LEAVING THE CAPITAL

Exodus from the G. A. R. Union Begun.

VISITORS HAVE NUMBERED 300,000.

The Parade Yesterday "as the Great Feature of the Encampment—The Fireworks and Electric Illumination Last Night surpassed Anything of the Kind Ever Witnessed in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sep. 21.—The great event of the 26th annual reunion of the National G. A. R. is over, and the visitors, who yesterday were numbered at 300,000, are fast leaving the city.

The spectacular feature of to-day will be the concert by the consolidated bands in the city, under the leadership of John Philip Sousa, formerly director of the Marine Band.

Last night was even more glorious than the day. Shortly after dark, which was of a most favorable density, owing to the thousands who lined the avenue while the parade was in progress, the monument, here the elaborate display of fireworks provided by the committee and the pyrotechnic king, was made.

Succeeding the fireworks display, there was an electric illumination, on a scale never before attempted in this country. It was one of the attractions of the reunion provided by the citizens' committee, and was a complete success.

Pennsylvania avenue, from the Capitol to Seventeenth street, was ablaze with colored lights. Every available dynamo in the city, public and private, was brought into requisition, and numbers were shipped here especially for the display.

The feature of the illumination was the display along both sides of the avenue of brilliant presentations of corps badges. Seventy of these had been placed on supports at convenient distances in three colors, red, white and blue, the respective colors of the first, second and third divisions. Each of these was outlined in incandescent lights of the same color as the badge.

At the head of Fifteenth street, at the entrance to Executive avenue, was a monster face-shield of the G. A. R. badge, 18 feet in height. It was made up of incandescent lamps of the various regulation colors of the badge, and produced a grand effect. A duplicate of the piece was also shown at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Seventh street.

A fine display, and something entirely new in Washington, was shown in the White House grounds in front of the mansion. Here incandescent lights were half hidden in the shrubbery, all of them changeable in character, disappearing and reappearing in the most bewildering manner.

The illumination of the Treasury building with colored electric lights was especially fine and notable, as also were a number of large sets at intervals along the avenue, the most conspicuous being a great anchor of blazing light placed at the corner of Tenth street. Powerful search lights, thrown from the tops of high buildings, produced a dazzling effect.

The display continued until midnight, and was witnessed by countless thousands, who regretfully disappeared in the darkness that succeeded the turning off of the dynamo.

Nearly half as many old soldiers were in line yesterday as passed up the avenue on the historic days of 1865. The procession moved under the orders of the Commander-in-Chief in double column rows of 12, one on either side of the car tracks, platoons being 12 paces apart, and between departments 24 paces.

This procession was, as far as possible, strictly a G. A. R. organization, the first and last divisions containing the only non-soldiers.

Leading the procession was the citizens' committee on parade. They were mounted, and with the aides appointed by the Chairman, numbered a hundred or more.

The rear of the procession was brought up by the Naval Veterans' Association. Time's ravages in its ranks made it possible to attempt in one day what it required two long days to accomplish in 1865. To the survivors of the 100,000 men of the armies of the Potomac and the West, who on the memorable 23rd and 24th of May, 1865, passed in review before the President and his Cabinet, (including Secretary Seward, the foreign Ministers, the military attaches of all the great powers of Europe, and their own beloved and illustrious generals, Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, the contrasts and reminiscences called out were necessarily striking.

It took seven hours—from 9 to 4—each day for the armies of 1865 to pass the reviewing stand, and the estimated length of the two days' procession was 30 miles.

Washington was a very different city then. The Capitol in 1865 was walled in and surrounded by heavy timbers. Neither of the present stately marble wings now occupied by Senate and House was then completed. The cobblestone pavement of Pennsylvania avenue was worn into alternate ravines and hillocks by the passage of heavy commissariat wagons and artillery.

Many of those in the march yesterday were in 1865, and not a few of the present spectators saw that other historic scene of twenty-seven years past.

The parade of 1895 was the first great national review the country had ever seen. At the close of the war there were two armies in and near this city.

All of the soldiers composing it dwelt at the North, and Washington was a better place than any other for their dispersion. The fortitude of the men and the struggles in which they had borne so brave a part dwarfed commemoration, and out of this sentiment grew the march which was repeated yesterday.

In many respects it will stand out as equally remarkable in the country's history.

A pleasant feature of the march, and one that the veterans greatly enjoyed, was the choral tribute to their presence by school children of the District. They were located at two points—300 colored girls at the corner of Third street and the avenue, and 500 white girls at the corner of Fifteenth street.

All hands ceased playing as they passed these points, and the children sang patriotic airs and old army songs, for which they had drilled some weeks.

Constantly there was something in the line to attract attention and applause. The most striking, probably, was the surprise offered by the Iowa Department.

As they came in sight, the message borne by Macbeth's messenger to the afflicted ears of the Thane of Cawdor that "Birnam wood is come to Dunsinane," seemed to be realized. They carried in the air three thousand corn stalks, some of them nearly six inches in diameter, and each man had an ear of corn strapped to his back. As they approached they might easily have been taken for "trees walking as men."

After the parade the corn was piled on the monument grounds, there being about sixty bushels. It will be sold and the proceeds applied to the relief of Iowa's old soldiers who may be in distress.

MRS. McALLISTER MAY SUE.

She Seeks Freedom from the Son of Society's Famous Leader.

New York, Sep. 21.—Such of the Four Hundred as have returned to this city, or are still lingering at their Newport villas, are profoundly stirred by the report that Mrs. Hayward Hall McAllister, daughter-in-law of the diplomatic leader of society had come North with the intention of securing a divorce from her husband.

Young McAllister caused a great deal of excitement early in the year by the publication of his marriage to handsomeness Miss Jennie Garmany of Savannah, Ga. Hayward's father objected to the marriage on the ground that the young man had no income with which to support a wife.

The young woman's brothers, who are well known in New York city, took a hand in the affair, and in a very short time everything was arranged amicably.

Park Commissioner Albert Gallup of New York and Francis B. Peckham of Newport, are Mr. McAllister's counsel, while Lawyer Theodor Steels of New York, has been retained by his wife.

Friends of the couple are pretty well satisfied that a divorce will be applied for in a short time. If this step is taken Mrs. McAllister will in all probability take the initiative, as McAllister calls attention to the fact that the present trouble is not of his making.

At the same time he expresses the opinion that his wife has been badly advised.

Mr. Frank Garmany of New York had received word from his sister saying that she proposed to secure a divorce, and said that he knew absolutely nothing of the latest development.

FIRE SWEEP ROCKAWAY

The Loss Estimated at One Million Dollars.

TWO LIVES KNOWN TO BE LOST.

Mrs. Phillips and Her Daughter Perished in the Museum—Indignation Among the Residents Over the Inadequate Supply of Water—Firemen Injured.

ROCKAWAY, N. Y., Sep. 21.—The most disastrous conflagration that has ever visited this seaside resort was finally mastered at 7 o'clock last evening, after several hours of hard fighting. For a while it seemed as though the fire was beyond all human control, and the general belief was that it would burn while there was material to feed it.

The local fire department was badly hampered in its efforts by the lack of water. When the firemen attached their hose to two or three of the hydrants in the vicinity of the fire the pressure became so low that it was impossible to throw a stream further than half a dozen feet.

The residents here feel indignant over the revealed state of their water supply, and assert that Supervisor Smith, of Hempstead, who is president of the Queens County Water Works, which supply Rockaway with water, was responsible for the insufficient supply.

It is asserted that when Rockaway contracted for the water supply it was stipulated that pressure enough would be furnished to throw a stream 45 feet high at all times.

The area burned over is from 30 to 50 acres, and where, formerly, there was a long line of hotels, bathing houses, amusements, etc., is now a mass of smoldering ruins. It was not until the reinforcements from Long Island City, Ozone Park, Woodhaven and Morris Park had arrived that any headway was made.

The following is a correct list of the buildings destroyed: Kingsland's Casino, Meisner's Hotel, Collins' Hotel, David Filer's Hotel, Murray & Datz's Hotel, Sam Myer's Hotel and Iron Pier, Simpson's Hotel, Shubert's Globe Hotel, Garrison's Bakery, St. James' Hotel, George Burchell's Grocery, Linwall's Hotel, Welskoff's Hotel and Morrison's Hotel.

The only loss of life, so far as can now be ascertained, is Mrs. Phillips, the wife of the proprietor of the Seaside Museum, and her 6-year-old daughter. This was the building in which the fire originated, and so suddenly did the flames spread that before the woman could escape, all exits were cut off.

The woman appeared at the window for a moment while the flames surrounded her on all sides. Firemen shouted for her to jump, but she refused, and fell back into the flames. Several of the firemen were injured more or less seriously. They were attended by several physicians who had come here to lend their aid.

The loss is estimated all the way from $500,000 to $1,000,000, but conservative estimates place the sum at about $1,000,000.

BATTLE WITH CATTLE THIEVES. Several Men Killed and the Chief Lynched in North Dakota.

FARGO, N. D., Sep. 21.—Word has reached here that ranchmen recently raided the stronghold of "Judge" Short's gang of horse and cattle thieves, a log cabin on the top of a hill, in the western part of the State. A sharp battle was fought, it is said, and several men killed. Short, according to the report, was captured and lynched.

Short has long been a terror to people near the Bad Lands, into which he drove stolen stock. His gang have many dark crimes credited to them.

A year ago a young ranchman who had led a party that attempted to capture the outlaw was found hanging dead to the limb of a tree on the reservation line, and the cattle thieves were credited with the crime.

O'DONNELL'S HEARING CONCLUDED. Not Decided Whether or Not He Shall Be Admitted to Bail.

FITZBURGH, Sep. 21.—The hearing in the case of Hugh O'Donnell in his application for bail on a second charge of murder has been concluded, and Judge Porter may decide to-day whether O'Donnell shall be admitted to bail or not.

The afternoon session of the court was occupied in argument of the evidence by the attorneys. The attacks upon O'Donnell by the prosecution caused the defendant to become much excited, and he frequently called Attorney Cox's attention to some point in Mr. Patterson's address which he thought was not borne out by the evidence.

Attacked the House of Parliament. SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sep. 21.—A deputation of 6,000 people called upon Prime Minister Fisher yesterday to demand the release of the labor agitators arrested on account of the labor troubles at Broken Hill Mine. Minister Fisher refused to see them. The crowd became furious at this and rushed to the House of Parliament and tried to break open the doors, but the police kept them back.

Another Wreck on the Central. AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Sep. 21.—A westward bound freight train of the Central Hudson Railroad was derailed near this city at midnight. All four tracks were blocked for several hours. All the night express trains were held at different points along the line. Thirteen cars were crushed into one heap. No one seriously injured. Carelessness is said to have caused the wreck.

Mrs. Harrison in Washington. WASHINGTON, Sep. 21.—It was nearly 9 o'clock when the special train bearing the President and his invalid wife drew into the station. The journey from Long Lake was made without accident. Secretary Halford says that Mrs. Harrison took the fatigue of the journey much better than had been anticipated.

Death of Samuel Boyd. MARLBORO, Mass., Sep. 21.—Samuel Boyd of the Boyd-Correy Manufacturing Company, who died Monday, aged 77, founded a shoe shop here which covered more than 1 1/2 acres and employed from 700 to 1,000 hands, and was, when erected, the largest shoe factory in the world.

ENGLAND'S DECLINING TRADE.

All Her Industries Harassed by the Tariff—Exports Becoming Less.

LONDON, Sep. 21.—That England's trade is going into a decline was clearly shown at the special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held at Newport yesterday.

President Rollin said, in his opening address, that he lamented the existing depression of trade, and especially the fact that there were no signs of improvement.

He attributed the lack of confidence partly to the suspension of the Baring's, and partly also to hostile tariffs.

He pointed out that while wages in the United States had only increased one per cent, the cost of cereals and of produce, and of the necessities of life generally had increased from eighteen to thirty-three per cent, while the indications did not show that either the high tariff or McKinley was popularly appreciated.

Making prices on foreign goods to the Chicago Exhibition should prove an object lesson to Americans as to what they were paying for the enrichment of a comparatively few men at the expense of the many. One encouraging circumstance was that British trade was apparently surmounting some of the chief obstacles placed in its way by the tariff.

The export of tin plate from Wales to America was six times greater now than in July, 1894.

Taking the years ending at August, the plate exported from Wales to America in 1892 has only been once exceeded.

The speaker quoted the arguments used in America by the advocates of free trade on the one hand and protection on the other.

He dwelt upon the recovery of export trade with America in linen and worsted machinery, and earthenware. He spoke fervently of the necessity of fostering the growth of arbitration, and trusted, he said, it would never be the lot of Britons to see civilization disgraced by the military shelling of the millionaire as they had seen in the United States.

DEMOCRATS AT SCRANTON. An Enthusiastic Convention—Big Mass Meeting Last Night.

SCRANTON, Sep. 21.—When the convention of Democratic Societies reassembled at 8:10 yesterday afternoon, the Committee on Organization reported the officers. Chauncey F. Black, of York, was again re-elected for President.

The Committee on Resolutions reported respecting the faith of the Democracy of Pennsylvania in the platform of the National and State conventions; endorsing the nominations of Cleveland and Stevenson, and of the State candidates; applauding the administration of ex-President Cleveland and the administration of Gov. Pattison, and congratulating the American people on the result of the New England States.

After selecting Allentown as the next place of meeting, the convention adjourned. Last night a mass meeting was held in the convention hall, at which Attorney General Hensel, James W. Beck and other prominent men made addresses.

O'NEIL IS A BANK DIRECTOR. He Is One of the Democratic Electoral Ticket and Probably Ineligible.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Sep. 21.—George F. O'Neil, the Democratic elector from this district, is probably ineligible, according to a decision of Chairman Harry, who also is the Federal law that no person holding an office of profit or trust under the United States government shall become an elector. Mr. O'Neil is a director of the First National Bank of this city.

Mr. Harry urges that Democratic candidates who are national bank directors resign and give room for men who are certainly eligible.

The fighting lasted four hours. The Dahomeyans lost about 1,300 killed and wounded. Col. Dods lost 5 killed and 15 wounded. The Dahomeyans fought doggedly, and retreated from the field slowly.
