A WORD TO WORKINGMEN.

It ought to be, and probably is, unnecessary to urge any Republican to go the polls to-morrow and vote for C. N. Brumm, for Congress. The issue which divides the two great parties and the position which Mr. Brumm occupies upon it, entitles him not alone to the support of the Republicans of the county, but to the support of every intelligent Democratic workingman and business man as well. Mr. Brumm is no stranger to the people of this district. He has represented them in Congress for eight years, and has won the distinction of being the ablest representative they have ever elected to that position.

There is something more than mere partisanship in the election of a Congressman this year. It is not a question of whether Mr. Brumm or Mr. Reilly shall draw the salary of a Congressman during the next two years, but a question of whether the great protective system upon which the industries of Pennsylvania and of the nation have been built up shall be maintained or abolished, and whether the present system of currency shall be wiped out and the old system of "wild cat" state bank notes substituted.

These are the issues upon which the two great parties are divided this year. The Republican party stands for protection and honest money, and Mr. Brumm is one of the ablest and most aggressive champions of its position: Republican success means a continuation of the policy of protection and continued industrial and commercial prosperity. Democratic success means the repeal of the tariff, a return to the rotten monetary system that prevailed prior to the Rebellion, a shrinkage in values, the unsettling of all business and industrial and commercial stagnation.

Mr. Brumm stands squarely on the Republican platform and is one of the ablest exponents of the doctrine of protection in the country. At the opening of the campaign he issued a challenge to his opponent to meet him and discuss its issues before the people, so that the workingmen and business men who are to be affected thereby might understand and intelligently vote on the questions. That challenge, though repeated, was not accepted, and Mr. Brumm has gone through the county and has convinced every thinking and intelligent voter who has heard him speak that the continuation of the policy of protection is the salvation of the business interests of the country. He will close the campaign in Shenandoah to-night, and every Democratic workingman in the town owes it to himself, to his family and to his country to go and hear him.

Mr. Reilly's position on the questions at issue has not been made clear by any utterance of his during the canvass, though his record in Congress amply justifies the assumption that he should be re-elected he will vote with his party to repeal the McKinley bill, to inflict a system of "red dog" money on the country or to do any one of the score of other things which the Democrats propose and which would bring commercial ruin and business disaster in their wake.

These things interest the workingmen of Schuylkill county, and if they understand them as they should Brumm will be elected to Congress by a majority that will be a rebuke to the Democratic proposition to destroy the industrial prosperity of the country in the interest of the New York importers.

Democratic workingmen should go and hear Mr. Brumm to-night.

LOOK TO THE LEGISLATURE.

There probably is not a single Republican in Shenandoah or in Schuylkill county who desires to earn the distinction of having been instrumental in securing the election of a Democrat to succeed Senator Quay in the United States Senate. The votes of a very few Republicans in this Legislative district may accomplish just that result, and in view of the imminent danger of such a calamity we deem it our duty to make this last appeal to the Republicans of the district to stand together and vote solidly for John J. Coyle, the Republican nominee.

Pennsylvania is the banner Republican state of the Union, and the banner protection state as well. Its industries have been built up and are prospering under a protection basis, and the one hundred thousand majority that will be given to Harrison and Reid to-morrow in the commonwealth will be a notice to the free trade advocates of the country that the old Keystone state has reaffirmed its devotion to the principles of the Republican party and the policy of protection to American industries.

The Republican majority in Pennsylvania has increased steadily during the last twelve years, or since protection to American labor became the paramount issue between the two great political parties. The workingmen and business men of the state are sufficiently intelligent to understand this question and to know what is for their best interests, and they are becoming more unanimous in the support of the protection principle each year.

If a United States Senator were to be elected to-morrow by a direct vote of the people and the issue were made up as it is now, the Republican candidate would not only receive the support of the entire (Republican voting strength of the state, but would poll, in addition, the votes of enough Democratic workingmen to swell his majority up to 150,000 votes. This will hardly be denied by any one who understands the situation and who is acquainted with the sentiment of the workingmen and business men of the state, yet it must be admitted there is a possibility of a Democrat being elected to succeed Senator Quay.

This can only be accomplished however, through Republican thoughtlessness or indifference. Republican apathy in close districts or the casting of Republican votes for independent or Prohibition candidates may enable the Democrats to carry the Legislature and elect a Senator. The measure of such a calamity as this we can only get by remembering that the United States Senate is likely to be so close that even one vote may change it, and that the Democrat elected from Pennsylvania may be the one Senator needed to repeal the McKinley bill and put into operation the Democratic doctrine of "tariff reform" whatever that may be.

The way to avert this impending misfortune is for every Republican in the state to vote for the Republican candidates for the Legislature. This will insure the election of a Republican Assembly and the return of a Republican United States Senator.

John J. Coyle is the Republican candidate in this district. He is capable, conscientious and painstaking and will represent the district with credit alike to himself and his constituents.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

He is a Republican and will help to elect a Republican United States Senator, and having been a workingman himself he is acquainted with the needs of the workingmen of his state and district. He deserves to be elected and is entitled to the full confidence and support of the party.

An effort is being made in the interest of the Democratic candidate to secure the votes of enough Republicans in the district for Mr. Patterson, the Prohibition candidate, to elect Mr. Reilly. We therefore admonish Republicans to waste no votes on Mr. Patterson. Intentionally or otherwise his campaign is a Democratic annex and the only purpose it can accomplish is the election of the Democratic nominee.

NOTORIOUS FEUD RECALLED.

Marshal Tom Smith and the Jaybird-Woodpecker Fight.

RICHMOND, Tex., Nov. 7.—The killing of Deputy United States Marshal Tom C. Smith in the Indian Territory by a negro on board a train removes one of the last central figures of a notorious Texas feud. Almost a score of widows and several scores of fatherless children owe their condition to Smith, for during his lifetime he committed many murders—at least, he killed many men.

His death recalls the notorious Jaybird and Woodpecker feud of this (Fort Bend) county.

The Jaybird faction was composed of the white Democracy of the county, while the Woodpecker party embraced white office-holders who had been elected with the aid of negro voters, and who controlled the politics of the county.

It was the desire to wrest the county from marauders on the part of some of the Woodpecker officers that brought about the conflict. Feeling became so intense that personal encounters were numerous and everybody in Richmond went armed. Finally, in the summer of 1890 the feud culminated in the battle on the streets of Richmond in which the leaders on both sides were killed, several wounded, and the Woodpeckers driven from the county, leaving the Jaybirds in full possession.

A number of conflicts occurred between the factions after this, and thus came the wholesale arrests of citizens of Richmond by the U. S. authorities. When the pass came up in Galveston several more men were killed in the court house.

TURPIN'S CONVICTION.

The Verdict Received With General Expressions of Satisfaction.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 7.—The conviction at Gallatin of Edward E. Turpin of murder in the first degree for the killing of William H. Carter, is received with general satisfaction. The crime for which Turpin was convicted attracted widespread attention on account of the prominence of the parties.

Carter was a member of one of the oldest and most highly respected families in Sumner county, and his slayer is unquestionably the richest man in the county, having inherited a fortune from his father, who died about six years ago in Philadelphia. Turpin conceived a deep hatred for Carter because of the latter's attention to a certain young lady, and threatened Carter's life on several occasions.

On the 15th of last February he became involved in a difficulty with Carter, whom he shot several times, the wounded man dying shortly afterward.

FOUR PHYSICIANS FAIL

But a Mother's Love Surmounts all Difficulties. Her Darling Child Cured of Bright's Disease by Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

My daughter had Bright's Disease. Her ankles, feet and eyes were terribly swollen. Four of our best physicians attended her but her life was despaired of. A mother's love surmounts all difficulties, and I determined to try Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, made at Rondout, N. Y.

How ALWAYS happy I am that I determined upon this course—for one by one the well known symptoms of the disease left her. Words fail to express my gratitude, and I cannot too earnestly recommend this great medicinal cure. Her recovery was entirely due to Favorite Remedy, which was the only medicine taken after her case was abandoned by the physicians. Mrs. LAURA A. KEMPTON, West Rutland, Vermont.

Can you not see that such an earnest and out spoken statement as the above comes from the heart and is sincere? And does it not show how valuable this great medicine becomes to those who are in need?

NEW ORLEANS' STRIKE.

Not So General as Supposed—It May Be Arbitrated.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7.—The great strike has not been called off, but it is doubtful if it will become as general as was supposed, and it looks now as if the matter will once more go to the arbitration committee.

There is so much discontent among the rank and file of the labor organizations that the influence of the leaders is waning. The strikers weakened and sent another communication to the merchants, which is being considered.

The City Council met Saturday and appointed committees to wait on the laborers and the merchants to ask them to meet at the City Hall to talk over and explain the differences. In compliance with this request the merchants and strike delegates appointed committees and at 1:30 p. m. went into conference with a City Council committee at the City Hall.

The merchants have suspended preparations for a general strike pending consideration of the strikers' communication. At 5 o'clock Saturday night the street-car drivers left work and tied-up all the lines in the city.

The cotton handlers have not yet gone out and the gas workers are still at work.

The theaters were all minus orchestras at both matinee and night performances. The merchants are willing to arbitrate with the unions if they will send their men back to work, while the strikers claim that all the differences be settled before the men return to work. One of their demands is that none but union men shall be employed.

There have been no disturbances but the militia have been ordered to report at their armories in case they are needed. Even with the defections there are over 5,000 men in the great strike and as many are negroes, it is deemed best to be prepared in case of disorder.

Secretary H. G. Hever of the Cotton Exchange, said: "We are right in this fight. Every one working for us is a union man and everything is working smoothly between employes and employers. Should the men quit work out of sympathy for others, we have not yet decided on what will be done." The city council met in special session and passed resolutions urging an immediate settlement of the matters at issue between the merchants and their employes.
