TENNYSON'S SUCCESSOR

Urged That the Mantle Should Fall Upon Swinburne.

POWER TO APPOINT IN GLADSTONE.

The Premier May Not Be Inclined to Honor the Man Who Has Violated Him—An Austrian Wins the Great Road Race—Foreign Notes of Interest.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The room in which the dead poet Tennyson lies is dimly lighted with candles. Although the surroundings of the deathbed are solemnly impressive, pains have been taken, in deference to the poet's feelings often expressed to his family, to avoid everything suggestive of funeral forms.

The space reserved in Westminster Abbey for Tennyson is just to the left of Robert Browning's tomb. No memorial service will be held in Halesmere on Sunday, but it is understood that Bishop Winchester will refer in his sermon to the parish to the poet's death.

The "Pall Mall Gazette" thinks that Mr. Gladstone will appoint Swinburne to the post of Poet Laureate. It quotes a recent article in the "Speaker" by Mr. Gladstone, entitled "British Poetry in the Nineteenth Century." After awarding Tennyson the palm, Mr. Gladstone wrote:

"Pressing upon him or walking in the same path, we have had many true poets, some extraordinary and many of very considerable powers. Among those claiming first of these descriptions we have mentioned Browning, and merit justice requires that we add Swinburne."

The "Pall Mall Gazette" adds: "In view of the abuse Swinburne has lavished upon Mr. Gladstone, the choice would be characteristic and an instance of a great man's magnanimity."

Sir Andrew Clark, who attended the poet in his last hours, says that Lord Tennyson's end was beautiful.

"In all my experience," said the eminent physician, "I never saw anything more glorious. There were no artificial lights in the chamber. All was darkness, except for the silver light of the moon, which fell upon the bed and played across the features of the dying poet like the halo in one of Rembrandt's pictures."

Hallam Tennyson, the poet's son, said: "The end was beautiful, calm and painless. He passed away as if in sleep. The watchers could hardly distinguish the final moment."

Twice during the night the dying man smiled upon those around his bedside, indicating that he was conscious and recognized them, but he was too feeble to speak.

Soon after the poet's death the sky, which had been clear, became clouded, and the light of the moon was obscured. Shortly afterward the rain fell heavily, and the scene contrasted strongly with that which had illuminated the parting hours of the great poet.

Sir Andrew Clark, who had not left his patient's bedside for twenty-four hours previous, returned to London immediately after the poet's death.

The last words spoken by Lord Tennyson were a few affectionate utterances addressed to his wife about an hour before his death.

AN AUSTRIAN VICTORIOUS.

Count Starbomberg's Time of 71 Hours and 35 Minutes the Best.

VIENNA, Oct. 7.—Lieut. Baron Reitzenstein, the only one of the German long-distance riders who was thought to have a possible chance of beating the Austrian record, arrived at Florisdorf this morning having been seventy-three hours and forty minutes on the way from Berlin.

This settled the contest in favor of Austria. Lieut. Count Starbomberg having made the distance from Vienna to Berlin in seventy-one hours and thirty-five minutes.

Hamburg Tradesmen Cannot Meet.

HAMBURG, Oct. 7.—The police have refused to allow the keepers of small shops to hold a meeting to consider the precarious condition of their affairs. More than 3,000 men had responded to the call. The city government feared that the bitter and distress of the tradesmen would lead them to violent scenes and, perhaps, riot, and was unwilling to risk the danger that the starving workmen might be aroused to action by the example.

In Memory of Parnell.

CONK, Oct. 7.—The anniversary of Parnell's death was generally observed in this city yesterday. The flag was hoisted at half-mast on the Town Hall, shops were closed, and club houses were draped in black. Faneuilles wearing the ivy marched through the city all the afternoon, with bands playing the dead march.

Tribesmen Routed.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—A dispatch from Simla says that the flying column of four thousand men sent out under Colonel Lockhart to punish the Black Mountain tribes has captured Balo without having lost a man. The inhabitants fled upon the approach of the British troops.

An Editor Killed in a Duel.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Editor Valentine of the "Patria Italiana," in Buenos Ayres, was killed in that city Wednesday afternoon in a pistol duel.

An Oxford Student Suicides.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—An Oxford student named Bryce shot himself dead because he failed in his last examinations.

The Body Identified.

NYACK, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The dead body of a man which was found in the Hudson at Scarborough, has been identified as that of Patrick Collins, of Haverstraw, who fell off the dock here on Sunday night while asleep and was drowned.

RUNK SPECULATED IN STOCKS.

His Suicide Due to Losing $80,000 of the Firm's Money.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—It now develops that the cause of the suicide of Wm. M. Runk, of the dry-goods firm of Darlington, Runk & Co., late Wednesday night, was the using of $80,000 of the firm's money in stock speculation. A week ago Mr. Darlington returned from Europe. During his absence Mr. Runk had been dealing in stocks.

It appears that Mr. Runk, whose own personal estate is represented to be a very handsome one, did not make these ventures with his own funds, but, aided by the absence of Mr. Darlington, he employed the moneys of Darlington, Runk & Co. to an amount of about $80,000.

Wm. Runk was 46 years old and was one of Philadelphia's most wealthy and influential citizens.

The suicide was committed at his country home at St. Davids, near here, by shooting himself through the temple.

He carried $525,000 insurance on his life.

He was at his place of business the same day and appeared to be extremely nervous, as he had been for a day or two. Late in the afternoon he went to his home and for two hours his wife noticed that he was irrational, but supposing it was due to some business trouble gave it no special attention.

After sending one of his sons to the railroad station to meet an employe of the store, he went to his stable and with a small Smith & Wesson revolver put a bullet through his temple, dying instantly.

He was seen to go into the stable by the gardener and a short time later was found by the same person cold in death. The report of the pistol was not heard.

The news of the suicide did not reach this city until morning and because of the prominence of the victim it spread rapidly.

He leaves two boys by his first wife, one of whom is at Yale and the other at the University of Pennsylvania, and three children by the second wife. His city home was No. 134 North Eighteenth street.

FESTIVITIES AT WOBURN, MASS.

Celebration of the 350th Anniversary of the Founding of the Place.

WOBURN, Mass., Oct. 7.—Bells, bonfires and the booming of cannon ushered in Woburn's greatest days, the 350th anniversary of her nativity.

The voice of cannon and peals of bells aroused the city at daylight, and the early morning hours found the streets filled with people.

Decorations were general and profuse, and business was almost wholly suspended.

Early in the day the city's invited guests began to arrive and were shown about the city and otherwise entertained.

The literary exercises opened shortly after 11 o'clock in the new armory, which was crowded.

Mayor Thompson presided. Rev. Franklin Carter, D.D., President of Williams College, offered prayer.

Mayor Thompson then delivered an address of welcome, at the conclusion of which Hon. Frank Brooks Richardson, the orator, delivered his address.

When the orator had finished a quartette sang a commemorative hymn.

Then editor James Jeffery Roche, of the Boston "Pilot," the poet of the occasion, was presented. He was warmly received and the reverent and patriotic sentiment of the verses struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all present.

After a memorial selection by the quartette, the exercises were brought to a close with the singing of an anniversary hymn written by Rev. D. March, D. D., to the air of "America," by the entire assemblage.

BIG SMUGGLING OPERATIONS.

Many Chinese and Much Opium Landed on the Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—It has just been learned here that the yacht Halcyon, which recently sailed from Victoria with smuggled opium and Chinese on board, discharged its cargo at various places along the coast and has returned to Victoria. The smugglers' ring at Victoria actually ran in and sold in the Pacific coast ports $150,000 worth of opium and $100,000 worth of silk, besides landing 89 Chinese, for whom they received $500 a head.

The agent who accomplished this work was named Vranman. He made arrangements for landing the cargo at small places remote from customs guards.

The Halcyon landed a portion of her cargo at or near Santa Barbara, another portion of it being transferred to a small vessel in Puget Sound and landed in the woods near Tacoma. This lot was subsequently shipped via the Northern Pacific to New York.

The Chinese were all landed near Monterey. The Halcyon is now seized at Victoria for entering port without proper papers. It came from Lulu Island, near Victoria.

The voyage was the most successful smuggling expedition known on the coast. The first owner of the Halcyon, Mr. Whalley, is now living like a prince in Honolulu on his gains in smuggling opium.

A MYSTERY NO LONGER

New York's Woman Smuggler Turns Up and Threatens.

DIVORCED WIFE OF WM. CAMPBELL.

She is Accused of Bringing in $110,000 Worth of Oil Paintings Without Paying Duty—Her Lively Career in Europe and in This Country.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The mystery regarding the woman who is charged with smuggling $110,000 worth of oil paintings was cleared up yesterday at the Custom House. Anna Louise Churchill was her maiden name. She is now the wife of Dr. Caccia, of Naples, and is the divorced wife of William Campbell, a wealthy wallpaper manufacturer of No. 618 West 43rd street. She is described as a fascinating woman, 33 years old. She was the central figure of a sensational horse-wiping case in 1883, when she attempted to thrash her husband in Central Park.

A divorce suit followed and she was granted $4,000 a year alimony. She was conspicuous about New York for several years. She went to Europe in 1883, and met Dr. Caccia, a wealthy physician and speculator in fine paintings. She cut a tremendous figure in European capitals and watering places for several years, and returned to this country in August, 1891. Last January the paintings arrived, which are now in the custody of the customs authorities.

The collection was so large and valuable, containing 106 paintings in all, that suspicions were aroused. She swore that they were her own personal effects, and had been in use in her own household for over one year. Treasury inspectors Trautner and Sendens were put upon the case. Mrs. Caccia went to Saratoga in the summer. It was discovered that she was circulating a catalogue of the paintings. She sold about 25 of the less valuable ones.

Inspector Trautner traced the pictures to the Manhattan and Lincoln Safe Deposit companies. The lot in the Manhattan Safe Deposit Company was entered in the name of her friend, James F. Caldwell, the starter of race horses. Seizure was made on Wednesday, although the sheriff had levied on the paintings in the Lincoln Safe Deposit Company on a judgment obtained by Stenographer Monaghan. He used to recover fees for stenographic work in Mrs. Caccia's divorce case. In the supplementary proceedings instituted by him, about two weeks after the paintings arrived, she swore that she owned no property of any sort. This testimony contradicted the oath she took at the Custom House.

Mrs. Caccia assumed an air of great indignation yesterday when she called on Deputy Collector Phelps regarding the seizure. She claimed that traitor had made love to her in Saratoga, and this was his method of revenge because she repulsed his love. She said that she would have those paintings out of the Custom House very quickly. Her friends, Mr. Caldwell, Police Superintendent Byrnes and other men "with a pull," would take care of Inspector Trautner's charges, she averred.

Although the Customs authorities value the seizure at $110,000, it is evident from Mrs. Caccia's catalogue that she expected to realize from $250,000 to $300,000 from the sale of the collection. Whether the Customs authorities will release the collection on payment of duty or confiscate them has not yet been determined.

HATHAWAY SEEKS SEPARATION.

His Wife Was With Frank Mezik When He Committed Suicide in Chicago.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 7.—Fred G. Hathaway, the husband of the woman who was with Frank Mezik when he committed suicide in Chicago the other day, filed a bill for divorce in the Court of Common Pleas here yesterday, asking also the custody of the child.

It was learned here yesterday that two weeks ago Hathaway caught his wife out riding with a young Cleveland blood, and in the quarrel that followed he either ordered her from the house or she left it in a rage. Hathaway supposed that she was with her parents until she turned up in Chicago.

Hathaway is one of the best families in the city. He is a brother-in-law of F. DeHaas Robinson, president of the Cleveland Cable Railway Company and the Cleveland Baseball Club.

GEORGE DELAMATER GUILTY.

Convicted of Statutory Embezzlement. G. B. and T. A. Delamater Acquitted.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 7.—The jury in the Delamater cases found a verdict of guilty as to George Wallace Delamater, and not guilty as to G. B. and T. A. Delamater.

G. W. Delamater was in the court room and received the verdict without flinching.

The defense will move for a new trial, and, failing to obtain it, will carry the case up on the question of the constitutionality of the Act of 1889, and their numerous exceptions taken to the Court's rulings.

The charge upon which ex-Senator Delamater is convicted is statutory embezzlement, that is, the firm received deposits in their bank, knowing themselves to be insolvent.

MILOREY BROWN MUST SWING.

A Thirteen-Year-Old Colored Girl to Be Hanged at Columbus, O., To-day.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—There will be four murderers hanged in this city to-day.

Deering, the Edgelyfield negro murderer, had his sentence commuted yesterday to imprisonment for life by Gov. Tillman.

The Governor will not interfere in the case of Milorey Brown, a 13-year-old colored girl, who poisoned a white baby in Spartanburg, or in the case of John Williams, a negro, who killed Major Hutchinson, of Spartanburg.

By declining to interfere in the latter case, the Governor has presented a lynching, as a secret committee had made all arrangements to kill him if his sentence was commuted.

OUR FLAG INSULTED.

The Consul at La Guayra Fired Upon by a Venezuelan Warship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A special dispatch to the "World" this morning from La Guayra, Venezuela, says:

"United States Consul Philip C. Hanna has been fired at from the guns of a Venezuelan warship while on a visit to Macuto in a private boat.

"Fortunately, the United States consular representative was not struck. "Macuto has been the scene of several sanguinary engagements, which have ended in the defeat of the government forces by the Cuzcapiatas.

"The surgeons of our navy rendered good service during the fights in giving their attendance to the wounded.

"Considerable courage was exhibited by them in the exercise of their charitable mission, as they were placed in a most dangerous position.

"Public feeling now runs strongly against the United States."

THE DALTON EXTERMINATION.

Emmett Dalton Alive, But Cannot Recover—His Anti-Morton Statement.

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 7.—Emmett Dalton, the wounded member of the bandit gang, is still alive, but suffers intense pain. It is not believed that he can recover. The robber who succeeded in escaping has not been recaptured, and as he probably is making his way toward the Indian Territory, where he has many friends, it is not thought that he will be captured.

The town is still greatly excited over the stirring events of Wednesday, but there is a great feeling of relief over the extermination of the gang of outlaws who have terrorized this section for the last three years. The bodies of the dead robbers have been prepared for burial.

Emmett Dalton made the following ante-mortem statement:

"Oct. 1, 1894, I met the boys south of Tulsa and they asked me how much money I had; I told them about $20. I asked them how much they had and they said about $300; I asked them what they were going to do with it; they said that this town had been trying to capture them; I said that was a lie, for we used to have lots of friends here.

"Bob said he could discount the James boys' bank and go up and rob it both Coffeyville banks in one day. I told them that I did not want any of it all; he said I had better go along and help and get some of the money and leave the country; that if I stayed around here I was sure to be caught or killed by myself.

"The morning of October 3 we saddled up north of Tulsa in the Osage Nation, and rode twenty miles toward Coffeyville and talked the matter over. I went out of love for my brothers, for I knew that the authorities would get after me anyhow and I would have no money to get out of the country.

"We camped at the head of Hickory Creek at Limber Hill, about twelve miles from Coffeyville, the night of October 4. That night we saddled up and rode to the bottoms of Onion Creek on the Davis farm and next morning we fed our horses some corn. I asked the boys if they were coming up here. They said that they were and I said that it would not be treating you right, as you had always befriended us.

"I asked them how they were going to do the business.

"Bob said we would ride in about half past nine in the morning. He said there would not be many people in town so early and not many to hold up. He said he wanted me along because I was quick on foot. He said that I would go to the First National and the boys to Congdon's. He said we would ride in and hitch at the old Congdon building. People would not see us until we got right into the bank.

"All five horses belonged to Bob. I am a full cousin to Bob and Cole Younger. My mother was a sister of Cole Younger's father."

He confessed that the gang was responsible for the Red Rock, Wharton and other robberies in Indian Territory, which had been credited to them. The story of a hidden treasure, he said, was nonsense.

"If there had been a hidden treasure," he said, "we would all have been alive today. It was because we were all 'broke' that we planned the Coffeyville raid.

"We were being hard pressed by the officers down in the Territory when Bob decided that we would have to get out of the country."

DESPERATE FIGHT FOR LIBERTY.

A Burglar's Sensational Effort to Avoid Arrest at Scranton, Pa.

SCRANTON, Oct. 7.—J. B. Farrel, of Boston, who is now in custody here, was finally secured after a most exciting time. He was arrested yesterday for burglary, but escaped from Officer Roche, while on the stairway leading to Alderman DeLong's office, where he pulled a revolver on the officer, but the weapon missed fire.

Farrel scurried through the avenues, revolver in hand, defying anyone to molest him. The police hearing of Farrel's escape followed in pursuit and chased him over a 30-foot wall, from which he leaped upon a moving coal train without injury.

The train was stopped, but Farrel dropped to the ground and jumped into the Lackawanna river, which he swam. The officers circled around him and it was only after a desperate struggle that he was captured.

Farrel declared that if he had killed Roche he would have taken his own life, as he had no family depending upon him and he could afford to die.

Nelson Breaks the Stallion Record.

NEWTON, N. J., Oct. 7.—Nelson, the trotting stallion, broke the world's record here yesterday for a mile on the half-mile regulation track, going the distance in 2:11.54. He was driven by Mr. Nelson, his owner, who won the $5,000 purse offered. The mile is also the fastest ever trotted on any track in New Jersey.

Choleters suspect in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Dr. Koerter of 323 East 85th street at a late hour last night reported a supposed case of cholera to the police of the 85th street station. The patient is James Finley, 27 years old, of 229 East 85th street. The case is being investigated by the Health Board.
