SUNDAY SERMON.

Rev. Powick's Interesting Discourse in the M. E. Church Sunday Evening. The sermon at the Methodist Episcopal and Bottled Goods, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning. If I do not remember thee let my tougue cleave to the roof of my mouth, mestic Cheese, Fine if I prefer not Jerusalem to my chief joy." Penim 187, 5 6. Such was the spirit with which the Lord's captives in Babylon regarded their native land. This is the spirit which ever breathes in true patriotism. Patriotism is not religion. A man may be truly patriotic, as was Paine, and not be religious, nor even moral. But a man cannot be truly religious and not be patriotic

No Christian can avoid feeling a sense of gratitude for the patriotism that led so many to brave the hardships of war in defence of he Union, and none can help reolding with them over the privilege they have just or joyed of gathering once again st the Nation's Capitol to celebrate their hard-fought victory. Among the lessons suggested by the great encampment was one concerning the magnitude of the civil war. We have heard of upwards of 3 000, 000 of America's choicest sons having re sponded to their country's need. But when figures are piled up in such profusion they become only the meaningless symbols of unimeginable multitudes-we cannot take them in. But when the Nation's beroes marched through Washington the other day a hundred thousard strong, and when we stood for seven continuous hours watching the veterans of 2,000 engagements as they marched 25 abreast under their commander's eye, and remembered that they represented less than one-twentieth of the Union soldiers engaged, a new generation began to realize as never before the meaning of that awful war.

Another lesson concerns the debt of gratitude we owe to the buman saviors of the Nation. As we thought of the stability and prosper ty of the Nation and then wit nessed the empty sleeves and halting crip ples and bowing forms through whose sac riflees we have received these blessings, new generation began to realize that it will require more than dollars and cents to dis tharge that debt.

Another lesson to such as looked beneath the surface proclaimed what a horrible and hateful thing war is. Such demonstrations may throw an unwholesome glamor upon than wholesale human butchery, under the claim. sanction of national exigencies, which however, can never extract its intrinsic evil. When we think of the more than three hundred thousand Union graves that attest the savagery of war we shrink in horror at the thought.

But the moral cost was the most serious, The whole nation has suffered an inexpressible debauchery of conscience from its familiarity with blood and carnage. One of the results of the war seems to be an incapacity to deal intelligently with the great living questions of the present. It is to be feared that until the offensive carasses that died on southern battle fields twenty-five years ago are buried out of sight, and until the heroic participants in the struggle have passed from time to eternity and a new generation comes to the schools are imperilled, the nation is being inundated with rum, and sad to say, multitudes of those who were on the right side of that war are on the wrong side of this Yet this is more important than that was, and its issues are vastly more far-reaching, as the souls of men are more important than their bodies, and as eternity is more consequence than time.

In the moral conflicts of life we are mak and by at the judgment. It will then appear that patriotism is no substitute for Buy Keystone flour. Alex-ander conquered the world and wept, we ander conquered the world and wept, we are told, because there was not another to conquer; but like many other patriots, he died a miserable slave to his own appette for strong drink.
