WHO FIRED ON THE SOLDIERS?

Investigating the Latest Homestead Sensation—Stones Thrown at Potter.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., Aug. 19.—All is quiet here and but very few of the locked-out men are to be seen upon the streets. A careful investigation of the shooting at the railroad bridge has not yet entirely cleared the mystery. The crew of the freight train from which the first shots are said to have come, swear positively that there were no persons on the train aside from themselves; that the supposed shots were caused by the explosion of signal torpedoes placed upon the track by a shifting crew.

Supt. Potter maintains that the shots came from revolvers fired from between the freight cars; that the bullets struck right in the midst of a squad of militiamen who were doing picket duty. In all 125 shots were fired at the train by the soldiers, but fortunately no one was injured. An unsuccessful attempt was made to assault Supt. Potter during the night while he was sitting on his porch. Four men came along, one threw a stone which struck the house and bounded back into the street. One of the men picked it up and threw it again and all ran.

HIS ACCOUNTS ARE SHORT.

A Columbia, Pa., Bank Clerk Proves to be an Embezzler.

COLUMBIA, Pa., Aug. 19.—About three weeks ago John T. Miller, ledger clerk in the First National Bank here, was given leave of absence to go to the Adirondacks. Not returning on the expiration of his leave and hearing nothing from him, the bank officials became suspicious and put an expert at his books.

The expert has completed his work and finds that Miller has been stealing from the bank for the past three years and adroitly doctoring his books. The officials refuse to give the amount stolen, but it is understood to run well up into the thousands.

Preferred Death to a Poor Wife.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 19.—Isaac Solkins, who had been arrested for brutally beating his wife, hanged himself in his cell here during the night, and was dead when discovered. He is said to have married three months ago out of mercenary motives, believing that his wife was rich. When he learned that she was quite poor he grew abusive towards her and beat her unmercifully. He committed suicide rather than live with an impecunious wife.

COUNCIL MEETING.

What the Borough Fathers Talked About Last Night.

The Borough Council held a regular meeting last night but did not remain in session long. The Councilman present were James, Stout, Gallagher, Lamb, Amour, McGuire, Hopkins, Holman, Devora, Butteridge and Cookley.

A committee representing the Lithuanian congregation appeared and asked that Council put an electric light at the corner of Jardin and Cherry streets, where the new church has been erected. Chairman James said there is an electric light near that place and the committee said the trees of the neighborhood made the light useless for the church corner. James then said it would be well to do as Pottsville has done—trim trees that interfere with the lights.

When the matter was taken up for action Butteridge moved that the matter be referred to the Lamp and Watch committee. Lamb wanted to amend "that the request be ignored," but Chairman James ruled the amendment out of order and Butteridge's motion was carried.

Butteridge reported that little street work had been done the past two weeks and enumerated the places that had been attended to.

Hopkins, for the Sanitary committee, reported that his committee and the Law committee had twice been prepared to meet the principals and witnesses in the case of Constable Phillips, but they failed to make their appearance. Gutters on Oak and Coal streets were reported in bad sanitary condition.

Lamb, for the Law committee, reported that more papers had been filed in the water company suit and added, "An impression seems to prevail that there is an injunction against us. There is no such thing. We can proceed as if no action had been taken by the water company."

A proposition from W. E. Davies to take charge of the fire alarm apparatus for $75 a year was read. One from Francis Lewis, with $8 per month as the figure, was also read, and the contract was awarded to Davies.

Somebody stated that there was no money in the borough treasury. This led to a little tilt between Chairman James and Lamb. The latter is a member of the Finance committee with Gable and Gallagher. Lamb said it was not right for the employees of the borough to be obliged to carry borough orders. They should receive cash for their services.

Chairman James answered that it was not right for the borough to borrow money on interest when sufficient collectable money was within reach of the Finance committee. He thought that committee ought to hurry up the tax collectors.

"But," said Lamb, "we cannot hold these people who work for us responsible for our own—shortsightedness."

"Neglect," added James. Holman reported that complaints were being made about the Delaney property at the corner of Main and Oak streets; and D-vers complained of the sanitary condition of Strawberry alley.

Lamb again brought up the question of opening West street and Stout said to do all the work demanded of the Street Committee would require $20,000. Later on he said I have purchased the old Cather property and I would like the borough to open White and Cherry streets so I can get in and out there. It won't cost much—only about $8,000.

The question of opening streets disappeared amid laughter that followed these remarks.

Cookley asked what had been done by the committee appointed to investigate the HERALD. Lamb said he had been very busy and did not have time to attend to the matter, but would do so next week, or the week after.

WINGED COURIERS.

The Important Part Formerly Played by Carrier Pigeons.

Ovid, the author of "Metamorphoses," makes the first mention of the employment of carrier pigeons. He states that Taurus then gave notice of his being victorious in the Olympian games by sending a pigeon stained with purple to his father at Egina, that being the color agreed upon between them to indicate the son's success.

Pliny states that when Marc Antony was besieging Modena, pigeons were employed to keep up a correspondence between the inhabitants of the beleaguered city and friends on the outside of the walls.

When the French and Venetians invested the City of Ptolemais, in Syria, and the defenders were ready to capitulate, a pigeon was seen flying toward the city. The besieging army immediately set up a terrific shouting, which so frightened the winged messenger that it dropped to the earth and was quickly captured. Upon close examination a letter was discovered under its wing containing a message from the sultan that in three days he would raise the siege with a large force of his soldiers. The besiegers indited another epistle stating that the sultan would be unable to render any assistance, and, securing it to the bird, set it free, when it flew into the city. The captain of the garrison, upon reading this unwelcome piece of news, capitulated, and great was the surprise of the sultan upon arriving with the promised relief to find the Christians in possession of the city.

These winged couriers were also similarly employed at the siege of Leyden in 1672, but in this case the original letter reached the ones for whom it was intended and they were enabled to hold on until succor arrived. The pigeons who had contributed to this successful rescue were maintained at the public expense and at their death were embalmed and placed in the town-house as a monument of gratitude for the signal service rendered by them.

For hundreds of years carrier pigeons have been used as postmen in many other parts of the world, serving alike in conveying warlike or peaceful messages from place to place.—Detroit Free Press.

Yesterday's Game.

The Hustlers of town met their first defeat of the season yesterday afternoon by the score of 7 to 5. Both clubs played a fine game, but the stupid base running of the Hustlers allowed their opponents, the T. Amsters, to win by the above score. The features of the game were the battery work of Glover and H-fren and the second base playing of (King) Kelly.

Open Air Concert.

The Grant Band gave a concert last night at the corner of Main and Centre streets and delighted a large throng by rendering a programme of some of the choicest selections. The members of the band were in full uniform and occupied seats on their portable stand. The audience warmly applauded each piece.

Fine photos, 50c. per dozen, at Keagey's.

A Game Arranged.

The North End baseball team, of Philadelphia, will play a game with the newly organized club of town on August 21st in the trotting park. The North End is one of the best amateur teams in the state.

The Great American Hog

Is welcome abroad once more, and abroad he may go. As long as Lard was a requisite in every kitchen, the Great American Hog was highly esteemed at home; but now that modern science has introduced the new vegetable substitute for Lard, poor Piggy's occupation's gone.

COTTOLENE

The reason for this is threefold. COTTOLENE is cleaner, healthier and much more economical. A trial has convinced thousands as to this. It will convince any "convincible" person. Will you be convinced? At leading grocers.
