Fire Alarm Boxes.

The following list shows the location of the alarm boxes of the Shenandoah Fire Department:

LOCATION.

- 15—Coal and Bowers streets.
- 16—Bowers and Centre streets.
- 24—Bridge and Centre streets.
- 25—Main and Centre streets.
- 34—Main and Poplar streets.
- 35—Main and Coal streets.
- 42—Gilbert and Centre streets.
- 43—Gilbert and Cherry streets.
- 53—Chestnut and Coal streets.

To send an alarm open the box, pull down the bell once and let go. When an alarm is sent in the fire bell will sound the number of the box and repeat the alarm four times.

HOW TO LOCATE ALARMS.

If the alarm is sounded from box 15 the fire bell will strike one, then pause and strike five which will indicate that the fire is in the vicinity of No. 15 box. Every alarm is repeated four times.

OBE'S OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

A party of wags stood at the corner of Main and Centre streets Saturday evening and speculated upon the uses the trench made for the electric railway on Main street could be put to. One of them says that if the water supply had not been cut off a hose would have been secured and the trench turned into a canal. It was intended to then have placards prepared announcing that trips to Oak street and return via the canal could be had for five cents. But, then, the water was cut off.

To-night the Borough Council and Joint Committee is to meet and go over the work done by the latter body during the past six months. According to the resolution passed by Council at its last meeting the joint committee is to produce all papers and facts covering the transactions to date so that Council may be able to discuss the matter intelligently when it meets the contractors on Thursday evening. I understand that one of the bidders, Mr. Quinn, of the Potsville firm of Quinn & Kerns, has become disgusted with the business and that he told one of the Councilmen that if they want to give Coons the contract so bad they better let him have it.

"Aneten Ryt, Karben Co., Pa." To some people this will appear like so much Greek. It is not a selection from that language, nor is it a clipping from a prize conundrum column. It is a copy of an address upon a letter that recently passed through the local post office and was intended for "Audenreid, Carbon county, Pa."

Ashlund was without water from 6 o'clock Saturday evening until 7 o'clock yesterday morning and until further notice no water will be supplied for any purpose except from 7 to 10 a. m. each day. Ashlund has borough water works, too. Shenandoah, with its daily supply from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. is not faring so bad with the soulless corporation, after all.

I love it, I love it
And who shall dare
To chide me for loving
This old headwear.

Mr. Ploppert, of East Centre street, says there was no cause for a fire alarm being sounded from his premises on Sunday. He says that some women and boys were unnecessarily alarmed by smoke issuing from his bake house.

A Nancy Hanks, driven on East Centre street by a Hebrew junk dealer, surprised its owner yesterday afternoon by running away. The only cause assigned for the strange conduct of the animal is that it objected to being hitched to a wagon having but one shaft, in the absence of the second shaft necessitating the fastening of one of the traces to the front axle of the wagon. Hunger might also have had something to do with it, as the horse refused to pull the empty wagon from the telegraph pole with which it collided until after supper was served.

Literary Notices.

"ROMANCE"
It has been said—was it a Frenchman who said it?—that the Germans cannot write short stories. This assertion is disproved by the brilliant October number of Romance. It is the second in that magazine's series of special issues, and more than half of its contents are from the German. Even the French seldom produce stories equal to Hugo Klein's "His Excellency, the Fool," Paul Heyse's "The Beginning and the End," the Queen of Roumania's "Tragedy of Love," and Hans von Spielberg's "Tale of the Great Sahara." No such collection would be complete without a fairy-story, and an amusing one, new to American readers, is supplied in "The Donkey's Spring," by Rudolph Baumach. There are also classic German stories by Jean Paul Richter and Ludwig Tieck. The whole forms a remarkable and interesting illustration of German fiction. Agreeable variety is secured by the interspersing of half a dozen American tales, flavoring strongly of the native soil. This magazine is issued by Romance Publishing Company, Clinton Hall, Astor Place, New York. The price is 25 cents a number; subscriptions, $2.50 a year.

Best work done at Brennan's Steam Laundry. Everything white and spotless. Lace curtains a specialty. All work guaranteed.

Would you rather buy lamp chimneys, one a week the year round, or one that lasts till some accident breaks it?

Common glass may break or not the minute you light your lamp; if not, the first draft may break it; if not, it may break from a mere whim.

Tough glass chimneys, Macbeth's "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass," almost never break from heat, not one in a hundred.

Where can you get it? and what does it cost?

Your dealer knows where and how much. It costs more than common glass; and may be, he thinks tough glass isn't good for his business.

Pittsburgh, Pa. Geo. A. MACHSER Co.

REV. POWICK PREACHES.

An Interesting Discourse in the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The sermon in the M. E. church on Sunday evening was on: "Living men that are dead." Rev. III-I: "I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead." I remember to have read of a soldier who after serving his country for awhile devised a plan by which he was reported dead and who then deserted. When the war was over and rewards were being distributed he applied for a share. But when the books were opened there stood the word "Dead" opposite his name. Let us beware lest a similar fate befall us when we stand before God. It is to be feared that many, even now, who have a name to live are dead. The scriptures frequently speak of living men who are dead. They give us no logical definition of death. We may be dead in one sense and alive in another. "She that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth—and you hath he quickened, who were dead in trespasses and in sins. Ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God." Some who are remarkably alive and active in business affairs are dead in spiritual things. But the text contemplates the case of one who was once truly alive and whose spiritual life is practically extinct but who has the reputation of being still alive unto God. Such persons are not all dead yet. Nor are they all to be stigmatized as hypocrites. Many are undoubtedly deceived and while maintaining the form of Godliness are destitute of its power. They go to church and receive the sacraments and listen to the gospel and yet are insensible to spiritual feeling and irresponsible to the spiritual needs of a dying world—as much so as though they were in their graves. Nor is it hard to account for their condition. The cares of the world—the deceitfulness of riches—neglect of private prayer and bible reading—evil communications which corrupt good manners—indulgence in sinful or questionable amusements—the supposed obligations of polite society—the competing claims of non-religious lodges and societies—the bitter contentions of political life etc., chill the current of spiritual life and sap its vitality. Men may deceive themselves, but God knows their works. It is not supposition with Him—He knows. He knows not only our creed and our professions but our works. He judges us not according to our orthodoxy or our desires or our good resolutions but according to our works.

In order to recover from such a backslidden state watchfulness is enjoined. Intense solicitude for our spiritual estate is the price of improvement. Then we are commanded to strengthen the things that remain—that are ready to die. Some elements of good must be found in him who "has a name to live"—the death cannot be absolute. Then are we bidden to "remember how we first heard and received" what joy once filled our soul. Thus may we better appreciate the depth of our fall and learn the way of recovery. Repentance towards God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ as a present saviour will restore the "peaceful hours you once enjoyed"—and nothing else will. Then will the Spirit of God again breathe upon the dry bones of your soul and they shall live.

Water Notice

OFFICE OF THE
Shenandoah Water and Gas Co.

On account of the long drought the Shenandoah Water and Gas Company gives notice to its consumers that there must be no more waste of the water supplied by the company. This notice is especially directed to people who use garden hose and wash show windows, pavements, carriages, etc.

The water will be turned off every evening, beginning on Wednesday, October 6th, at seven o'clock, and remain so until 7 a. m. This rule will remain in force until the next rain. A watchman will be stationed at a stop at Fowler's lumber yard, on East Coal street, to turn on the water at a moment's notice in case the fire alarm is sounded.

By order of the company,
S. D. HESS,
Superintendent.
