Pinest Structures Ever Erected for Such a Purpose.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 .- The twelve mammoth buildings for the World's Columbian Exposition, and many smaller but equally beautiful structures, are being dedicated to-day.

To see this group of masterpieces of American architects would be well worth a journey to Chicago, regardless of the wonders of the world they will contain. An army of 10,000 workingmen is now busily engaged in the final work of construction and beautifying the grounds, and it seems beyond doubt that every thing will be in readiness for the openin on the first Monday of next May.

The architect was S. S. Beman, of Chicago, who found in Italian Renaissance the inspiration for his mag-nificent creation. The entrances are on all four sides of the building. The galleries are 25 feet high and 60 feet wide. Richly decorated areades lie between the main entrance and the pavilions. From deeply recessed promenade on the gal lery floor level can be had a fine view of the lake. A feature of the construction of the building lies in the fact that the logiss on the first floor are faced with

THE TRANSPOSEATION BUILDING. The Transportation building is one of group of edifices forming the northern architectural Court of the Exposition. It faces entward and commands a view of the wooded island. The style of architecture is Romanesque, and its treatmen is extremely refined and simple. Th min entrance to the transportation building consists of an immense single arch enriched to an extraordinary degree with carvings, bas rollefs and mural paintings. The interior treatment of the structure is very much after the man-ner of a Roman besilica, with broad nave and aisles. The main building of the transportation exhibit measures 900 by 256 feet. The annex covers more ground than the mon building. The edifice with cost $305,000. Its architects were Adjec & Sullivan of Chicago.
