AT KEITER'S

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY!

A CHANGE IN THE PAVING PLAN

BELGIAN BLOCKS TO BE USED

On the Squares Where Property Owners Have Made Arrangements to Pave—Railway Uniforms.

THE paving of the electric street railway was brought to a temporary halt this morning by a change of plans. Last night the street committee of the Borough Council notified General Manager Yarnell that the paving started at Cherry street was objectionable, that the people who had agreed to pave their share of Main street from Centre to Cherry wanted all the work done with Belgian blocks.

Mr. Yarnell came to town this morning and after consultation with the street committee decided to stop the paving on the two squares mentioned and use the red stone for the railway track only from Centre street northward and the balance of the track will be paved as proposed by the Grant Bros.—with Belgian blocks.

The electric railway company have also decided to put its employees in uniforms and they were measured for them to-day.

Two new closed cars arrived at the power house to-day and to-morrow they will be put on the road in place of the summer cars. Three new cars have arrived at Gilberton and two at Mahanoy City.

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS.

Interesting Notes on Political Affairs National and Otherwise.

The tin plate bar is on the run. Munich is a gallery and center of art. German women with as many as six children saw wood in its streets for 15 cents a day. May a merciful God sink the United States 10,000 feet under the sea before the hideous spectacle shall become an incident of our civilization.—N. Y. Sun, Democratic.

Generals Sickles and Slocum, both Tammany Democrats, told the truth when they stated Cleveland could not carry New York. The late registration proves that.

The country was told that the McKinley bill would destroy our commerce with foreign nations, and would make our country poor. Write it on the walls, write it on the rocks, write it on the skies, that the United States has grown 203 million dollars richer in a single year by means of the McKinley Protective Tariff. $203,000,000! $203,000,000! $203,000,000. Let those figures be written everywhere. They show what fallacious Democrats are. They will show how false their prophecies were.—$203,000,000 richer because of the Republican Protective Tariff! Again the Republicans have ruined the country—ruined it by making it $203,000,000 richer. Bring on another horse! Give us more of that kind of ruin! I wish somebody would ruin me that way.—Hon. H. R. Gibson.

The news along the whole line is encouraging. The Republican skies are brighter than ever. Vote the whole ticket. Nearly seven hundred million dollars' worth of the starvation labor of Europe in the form of manufactured goods imported into this country. * * * That which came from Belgium in bales and boxes represented the wages of 22 cents a day for women and 43 cents for men; and the highest price labor in loose cargoes of Belgian steel and iron represented wages less than 80 cents a day. Compared with these the wages of Carnegie's men at Braddock are the incomes of princes.—N. Y. Sun, Democratic.

Stand by your guns, Republicans. In the language of the immortal General Grant "fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." Italian labor in Italian merchandise is imported into this country * * * in competition with American labor, at prices that should fill sensitive souls with horror, and alarm the thoughtful for the future of the human race. The pay in the cotton factories of Naples is 20 cents a day; of the Neapolitan marble and granite cutters, from 40 to 50 cents a day, according to skill; of coachmen, 30 cents; of women in lace factories, 10 cents, and girls, 7 cents; of soldiers in the army, $2 a month. Of all the workmen in the glassworks of Italy, only the skilled blowers receive as high as a dollar a day, and laborers on farms, hoeing or making hay, from 15 to 18 cents a day, working from sun to sun. God save America from such wages! —N. Y. Sun, Democratic.

Comrade Harrison will succeed himself on Tuesday next as sure as the sun rises and sets. —Vote the ticket straight.

OBES' OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

The inconsistency of the HERALD's enemies developed into a beautiful soap for the paper yesterday and an extra large issue of copies was the result. A few days ago the HERALD published an address by William A. Marr, the Democratic County Chairman, in the judgeship. The article was received, published and paid for as an advertisement, but some of the eagle-eyed (?) swelled heads would have it that the HERALD had "hopped." Then some one discovered that the HERALD omitted publishing the Republican ticket for a few days and this, coupled with the publication of the Marr advertisement, led to a renewed cry that the HERALD had "hopped." Early yesterday morning telegraphic and telephone messages poured in from all parts of the county to the HERALD asking if it was true that the paper had gone over to the other side. Many prominent politicians also made personal calls upon the editor, who promptly but calmly responded by word of mouth and by messages "there is nothing in it." It is needless to say that the answers afforded relief to many. As unimportant and insignificant as some dyspeptics try to make the paper, there is no denying the fact that if it should take steps in accordance with the reports there would be an effect resembling the result of an earthquake.

But why this furor? The Marr address was published as a marked advertisement and was paid for. The Republican ticket was removed temporarily to make room for well written and important articles setting forth reasons why President Harrison should be re-elected and why Cleveland should not.

Why this furor? The Journal, a Republican paper, has expounded the cause of Pershing. This has occasioned no furor.

The Pottsville affidavit fiend has not yet published the ticket which the HERALD temporarily omitted. Yet this created no furor!

The secret is (pardon me if I am egotistical) that the HERALD raises the wind. The blowards have little influence, whatever they may do, but all eyes are turned upon the HERALD. See?

The EVENING HERALD always reads. Its news is always in the lead. Brightest paper in the town, Every day it gains renown.

Before dropping the political subject I would say that the editor of the HERALD knows that there are many parties in this town who are praying night and day for the HERALD to flop so that they may use it as a club and that, true as they pretend to be to the Republican cause, if they could resort to violence to induce the flop, no matter how despicable it may be, they would not hesitate to take the step. When the HERALD flops it will announce the fact and make no bones about it and when you see it in the HERALD you may believe it. See?

White and pretty as a peach. Copies only one cent each. Good to drive away the blues. Go dual care it puts the screws.

"How do the reporters manage to learn the names of the Poles and Hungarians who figure in the reports?" a gentleman asked me yesterday.

"Sometimes the parties themselves furnish the names, sometimes they are found in books and documents, and sometimes a name that can be pronounced with the least difficulty is selected from a list given by friends of the man whose name is desired," was my reply.

The answer seemed to satisfy the gentleman, who continued: "I know it is most difficult to get the real name of some of these people. The other day a most peculiar case came to my notice. It goes to show how easy it is for people who constantly change their names to defraud. A Hungarian who has been drawing money from the beneficial fund for injuries sustained some time ago at one colliery was caught applying for pay at another colliery last pay day. He was not arrested. The company holds the money due him for two weeks' work and two weeks' benefits, and he has agreed to make good the benefits he took since he has 'been working.'"

"Tere-ra-loum-de-re! The EVENING HERALD for me! Tere-ra-loum-de-ray! I buy it every day."

Strange as it may seem, there are people in the town who seriously charge the McKinley bill with responsibility for the drought and not one of them hold the bill responsible for the eight per cent. on the $2.50 basis.

"Tere-ra-boom-de-re! Its lively style suits me! Tere-ra-boom-de-ray! Hurrah for the HERALD, I say!"

HERE'S A QUEER CASE

OLD MRS. QUINN MEETS WITH A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

THIGH BROKEN IN TWO PLACES

She Was Knocked Down and Run Over on a Public Highway. Who is Responsible for Her Injuries?

HERE was an accident on the highway below the lime kiln yesterday that resulted in a most painful and serious accident to an aged woman residing at Turkey Run, and the peculiar feature of the case is that no one seems to know who is responsible for the woman's injuries.

The victim was Mrs. Quinn. She is about sixty years of age and the attending physician, Dr. Hamilton, says that the injuries are very severe for a woman of her years. Her left leg is broken in two places above the knee.

Mrs. Quinn came to town yesterday to make purchases and when walking on the road near the lime kiln she was knocked down and run over by a butcher's wagon. Her eyesight is not good and she was unable to take notice of the wagon, or the one who had it in charge.

Inquiry among the butchers failed to locate the party who is responsible for the accident. They claim that the woman was knocked down by a farmer's wagon and that the farmer drove off and left the woman on the roadside until she was picked up and taken to her home in Turkey Run in a butcher's wagon.

The friends of Mrs. Quinn are very indignant over the case and say they will employ a lawyer to make an investigation and fix the responsibility. They adhere to the theory that the woman was knocked down by a butcher's wagon and that the guilty party is keeping shady to avoid the consequences of his recklessness.

MORE FOR THE MONUMENT.

Preparing for Active Work After the Election. At its meeting last night Anthracite Castle, No. 74, Knights of the Golden Eagle, decided to make a donation of fifteen dollars to the soldiers' monument fund and elected P. D. Holman its representative.

The committee on the selection of a site has not finished its work and it is not likely that anything definite in that respect will be decided upon until after the election, as the approach of that event makes it difficult to secure a general attendance of the people who have been invited to manage the project.

Secretary Deagler is busy sending out invitations to societies that were not represented at the last meeting and it is expected that when the general committee next meets all will be represented.

INTERESTING DISCOURSE.

Rev. Powick's Sermon before the Methodist Episcopal Congregation.

The sermon in the M. E. church on Sunday evening was on the text Psalm 57:7: "My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed." This expresses the confidence with which David possessed his soul when he was pursued in the wilderness by Saul. God had rejected Saul and chosen David to reign in his stead. Saul and become very jealous of David since perceiving God's purposes concerning him and like many other foolish men who preceded him and still others who have followed him, he seemed to suppose that he could frustrate God's purposes by adding persecution to his wrath. But who can harm whom God delights to spare. David might mourn because of his sorrows but his heart was ever the same. "My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed." Here we have an expression of conscious strength of character. While we are not to think of ourselves more highly than we ought to think, yet we are to think soberly * * * to include all our resources * * * spiritual as well as mental and physical. He realized that God was his refuge and strength. He had not only been chastened by trial, but strengthened by grace. David was what he was because he was linked to God in loving fellowship.

But without David's steadfastness his other qualities had lost half their power. And it is failure here that accounts for so many moral wrecks along the coasts of time. One of the great defects in the character of the age is shallowness. Men are too well satisfied with superficial attainments and achievements. They are content to skim over the surface of things and to neglect the hidden treasure which rewards only the patient searcher. If it will meet the demands of the present moment it will do. We see it in the school room. The child does not always ask "Is this the best I can do?" but "will the teacher allow this to pass?" We see it in mechanics. Not every workman asks "Is this right?" but "can I slip this through?" We often see it in the service which is rendered to God, instead of rendering to him the best we are capable of we put Him off with "O, I guess this will do." This shallowness is both a curse and a result of fickleness. Shallowness and fickleness usually go together.

We find so many young men drifting aimlessly through life without a definite purpose that reaches beyond the present moment. Without such a purpose there is no success anywhere. Lincoln, Johnson and Garfield show us what purpose can achieve in spite of obstacles. But we have examples no less worthy from our own Sunday school ranks in men who are to-day preaching the gospel. And we shall doubtless have others as the years go by. A lofty aim will often inspire one over difficulties before which he would otherwise sink. It is all but omnipotent in its sphere and wrenches victory from defeat, turns foes into friends and obstacles into stepping stones. Man is never so much like God as when in the grip of a lofty purpose he

"He laughs at impossibilities And cries it shall be done."

What so lofty as the aim of godliness? What so worthy of our highest energy as the prosecution of its duties? What so far-reaching in its results? What so advantageous in its rewards? What so certain to crown our efforts with success?

All Hallow Even.

The young people of town celebrated All Hallow Even pretty generally last night by masquerading, ringing door bells, marking doors and pavements with chalk, and occasionally dabbling pedestrians. Unfortunately some of the children went beyond the limits of endurance with their pranks and threats of suits for nuisance have resulted. One case occurred on Jardin street that was altogether unreasonable. The gate was removed from the new iron fence in front of the Wasley residence and the lock and other fastenings were destroyed. The mere removal of the gate would have been overlooked, but the destruction of the property was going a little too far.
