B. Cochran, of Pottsville, when he was here the other day, regarding public water works. He said that plants for new water works are the most unreliable things contractors can bid on. They always exceed the estimates, and he mentioned the Lost Creek and Kauffman dams to verify the statement. It will be remembered that Mr. Cochran made the estimate that was used in the water company's suit on the first injunction. His estimate was $150,000 for the proposed works for town.

"Was that estimate based upon low figures?" I asked.

"Yes, sir," answered Mr. Cochran promptly. "I asked all the manufacturers and others I consulted with to give their lowest figures and upon them I made my estimate. I say, candidly, that I would not undertake to give Shenandoah public water works for $150,000. The figures are too low and I only gave them to show how ridiculously small the estimate of $95,000 is."

The Shenandoah correspondent of the Tri-Weekly Record writes that "A majority of the voters of this borough have declared themselves in favor of new water works, at two separate elections. This shows that the people have fully made up their minds on that question, and why a newspaper which claims to look after the interests of the town has the effrontery to oppose the will of the people, is a question of much speculation and, to say the least, has a very fishy look."

The Herald has the "effrontery" to state that a majority of the voters of Shenandoah did not declare themselves in favor of new water works at the special election last June. The vote of this borough is at least 1,809. The total vote polled at the special election was but 1,278 and of that number 514 voted against the project.

Another election would show these water works schemers where they stand. The Herald has not and does not believe that the town can be given 300,000-dollar water works for $45,000 (one of the original estimates) or $95,000. It has taken a stand against the hoodwinking of the public by the illegal joint committee, which found it necessary to resort to a star chamber method for transacting business. Everything the joint committee has done thus far has been tried and turned over to suit the tastes of its members before the public has had a chance to get a smell of it; and when the committee finishes cooking it the only fare left for the people will be—SOUP.

LEAP YEAR PARTY.

A Success, Although the Rain Caused a Change of Bill.

The leap year party that was to have been held at Pastime Park last evening took place in Ferguson's front hall on account of the disagreeable rainy weather, and proved a success despite the unexpected change of place. The celebrated Schoppe orchestra furnished the dancing music and the fair sex did everything looking to the pleasure of their guests. An excellent supper was served at midnight. Among those present were Dr. Stein and wife, M. S. Riggs and wife, A. T. Jones and wife, Mrs. J. C. Keiper, of Washington, D. C.; Miss Mattie Irpinson, of Bramwell, W. Va.; Miss Irene Miesse, Wm. Penn; Misses Jessie Grant, Emma Wasley, Clara Scheiffy, Emma Keiper, Kate Goyer, May Cather, Nellie Reilly, Anna Saeger, Sarah Stein, Naomi Wooden, and Messrs. George Goodman, Mahanoy City; Stanley Swartz, Park Place; William Grant, Hugh J. Evans, George Keiper, James Hughes, Dr. G. M. Hamilton, Dr. C. M. Bordner, John Reilly, Guy C. Keiper, John Scheiffy, Lewis Sadler, W. F. Sadler, Jr., Artie Holloper, Charles Reese, John Lewis, Wm. Penn, and J. C. Brown, Lost Creek.

SHAMOKIN SPECIALS.

Andrew Fulton's Son Dead—A Reading Purchase Report Denied.

David Alexander Fulton, son of Andrew Fulton, who is well known throughout the anthracite region, died at the home of his father in Shamokin, Wednesday afternoon. Death was caused by typhoid fever. The deceased was a little over 24 years of age. The father is visiting in Glasgow, Scotland. He was cabled for last Tuesday.

A report that the P. & R. C. & I. Co. has purchased and will assume control of the Cameron and Luke Fidler collieries is denied. The report grew out of a fake dispatch sent to the New York World.

Considerable interest is taken in the coming State Convention of the P. O. S. of A. at Shamokin, opening on the 23rd inst., to continue for several days. R. M. J. Reed, of Philadelphia, and John W. German, of Harrisburg, are the leading candidates for State President thus far. John R. Mast, of Reading, has been urged to come out as a compromise candidate by his friends, and may do so. The accounts were audited in Philadelphia. The report of the secretary, William Wendt, shows a net increase of 2,000 in membership, making the total almost 50,000 for the state. State Treasurer I. S. Smith, of Reading, reports a balance on hand of $11,808.11. The balance the previous year was $14,000. The deficiency is caused by the reduction in the per capita tax made last year. The receipts of this office during the year were $11,686. The balance in the treasury of the P. O. S. of A. building account is $787.80. The expenditure for the year were $14,800.

The celebrated imported "Anchor Pain Expeller" is the happy relief for all forms of Rheumatic diseases, Gout, Sprains, Neuralgia, Backache, &c. It costs but 50 cents a bottle, and is for sale at C. Richter, 310 Broadway, New York, for the valuable book, "Guide to Health," with inducements of prominent physicians. It will be mailed free of charge.

Successful Lawn Party.

The illuminated garden fete held at the residence of A. R. Broome, Wednesday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of All Saints' Parish Auxiliary Society, was a flattering success. It was patronized by a large number of people from this town, Wm. Penn, Lost Creek, Girardville and Ashland and the society netted a nice sum. The tables were spread with coffee, sandwiches, lemonade, cake and ice cream, all of which there was a bountiful supply.
