MORE VICTIMS OF THE PLAGUE

Three Deaths and Five New Cases at New York Yesterday.

QUARANTINE OFFICERS WORN OUT WITH HARD WORK.

Two Vessels Due From Hamburg This Week Are Almost Certain to Bring the Plague With Them—Police Called Upon to Keep Boats Away From the Cholera Ships—Dr. Jenkins Congratulated by Secretary Foster.

New York, Sep. 6.—There were three deaths and five new cases of cholera yesterday on the plague fleet. Following is a list of the victims:

Otto Engle, of Hamburg, aged 20 years; steerage of the Normannia; new case; died after a few hours.

Johanna Buss, Hamburg, aged 54 years; steerage passenger on the Rugia; ill three days.

Selmat Horne, 5 months; died on Swinburne Island.

Hendrich Sterr, of Stuttgart, 5 years; steerage on the Rugia; removed to Swinburne Island.

Joseph Fjekoskaf, aged 30 years; steerage passenger on the Rugia; removed to Swinburne Island.

William Quons, of Hamburg, 19 years; steerage steward on the Normannia; removed to Swinburne Island.

Theodore Zenzick, aged 23 years, deck cleaner in steerage of the Normannia; removed to Swinburne Island.

An unknown Russian, too ill to give his name; steerage passenger of the Moravia, who had been placed on Hoffman Island; removed to Swinburne Island.

At the health officer's quarters all was quiet at midnight and the fleet at anchor off the upper boarding station was being slowly enveloped in a mantle of fog which was fairly waited from the lower bay like a pall from the pest fleet at anchor within the boundaries of the sanitary roadstead. When the lights abated no longer twinkled there came sharply to the ear the tones of the fog-bells struck by the anchor watch. Like funeral bells tolling for the unfortunates of the infected ships seemed the warnings from the fleet, the strokes rapid withal as if to emphasize the desire to be free of the restraint and an anxiety to be safely moored at their respective piers.

For an hour the voices of the night continued and then, as if the mournful procession had passed, their doleful music ceased and the outlines of the floating homes of hundreds of weary watermen within the motionless halls, came into sharp relief on the surface of the sea rising inward through the Narrows.

At daybreak lights were extinguished, and smoke curling from the tugs at the Quarantine dock served all too forcibly as a reminder of the sorrowful round of inspection that would make the sixth day since the arrival of the first infected vessel.

As the Quarantine officials began their rounds each face too plainly indicates the dread question: "What will the harvest be?"

Dr. Jenkins warned all those on board the Normannia that if they were found sending information ashore he would not be responsible for their length of quarantine. He does not know yet how long he will keep them. It is not believed that it will be more than four days longer, as thirty-six hours should show how far the outbreak is infected.

The sick on Swinburne's Island were this morning, with no exception, in a dangerous condition. Further deaths were expected.

The Normannia's steerage is undergoing the disinfection process at Hoffman Island.

The Moravia and Moravia steerage were to follow as soon as is possible. In the event of all the facilities being taxed on future arrivals of immigrants, Dr. Jenkins does not know what step he will take.

A CALL FOR POLICE.

Sensational News Gathered by the Quarantine Officers.

QUARANTINE, S. I., Sep. 6.—When informed that a sensational morning newspaper had tags alongside the Normannia at lower Quarantine during the night, in violation of his repeated orders, Dr. Jenkins immediately wrote an autograph letter to Mayor Grant. His communication was in substance as follows:

"Will you kindly furnish six trained policemen, who are carmen as well, for duty at lower Quarantine. If this meets your approval please have them report here for duty."

They will be stationed on the Carlisle.

Foster Congratulates Jenkins.

NEW YORK, Sep. 6.—In conversation with a reporter after his consultation with Dr. Jenkins, Secretary Foster said that there would be no conflict with the State authorities about the quarantine of vessels. "The Federal Government will not interfere with the State authorities unless they find the latter are not taking proper measures to prevent the spread of the cholera," said Mr. Foster. "I think that Dr. Jenkins has done all he could possibly do, and I must congratulate him on his good work. The city is well protected now, and I do not fear that cholera can get in. Cholera is not so bad as yellow fever, and can be fought off easier."

Senator McPherson Still at Quarantine.

NEWARK, Sep. 6.—The report that Senator McPherson, who was a passenger on the Normannia, had been seen in this city Sunday is untrue. Senator McPherson is still on the Quarantine vessel. He was to have spoken at Ashbury Park Sunday. He went from the ship that because of the quarantine regulations he could not keep his engagement.

M'AULIFFE WHIPS MYER.

Fifteen Terrific Rounds Before Myer Was Knocked Out.

NEW ORLEANS, Sep. 6.—Jack McAuliffe is the lightweight champion of the world. In 15 rounds of desperate fighting last night he defeated Billy Myer of Stretcher, Ill. The fight lasted exactly one hour, and was a splendid exhibition of pugilistic skill and human strength, save that Myer seemed unable to strike heavily enough to injure his antagonist.

It was by a clean knockout that McAuliffe scored the victory and won the championship title and the $50,000 depending on the result, $10,000 purse offered by the Olympic Club, and $5,000 a side.

There were 7,000 persons present, including some of the shining political, legal and social lights of the Crescent City, as well as the best-known sporting men from all over America.

The Corbett train met with a surprise while the fighter was quietly sleeping at the Depot hotel at Spartanburg, S. C.

His manager Brady discovered that there was a plot on foot at Charlotte to arrest him for desecrating the Sabbath by punching the bag, etc.

It was said that the prosecuting attorney had the warrant ready and was only waiting to arrest him in the morning.

Brady quietly informed the agent of the Piedmont Air Line Railroad that the Corbett car must leave during the night, and arrangements were accordingly made to leave at 2 a. m., and pull down to the South Carolina line, thus avoiding the scheming North Carolinians.

At 2 o'clock a number of policemen had assembled about the car, evidently having discovered the rush. The car was dark and there were no signs of life about it. The police knowing that Corbett was at the hotel awaited developments.

At 1:45 however, when the accommodation train rolled into the station, Corbett was smuggled aboard. He was put to bed in one of the sleeping cars and slept soundly throughout the night.

He arose at 7 o'clock, and immediately upon being dressed indulged in a long run, punched the bag, wrestled, etc.

VESSELS HOLDING BACK.

Tolls So Far Collected from Canadian Grain Steamers Not Large.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 6.—Reports received as to the collection of tolls on the Sault Ste. Marie (St. Mary's Falls) canal under the President's proclamation, seem to indicate that Canadian vessels are holding back, waiting to see what action the Canadian government will take in the way of refunding the tolls imposed by the United States.

Thus far the Canadian authorities have not given the slightest indication of any purpose to fulfil the expectations entertained of them in that respect, and the grain steamers are leaving Montreal only half loaded.

On the first day of the enforcement of the proclamation only one vessel out of sixty-two which passed through was a Canadian bottom. This was the United Empire, which carried 550 tons of flour, and twelve tons of mixed freight for Sarvia.

On this she paid toll amounting to $112.

She had also 694 tons of wheat for Port Huron, Mich., on which no toll was collected, as it was destined for an American port.

The next day three vessels out of fifty-two were Canadian, one of them being a Canadian Pacific liner. The number is now increasing every day and the amount of tolls collected is proportionately greater.

Irish Butter in Portugal.

LONDON, Sep. 6.—A despatch to the "Times" from Lisbon says: "Sir George Petre, British Minister to Portugal, has addressed two protests to the government against the customs officials' imposition of the high oleomargarine tariff upon Irish butter on the ground that an analysis proved it impure after the Portuguese consul at Cork had analyzed it and certified it to be pure. The collection of this tariff practically stops the importation of Irish butter and allows French butter to flood the market. The exports of Irish butter to Portugal formerly amounted in value to one hundred thousand pounds yearly."
