THE ENGAGEMENT OF THE VETERANS

"PETER" WRITES ABOUT THEIR REUNION.

HE TOUCHES THE POPULAR CHORD

The Movement Meets With the Approval of the Patriotic Citizens of Town—Other Matters Touched Upon.

Reference made by the HERALD on Saturday to the reunion of the veterans of the late rebellion at Washington a month has struck the right chord. Many of the "vets" would like to go and they would willingly bear the expense if they were able to do so. There certainly should be pride enough on the part of some of our more fortunate townsmen in this matter and there should be little trouble in raising the small amount required to have Shenandoah properly represented among the Schuykill county veterans at Washington. Were the place of reunion under fifty miles away I haven't the slightest doubt that many of the "vets" would try to walk the distance. Come, fellow citizens, send our veterans to Washington.

In conversation with a Lehigh Valley railroad brakeman of large experience, on the cause of numerous accidents, he said: "If you will carefully note it, you will find that nine-tenths of the men who are injured on the roads are amateurs, and the fault is their own. On the start they are over-anxious to exert themselves. For instance, when I am about to make a coupling, if the cars are coming together at what I consider a too high rate of speed, I just step aside and let them come, giving the engineer a chance to 'wake up.' This is seldom the case with a 'green hand.' He thinks he must make a coupling even if the train is backing down upon him at the rate of forty miles an hour, hence the many sickening accidents that occur." I think many old brakemen might also profit by this advice.

A woman of town was very anxious on Saturday to have the HERALD proclaim a house in town a disreputable place. She said she knew the place was one of low character because one of her relatives was among the occupants and when she passed the place stones were thrown at her. This is hardly sufficient proof of the character of the house, and certainly not sufficient for the HERALD to make an attack upon the place. This case is similar to one the HERALD referred to a few days ago. I appears to be a family affair and the idea is to have the HERALD "pluck" the burrs from the flames. We're not "in it." If stones were thrown at the woman she has a remedy at law.

As the time for opening the public schools is drawing near it is appropriate to now warn the children who have been in the habit of defacing walls and fences and committing other acts of mischief about the school properties that no such acts will be tolerated by the school authorities this term. The boys and girls must learn that they can while away a few idle moments at much less expense to the taxpayers. Those who do not heed this warning will have cause for regret ere the Christmas candy time arrives.

The prevalence of typhoid fever and diphtheria below the mountain ought to put our people on the move. It is claimed that the epidemic has been caused by over-flying cesspools. Right here we have much to fear from such sources and if we and a Board of Health there would be some bustling done by certain property-holders who think of nothing but the rents. They should remember that "a stitch in time saves nine," and a cesspool cleaned out in time may not only prevent sickness, but also prevent a claim for damages. There are enough places in town to keep the cesspool cleaners busy for some time.

One of the curious combinations resulting from the energy and enterprise of our business inclined Polish citizens is a saloon and undertaking business conducted in one building by one man. PETER.

A Good Minstrel Show.

There are a number of good minstrel troupes on the road this year and one of these is Emerson's company which appeared at the Academy of Music last night. There was a fair sized audience present and they showed their pleasure and appreciation of the many good things on the program by continued applause. The circle first part was enjoyable and many of the specialties in the olio were well rendered. The musical comedy team Bunell and Adams with their wonderful performing dog created an immense amount of merriment. The performance concluded with a very comical afterpiece and the audience, after a brief spell, left the hall well pleased. It was an auspicious opening of the season and a forerunner of the several fine attractions to follow during the year presages an excellent patronage for the pretty little house—Carbondale Leader. Emerson's Minstrels will open the regular season at Ferguson's theatre to-morrow night.

A Society Shock.

The local society circles are greatly shocked over a recent tragedy (?) at Brownsville. Two young men of town escorted two young women from a picnic to their home in Brownsville a few evenings ago. The quartette seated themselves on the porch of the parental mansion and were engaged in discussing the events of the day when the ruler of the household made his appearance and shouted "Come you snipes, get you home out of here, or I will kick you out over that fence." The male escorts were greatly shocked by this rude intrusion, but retained sufficient presence of mind to enable them to clear the garden fence without the aid of the parental boot. The story got to town in some manner and now local society circles are greatly shocked. There is some talk of the formation of a society to be known as the Benevolent Order of Escort Protectors.

A Grand Trip.

One of the most interesting excursions of the season will leave Reading, Lancaster, and intermediate stations on September 16th for the battlefields of Chichamaqua. The tickets will remain until September 30th and will be sold at the exceedingly low rate of $19.50. On September 13th the battle field cemetery will be dedicated and the excursionists will have an opportunity to witness the ceremonies in addition to visiting the battle fields of Chaplin Hills, Missionary Ridge, Stone River, Lookout Mountain, etc. The excursionists will return by way of Washington, D. C. Harriman, Tenn., where a number of Schuykill counties are located, is on the route. The excursion will be under the management of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company. If a sufficient number of people can be guaranteed the $19.50 rate can be secured for Shenandoah.

Literary Note.

"Romance," the magazine of complete stories, shows every month new signs of the improvement in its character, which began when Miss Kate Upon Clark became its editor. The September issue will be the first of a notable series of special numbers illustrating the fiction of different nations, at least half of the stories in it being from the French. Special numbers devoted largely to stories from other foreign languages will follow. The November issue will be a special American number.

LOCAL CAPITAL IN RAILROADS.

OREGON AND TEXAS RAILWAY IN OPERATION.

AN ELECTION OF DIRECTORS HELD

C. E. Titman Made President and General Manager—An Application Made for an Extension of the Road.

RAILWAY magnates from all sections of the state are becoming interested in the Oregon and Texas Railroad, of which full mention was made in these columns some weeks ago, and the indications are that the road, although of limited proportions now, will eventually extend itself so as to become one of the most important links in the state.

A meeting of the stockholders in town last week was a very enthusiastic one, and all the stockholders were present.

Mr. Benjamin Harrison, of Wallaboro, Tingo county, and general solicitor for the Fall Brook Railway Company, was present and asked the stockholders to make provision to extend the Oregon and Texas road eight miles further, or from Silver Springs to English Centre, Lyecoming county. The stockholders promised to comply with the request and unanimously adopted a resolution to that effect.

An election of directors was held at the same meeting and resulted in the election of the following officers of the board: C. E. Titman, Shenandoah, President and General Manager; Daniel Shepp, Tamsqua, First Vice President and Treasurer; S. G. M. Holloper, Esq., Shenandoah, Secretary.

The principal office of the company will be in the Robbins' building, this town, and a branch office will be located in Cammal, Lyecoming county.

Messrs. H. H. Zalik, O. A. Keim and A. S. Holloper were tellers at the election of the Board of Directors.

Among the out-of-town people who were present at the meeting were E. M. B. Shepp, of Tamsqua, and John G. Reading, Jr., of Williamsport.

The Oregon and Texas Railroad is completed and in full operation between Cammal and Silver Springs, Lyecoming county, a distance of eight miles. The rolling stock and everything connected with the road is complete.

Time Will Tell.

ED. HERALD:—I read your paper regularly and can hardly wait until the carrier comes around. Each day's issue is very interesting to me, and I would willingly pay five cents a copy rather than be without it. The HERALD, by being outspoken and fearless, has won many friends and I admire its pluck. I have no use for milk-and-water newspapers. Nothing succeeds better than independence and strokes at all misdoings. I would suggest that you show up certain married business men of the town who apparently have little respect for their families and whose wives I know to be admirable women.

[We appreciate the compliments paid us by the correspondent, but cannot comply with his request. As we have repeatedly stated, we cannot interfere in such matters. Whatever may be going on among "certain married business men of town" will no doubt be ventilated by the proper parties and in the proper place—the courts—in due time. At present we can do nothing. We will not undertake to create strife in families, or lay foundations for law suits.—ED.]

HERE AND THERE.

Interesting Items Concerning Different Sections of the Region.

One of those who are now receiving treatment at the Fountain Springs Hospital is David Davis, about nineteen years old, who was bitten on the hand by a rat. He was eating his dinner in the mines at the time and was attacked by the rodent which refused to loose its hold until choked to death. The youths' hand is very sore and there is fear of blood poisoning.

Petitions have been forwarded to the President and other high officials of the Reading Railroad Company urging the necessity and importance of having the railroad station brought nearer to the business centre of Ashland. The petition was numerously signed but principally by leading business men having a large freight patronage.

Gordon is not to have a stocking factory after all. The negotiations have fallen through.

Mike Borshak, the well known Hungarian bootler doing business at Hazleton, is missing, and a number of creditors as well as a wife and two children are mourning his absence. He left Thursday evening accompanied by $1,000 which he had collected from his many customers.

New Management.

The saloon and restaurant under the Ferguson House, will in the future be conducted by Ellis Lewis, he having taken charge this morning. Mr. Lockett, who formerly managed the place, is now acting in the capacity of clerk at the Ferguson House.

SUNDAY SERMON.

Rev. Powick's Able Discourse Before His Large Congregation.

The sermon on Sunday morning in the Methodist Episcopal church was on "Justification by Faith." The text was from Romans V, 1-2. "Therefore being justified by faith we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand and rejoice in hope of the glory of God."

The argument of the context shows that all men are sinners, and that as the law makes no provision for pardon we must be delivered from sin, if at all, by grace. Furthermore, that as present obedience cannot atone for past disobedience, their deliverance must be granted on condition of faith and not of works.

The Gospel is, therefore, a message of deliverance from sin and its power. It reveals a divine remedy which has all the status and stability of law—"the law of faith." It is equitably administered by its divine Author without respect of persons. Unlike the machinery of human pardon boards, which is often prostituted to ignoble uses and to defeat the ends of justice in the interest of specially favored ones, God's method of justifying the ungodly magnifies the law and makes it honorable in that the penalty is not remitted but made to fall upon the sinner's substitute "who was delivered for our offenses—wounded for our transgressions—bruised for our iniquities and chastised as the price of our peace." "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

This remedy for sin is made imperative by faith. It is by faith that we have "access" to it. Without faith to appropriate its benefits we shall "receive the grace of God in vain." Many around us are no better and have no better chances of heaven than as though God did not love the world and Christ had not died for it.

The benefits of the atonement are practically inaccessible to them for want of appropriating faith—faith which apprehends Jesus as the savior of men—faith which consents to His method of saving them—faith which surrenders themselves and abandons every other refuge and reposes upon the merits of an infinite Christ. Such a faith justifies the soul—that is, pardons it of its guilt—discharges the duties of outraged law—declares it to be just, as when a jury renders its verdict of "not guilty" and the prisoner is discharged and he is regarded as innocent whether he is actually so or not. This, on condition of simple faith, God is "just and yet the justifier of him that believeth in Jesus."

This blessing would be worth but little unless the sinner is made actually righteous. This blessing also attends that of justification. By the washing of regeneration and the renewing of the Holy Ghost the soul is made new. Hence, when he justifies them he also glorifies.

Among the fruits of justification are "peace with God" and "rejoicing in hope of His glory." The impenitent sinner looks within and often finds a conscience hardened with sin; he looks up and sees an angry God; he looks in the future and beholds a burning hell. But through faith in Jesus the guilty conscience is made void of offense. The angry God is transformed into a loving Father, and instead of a burning hell "a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens."

In the evening the Rev. Messiah Moor-paloo, a native Armanian of Galatia, Asia, Minor, delivered a highly interesting and profitable address upon the progress of the Gospel among his people and the need of further missionary effort in their behalf.

The Kreiger Funeral.

The funeral of the late Jacob G. Kreiger took place from the residence of the parents, on East Coal street, yesterday afternoon. The attendance was very large. The cortege was headed by the Grant Band which discoursed sacred tunes on the march to and from the residence and church, and large delegations from the three fire companies, Watkin Waters Post, No. 146, G. A. R., Henry Hornesale Camp, No. 49, Sons of Veterans, and Washington Camp, No. 183, P. O. S. of A., followed. Services were held in the Trinity Reformed church, on West Lloyd street, the pastor, Rev. Robert O'Boyle, officiating; and the remains were interred in the Old Fellows' cemetery.

Wrong Agents.

The Shenandoah people are very angry over the defeat of their choir at Lakeside and are using newspaper columns to get back at the victors. Our next issue will contain a letter that will effectually prove the superiority of the Mahanoy City choir's singing.—Tri-Weekly Record.

The Tri-Weekly and its correspondents are gaining quite a reputation for twisting matters. The above article is incorrect. The Shenandoah people had no choir at Lakeside. The grumbling comes from the people of Wm. Penn and Lost Creek.
