THE OLD WATER WORKS

IS THE P. & R. COMPANY AFTER THEM?

IF IT IS, WHAT WILL FOLLOW?

Should a Sale be Made and the Public Water Works are not Constructed or Completed, What Then?

It is again rumored that the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company is contemplating the purchase of the existing water works of this town, and the present famine from which the company is suffering is pointed to as a strong reason why the report should be received with some degree of faith.

The parties who are responsible for the report recall attention to the offer of $125,000 made to the water company several weeks ago for the plant, through a Pottsville lawyer, and say that the offer came from the P. & R. company.

When this reported desire to purchase was made public before the HERALD investigated the matter and could glean nothing satisfactory. Certain gentlemen in sympathy with the movement for public water works then claimed that the offer was made by the P. & R. company, and some members of the water company said the offer was made by a lawyer who declined to give the names of the parties he represented and that their was a suspicion that the offer was a feeder from quite a different source.

But whether or not the P. & R. company is casting lines for the works the necessity of some movement by the company for a water supply for its collieries is becoming more and more apparent every day. The company is really in a critical condition, so far as water is concerned. True, it has devised means by which the sulphur water pumped from the mines is run through tanks and purified sufficiently for use in the breakers and boiler houses, but the purifying process has its shortcomings and is only helping the company out in a hand-to-mouth manner. One of its shortcomings is the inability to keep up the supply of purified water to meet the demand. The tanks now used were only erected to fill a void that might be created by drought of short duration, not a famine such as we are now experiencing, and it is safe to say that should a hoarding demand for coal be made this week the company would find itself like Mother Hubbard's cupboard—here, or almost so, and unable to prepare the coal.

Then, again, it is said that the purifying system has not reached a state of perfection that makes the water desirable for general callery use. It fills the bill for washing coal and like uses, but it is not profitable for use in the boilers and other departments. In fact, it is said its use is causing thousands of dollars damage to such property of the company.

Some people are of the belief that the company will soon resort to sinking artesian wells. Others say this will take much time and expense and in many instances the borings may result in useless experiment. Then, again, comes in the cry that the cheapest plan will be for the company to bid for the purchase of all dams they can lay hands on and make use of them. Then the existing Shenandoah water works come to the foreground as probably the first purchase, and right here the people of Shenandoah become seriously interested.

Mark the words! The people of Shenandoah may yet feel called upon to take some action to prevent the water company from selling its plant.

Should the P. & R. company purchase the plant it will use the water to run its collieries, and should it also decide to supply the town it may be necessary to restrict that supply to such an extent that the people will feel that water is surely a luxury.

True it is, as some say, the borough will then have to have water works of its own, but what will the people do while the law suits are going on and while the works are being constructed? Conservative thinkers say that in their opinion it will take at least one year after the construction of the new works begin before it can furnish the people. And to this time must be added the time that will be required to make connections with the mains and branches.

There is more in the water question than the mere issuance of bonds and construction of the works. There is a great question of intermediate welfare. And there are many other questions that should be seriously considered. The present drought comes upon the scene as a remarkable co-incidence and people are beginning to wonder what they will do if the borough should fall between the benches—without private or public works.

PERSONAL.

County Commissioner Bowers spent this morning in town.
Mrs. A. J. Schooner returned to her home in Philadelphia today.

Crawford Dennis, the enterprising young huckster of town, has accepted a position with a Philadelphia wholesale firm. We wish him success.
E. C. Wagner, superintendent of the Girard Estate, is having a conservatory attached to his residence on Mahanoy avenue. It will have a capacity of five or six hundred plants.
George Krick, of Shenandoah, spent Sunday evening in town.
James Crocker and Michael Mellei, of Shenandoah, called on their lady friends here Sunday evening.
A number of our young society people have received invitations to the Alpha Social Club's November Assembly, at Shenandoah.
Harry L. Roxy, of Shenandoah, called on friends in town Sunday.
George W. Kolper, of Shenandoah, transacted business here last evening.
J. L. Tempest has a treat-in store for our amusement-loving public. Mr. Tempest, together with his strong company of players, will produce the great sensational drama, "Joe," at the Palace theatre Tuesday next November 1st. Over 8,000 feet of scenery has been painted especially for this production. We hope to see a large attendance, as Mr. Tempest deserves it.
An effort is being made among the friends of the Citizens Cornet Band to solicit sufficient subscriptions from our people to warrant them in engaging the services of Prof. Zeitz to teach that musical organization. We trust they may meet with success in their efforts, as the boys, under the leadership of the Professor, would soon be able to compete with any similar organization in the county.

Hand in the Hand.

Upon application of John Polasey, Spire Shoemaker to day issued a warrant for the arrest of Mike Polasey. John and Mike are cousins and both reside at Turkey Run. The former is unable to write and the latter asked him to write his name upon it so the pay could be secured at the Gilberton colliery today. Mike took the check, signed it according to instructions and then refused to give it up. He said he would draw the pay and keep the money on account of what he had spent to bury John's brother. Constables Phillips and Dandow arrested Mike, who settled the case.

The Glass Blowers.

Our amusement loving people now have an opportunity to enjoy themselves by attending the performance of the New Orleans Museum and Parisian Glass Blowers, in Robbins' opera house. They appear there all this week. After each performance, dancing may be indulged in, valuable prizes being offered to the best lady and gentleman dancers. Admission 15 cents, children 10 cents.

it is to see a beautiful child's face disfigured with vile humors, bursting through the skin in pimples, blotches and sores, and sadder still, when the young and innocent are laughed at and twitted in all such cases. Parents should give them that good and pure remedy, Sulphur Bitters, which will search and drive out of the blood every particle of humor.—Health Gazette 2w

WAITING FOR PAVING!

WORK ON THE ELECTRIC ROAD STOPPED.

AWAITING MORE DEVELOPMENTS

Property Owners Waiting for the Work to go Ahead to Decide Whether They Will Apply for It.

TIME is flying, Jack Frost is traveling this way, and the delay in starting street paving work continues. It was expected that there would be something done in carrying out the project yesterday, but there was not.

The Schuykill Traction Company has thus far faithfully carried out its agreement with the Borough Council and has laid stringers up to Coal street, but last night it stopped the work to await some definite action in the street paving matter.

It is understood that the company is desirous of knowing just how the tracks are to be arranged for the paving, if it is to go ahead, and have all that work done at once, so that there will be nothing irregular about it.
Of course, the actual paving cannot be done until the Belgian blocks arrive from Massachusetts, which will require a little time, but it will not be necessary to await the arrival before commencing the work of cutting down the street to grade preparatory to preparing the bed for the blocks. It is understood that the machinery to be used for the work is being loaded on cars at Pottsville for shipment here and that the delay is caused by the amount of time and labor required to load it properly.

There are no people more anxious to see the work started than those owning property on the Main street square between Centre and Oak streets. There is a movement on foot to petition Council for a paving ordinance, but some people are withholding their signatures until they get a good idea from the work of just how the paving will be laid and look when it is completed. It is safe to say that after the work is done there will be few property owners who will not wish to have it in front of their properties.

OBES OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

Two prominent young men of town, attended a social affair recently and retired in a ludicrous affair, that has furnished their friends with laughter ever since. While the fun was at its height one of the young men retired to the yard. He was sick. There was a bursten upon his stomach, and that organ rebelled. Seeking a suitable place the victim proceeded to undergo the relieving process. Oh, but he was sick! The neighbors knew it. But not they alone. In an apartment next to the one the aforesaid young man had entered there came a demand, "Who in Sam Hill are you mocking?" There was no reply by the victim. The signals of distress continued to pour forth. "Who in Sam Hill are you mocking?" again came the demand. But no answer came, save the signals of distress. "I'll find out who you are mocking," said the voice. There was a scraping of heavy feet, a slamming and a banging of doors, and then the voice said, "Hello, Ish, that you!" The sick young man said, "Yes, I'm so sick." And the other young man walked off with the remark, "I thought you were mocking me. Let'er go."

It is quite likely that Lakeside will be made a popular resort this winter. I have it upon good authority that it will be kept open all winter and arrangements will be made for balls, parties and skating carnivals. Arrangements will be made to serve the public with the best meals in the pavilion during the season and a large supply of skates, for roller and ice skating, will be on hand. The lakes will be put in condition and the public will be kept informed when the ice is in condition for the sport. The management of the park is encouraged in the undertaking by a number of prominent people in various parts of the county who say that such a place would be a great inducement for sledding parties during the season.

The Lakeside management has a number of other schemes on the list. One is the erection of a large hotel. The plans are in hand, but they have not been acted upon.

It is said the Luzerne county electric railway, of which P. J. Ferguson is one of the incorporators, will be extended to Lakeside. Should this be done the place will be very popular with the Luzerne county people next summer.

Bush fires have taken starts in all directions surrounding the town. The hills on the sides of the Gilberton valley, about Wm. Penn and about Kingtown, are burning fiercely in many places, but have created no alarm yet.

A fire broke out in a house on Market alley near the theatre Sunday, but was soon over-come and it was not necessary to call out the fire department. A defective fuse was the cause. We are not in a position to stand even the slightest breeze at this time, with blistering weather and very little water, and too much care to prevent a start cannot be exercised.

To-night the inquest will be held in the case of Martha Temple, who met her death on the electric railway on Columbus Day. The investigation thus far sustains the opinion already expressed that the motor man, E. W. Annett, was in no way to blame.

I observe that the appearance of the Kehlor property on North Jardin street has been greatly improved by the substituting of a very pretty covered porch for the old style steps and benches. The plank walk in front of the property has also been removed and flag stones substituted for it.

A resident of Brandonville started from town for his home last night with a horse and buggy. A few hours later relatives were in town searching for the man. They were very much excited and said they feared he had met with a disaster. The horse arrived home with only the saddle of the harness on his back, but no trace of the man or buggy could be found. The police of town were requested to investigate the matter. To-day the police were informed that the man had been found.

Yesterday I was handed a note which read as follows:

"FRIEND ONE: Can't you induce the Borough Council to make preparations to celebrate the anniversary of the discovery of the stone crusher?"

There is sarcasm in that note. Why it should be hurled at the stone crusher I cannot understand. The poor thing remains harmless where it was placed and injures nobody. It does not even bother the stones which it was hurled would be crushed without mercy. I think it would be almost useless to brooch the subject to Council, as there seems to be a desire to let the poor thing enjoy an everlasting vacation. Our.
