LINGO'S SECOND TRIAL

Mrs. Miller's Alleged Slayer Again in Court.

SAME LINE OF DEFENSE ADOPTED.

It is based on the theory that the woman's husband killed her—Miller on the stand—Story of the crime and previous trial.

Commons, Nov. 3.—The second trial of Francis Lingo, colored, for the murder of Mrs. Annie Miller, near Morehantville, N. J., is now in progress here.

The murder was committed on Sept. 25, 1890—over two years ago. The murdered woman was the wife of John Miller, a farmer living near Morehantville. She had walked to Moores-town, and was returning to her home by a short cut through the woods...

Lingo was immediately arrested, and in March, 1891, after a trial of sixteen days, was convicted of murder. His counsel carried the case to the Supreme Court, and it was heard by Judge Beasler, who made a remarkable decision. He announced verbally from the bench that the application for a new trial was denied, yet within ten days he filed a writ granting a new trial. He transferred it from the criminal courts and put it on the Supreme Court calendar, to be tried by Judge Garrison. Since then Richard S. Jenkins, who presented at the first trial, and Dr. Forman, who gave expert medical testimony, have died.

Lingo pleaded not guilty yesterday. A jury was secured during the day, and the trial began. The only witness put on the stand was John Miller, the murdered woman's husband.

It will be remembered that at Lingo's previous trial the defense was that Miller killed his wife, and the same line of defense will be adopted at the present trial. Miller detailed his search for his wife on the night of the murder and the following day, ending with the discovery of her dead body by a party of men.

LIEUT. SCHWATKA A SUICIDE. The Famous Arctic Explorer Ends His Life at Portland, Ore.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 3.—About 3 a. m. Lieut. Frederick Schwatka, the famous Arctic explorer, was picked up on First street in an unconscious condition.

Reside him in a bottle of mandarinum. A patrol wagon was called and the lieutenant was removed to the police station, where he soon died.

It was undoubtedly a case of suicide. Frederick Schwatka was born at Galena, Ill., Sept. 29, 1849. He graduated at West Point in 1871, was appointed second lieutenant in the Third cavalry, and served on garrison and frontier duty until 1877. He also studied law and medicine, being admitted to the bar in Nebraska in 1879, and receiving a medical degree from Bellevue Medical college, New York, in 1876.

On June 19, 1878, he sailed for King William's Sound, returning on Sept. 22, 1880. He discovered and buried many of the skeletons of Sir John Franklin's party, and removed much of the mystery of his fate. He commanded an Alaskan exploring expedition in 1884 and another in 1888.

In August, 1884, he resigned his commission as first lieutenant of the Third cavalry, to which he had been appointed in March, 1878. He was the author of a number of works relating to his explorations and discoveries, and had received many medals from scientific societies, of several of which he was an honorary member.

NARROW ESCAPE OF PASSENGERS. A Runaway Car That Came Near Wrecking an Express.

HARLETON, Pa., Nov. 3.—As workmen were moving a gondola loaded with lumber at Jeannetteville before beginning to unload it, the brakes broke and the car ran down a heavy grade and from the switch jumped to the main track of the Lehigh Valley railroad, although efforts were made to derail it.

The men jumped and escaped. The car gained in speed and passed down the grade at Hazle Creek at lightning rapidity. Luckily the express train was a few minutes late and a message reached Weatherly in time to hold it.

A moment later the runaway car was thundering down the track and when it reached the heavy grade entering Weatherly it jumped the track and was smashed to pieces.

But few of the passengers on the express train knew of their narrow escape.

SMASHUP ON THE FORT WAYNE.

Two Express Trains and a Freight in a Wreck at Allegheny.

PRESSBURG, Nov. 3.—A disastrous wreck occurred on the Fort Wayne road at the Washington avenue crossing in Allegheny about 1 a. m. when No. 66 fast freight from the East was hit by the Keystone express from Chicago, due at 12:50, smashing six freight cars and badly wrecking the engine of the express.

In the confusion which attended the accident no precaution was taken to flag the fast express No. 1 out to Chicago, and the train running at terrific speed, crashed into the first wreck, completing a blockade of three tracks.

Engineer Harry Sauterbeck, of No. 1 express, had not time to jump from his cab and was badly crushed. He was taken out a few minutes later and sent to his home on Allegheny avenue.

The fireman, whose name and residence was not learned, jumped from the cab just before the engine struck the wreck, and was badly hurt by falling on the ties.

The engine of No. 1 express was entirely demolished while the contents of the loaded cars were scattered around over a great deal of ground.

The passengers in each of the express trains were badly shaken up and many of them rushed out on the tracks in their night clothes.

Some of them received slight injuries. After about one hour's delay other engines were secured and the tracks cleared sufficiently to allow the passenger trains to proceed on their way.

BLACK HORSE DEFIANT. The Nav. J. Child Refuses to Allow Indian Children to Go to School.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—D. L. Shipley, United States Indian Agent, from Fort Tule, A. T., under date of October 30, telegraphed Commissioner Morgan, of the Bureau of Indians, that while on a visit to Round Rock to secure Navajo children for the Indian school on the reservation he and his party were intercepted by Black Horse, the chief adviser of the Navajos, and forty followers, who refused to allow the children to be taken to the agency school although the parents' consent had been obtained.

When told by the agent that sooner or later the children would be compelled to attend school, Black Horse and several of his party laid violent hands on him, intending to kill him, but friendly Navajos interfered.

At the same time a scout in Agent Shipley's party was assaulted and beaten so severely that his condition is critical.

Under threat of being killed, and powerless to defend themselves, Agent Shipley and party promised Black Horse that they would ask for no more children from that part of the reservation for instruction in the schools.

Agent Shipley requests the aid of troops to force Black Horse and his followers to give up the children.

Commissioner Morgan in discussing the occurrence to-day, said that there were 3,000 Indian children of school age and they have a government boarding school on the reservation which is well equipped, comfortable, and the agent has been instructed to fill the school with children in accordance with the law.

RIOT RIFE IN GRANADA

Caused by the Queen's Failure to Unveil a Monument.

THE THIRSK RAILROAD WRECK

Ten Killed and Twenty Hurt—Another Wreck Near Liverpool—Mrs. Deacon's Latest Move Balked—French Operations in Dahomey—Other News by Cable

GRANADA, Nov. 3.—The failure of the Queen to come here to unveil the Columbus and Isabelia monument has caused intense bitterness. Great sums had been spent in preparing for the royal party and the expense found in the King's illness does not satisfy the people.

Last night people gathered in the streets near the monument, and, after holding a short meeting, began to riot and pillage the neighborhood. The royal tribune was burned and the covering was torn from the monument.

The house of the local Conservative leader was stoned and an attempt was made to fire it.

Most of the crowd were provided with weapons and horns which they had intended to use when the Ministers arrived, but the latter, having learned of the rioting, have not started from the capital.

The triumphal arches have been torn down, and the great offices have been burned. People everywhere are shouting "Long live the Republic."

The police have charged the mob repeatedly, and many have been injured.

THE THIRSK DISASTER.

Ten Killed and Twenty Hurt—Accident at Liverpool.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Latest reports of the Thirsk railway accident state that 10 were killed and twenty were injured. Most of the injured will recover within a few days. Several, however, sustained severe burns or fractures of bones.

The switchman supposed to be responsible for the accident has been suspended.

The accident occurred near Thirsk, in Yorkshire, early yesterday morning. The east-coast express train for London left Edinburgh at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday. The express train being unusually heavy, was divided in two sections. The first section proceeded safely to London, arriving at the usual hour.

The second section had over 100 passengers on board, including several noblemen and other distinguished people. The train swept safely through southern Scotland and the extreme north of England.

A thick fog prevailed, and it was difficult for the driver to discern the signals. Approaching Thirsk the fog was thicker than ever, and at a point about two and a half miles north of that town the signals were entirely obscured, and the express train collided at full speed with a goods train on a siding at Manor House.

The wreck of the express train was complete. The engine, smashed and dismantled, with the carriages after it, toppled over into a field next to the track. The carriages were broken and jammed together, and most of the passengers were caught in their compartments, as in so many traps.

The track took fire instantly from escaping gas, and the smoke and flame, and the shrieks of the aying and wounded made a horrible scene.

Those who managed to extricate themselves uninjured hastened to assist others who were yet alive and caught in the wreck.

It was difficult work, owing to the way in which the carriages were crushed together, and the trouble in opening compartments doors fastened after the usual British fashion.

Men and women could be heard shrieking for assistance, and one man who was slowly being burned to death, and who could not get out, begged the rescuers to kill him.

The fireman of the train was killed, but the engineer, who jumped at the instant of the collision, escaped with a broken leg.

The Marquis of Tweeddale and the Marquis of Huntly, the latter a Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria, were on board the train. The Marquis of Tweeddale escaped uninjured, and although an elderly gentleman, he did active service in assisting to rescue others.

The Marquis of Huntly was bruised and had a tooth broken, but suffered no other injury.

Captain Duncan McLeod, of the Forty-second Highlanders, is among the killed.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Another railway accident is reported, this time from Liverpool.

A train on the Mersey railway, loaded with passengers, many of whom had been on the Birkenhead ferryboat when it collided with the ship Eurythier, was leaving the ferry station when it ran into an engine and was badly damaged.

Three passengers were killed and about fifty injured, and some of the injured will die.

When passage on another train was offered to the passengers who were injured many of them, having been in the ferryboat collision and the railway collision on the same night, thought it would be unlucky to continue their journey just then and refused to do so.

BEHANZIN EXECUTED.

The Dahomeyan King Put to Death—Whore-Fighting the French.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—A despatch from Porto Novo states that a Dahomeyan chief who was captured by the French says that the Dahomeyans are led by 200 white men. He gives the names of many Belgians and Germans.

The despatch adds that after the French captured Abomey another King succeeded Behanzin, who was put to death for his crimes.

Mail advices state that while the French general Opade was returning from Koko on Sept. 30 it was suddenly attacked near Bonon by 600 Dahomeyans armed with spears and bows. Three of the French on the gunboat were killed and a number wounded.

The Opade shelled all the villages along the river. The next day 200 sharpshooters surprised Bonkon. The Dahomeyans fled, leaving many dead behind them.

Transporting the invalids and wounded French troops were arriving at Porto Novo were crowded and vessels in the roadstead had been chartered to accommodate the wounded.

If the government receives a despatch before the meeting of the Chamber of Deputies to-day announcing the entry of the French troops into Abomey, the capital of Dahomey, a bill will be introduced for the striking of a medal to commemorate the campaign.

Colonel Drouot, commander of the French forces operating in Dahomey, will be promoted to a General and will be made an officer of the Legion of Honor.

MRS. DEACON BEATEN.

Her Divorce Petition Dismissed and the Infant Child Taken from Her.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Deacon is defeated in her bold move to steal a march on her husband by a divorce suit in Paris. Mr. Deacon was on hand when the case came up, and contradicted his wife in the tribunal of the Seine. Mr. Deacon came out of the ordeal triumphantly.

The President of the tribunal not only dismissed Mrs. Deacon's petition, but severely censured her for having made serious charges against her husband with the object of procuring a divorce while herself under charges of the gravest character.

The court then gave orders that the eldest child, now in a convent, where it had been placed by Mrs. Deacon, should be delivered to Mr. Deacon.

This is her position of the court's decree was a crushing blow for Mrs. Deacon, who seemed deeply affected, and looked appealingly at her husband. It was all the more crushing because angrily unexpected, as Mrs. Deacon had supposed that at the utmost that would be done by the Seine tribunal, in the event of an adverse judgment, would be to dismiss the case and leave the whole issue to be decided at Aix. Mrs. Deacon, by bringing the Paris suit, thus brought disaster upon herself.

LOOTED THE BANK.

Desperados Make a Hunt in a Little Kansas Town.

DODGE CITY, Kan., Nov. 3.—About 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon three mounted men rode slowly into Spearville, a little town seventeen miles east of here, and halted in front of the only bank in the town.

Two of them went inside, and, placing a Winchester under the nose of Casier Baird, who is a cripple, compelled him to hand over all the cash on hand, about $10,000.

They went out, mounted their horses, fired several shots in the air and galloped out of town, going south.

As the robbers ran out of the bank and jumped into their saddles a party of six men came along and learning of the bold robbery opened fire on them. About fifteen shots were exchanged, but no one was hurt on either side.

Soon after the robbers departed they were overtaken by a mounted posse which had started in pursuit.

Another running battle ensued, in which many shots were exchanged, but the robbers managed to escape. It is not known whether any of them were wounded or not.

Parties left Dodge City on the Rock Island, which runs south of Spearville, to intercept the robbers.

Several large posess, headed by the sheriff and others, have gone in every direction.

Sheriff Beeson was notified at once and he, with a posse started in pursuit.

Spearville is a quiet town, and it being a cold, raw day, but few people were on the streets.

The robbery, no doubt, had been planned beforehand and a quiet day selected.

His Record Convicted Him.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 3.—William Davis, alias James Smith, the young man arrested in Gloucester City for attempted burglary and in whose possession 25 counterfeit half dollars were found, was placed on trial yesterday. The evidence that he was in guilty possession of the spurious coin was not strong, but when he admitted that he had already served an eight year sentence for highway robbery, the jury convicted him and he was sentenced to five years in the Hudson county penitentiary.

Is Attorney-General Miller to Retire?

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—A despatch from Indianapolis, Ind., says: "Attorney-General Miller will retire from the Cabinet soon after the election, whether Mr. Harrison is re-elected or not. He has formed a law partnership in this city with his former home, and will move back here about the first of January. The friends of the Attorney-General here say that official life has never been congenial to him. Furthermore, he feels that his law practice here will be much more lucrative than the official position."

United States Must Soon Reply.
