AMUSEMENT NOTES.

References to Ferguson Theatre Coming Attractions.

In the third act of the drama, "Under ground," which will appear at Ferguson's theatre on Thursday evening. November 17, an interior of a mine at the bottom of the shaft is shown with the carriages and coal cars in active operation. Those who have never been in the mines will be interested in this great play, which faithfully portrays life underground. The play is interspersed with clever songs, dances, etc. Seats on sale at Kirlin's drug store.

"LOST IN LONDON." Newton Beers and bis company gave revised version of "Lost in London" at the Lansing last night. There is no gainsaying the fact that the house was top heavy and applause liberal and merited. The play ha been very much changed, and several tableaux introduced, the clasing one, "Job's Vision," being very pretty. Beers retains his old time voice and presence, and his acting was well received. Miss Lora Cleft was successful in rendering her part as Nellie Armrod. The same play will be repeated to night .- The Daily Journal, Lincoln, Neo. "Lost in London" will be produced at Ferguson's theatre on next Friday evening, Nov. 18th.

A Great Stock.

The actual work of cutting, drilling, and polishing gems has ever been sur-rounded by an air of mystery which the the diamond, are cut with a rapidly-revolving disc of tin, that has no teeth, and is perfectly smooth on its edge.

There are a number of these discs, says the Philadelphia Press, varying in size from the head of a small pin up to twenty inchesor more in diameter. The discs are placed on the mandril of an ordinary foot lathe, and the surface of the disc is kept running in a bath of turpentine and oil in which is placed a quantity of emery or diamond dust, according to the character of the stone to be cut. By this process it has been found that the hardest stones are the easiest cut. The little disc of tin slips through a piece of crocidolite quite as rapidly as a buzz saw would through a piece of soft pine.

Much of the work that formerly was accomplished by the slow process of grinding after chipping off as much as could be done with safety and at enormous expense, is now done so easily that it is scarcely counted in the cost. After the gems are cut on the tin wheel to near their required shape they are taken over to the polishing wheels, where another surprise awaits the vis-

The polishing wheels are all made of lead and turned slowly by hand. The gems, however, never touch the real surface of the lead. They are smeared with a mixture of water and tripoli or diamond dust. The drilling is still performed with the old-fashioned bow HERALD office. and cord of the ancients, which for many reasons has been found superior to the finest lathe drill. The gems be fore they can be polished are carefully fastened on the end of a stick about four or five inches long by means of coment, which is first heated over a gas

BLOWN FROM A GUN.

Experiences of a Man in a Contral American Rebellion.

"I was once sentenced to be blown from a gun," said Maj. John Hitchcock, to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat man.

"I had long been a resident of that land of revolutions, Central America. During one of the semi-annual political upheavals I was captured by a savage mob known as the army of Salvador and sentenced to death. In the camp of my captors a six-pound gun was fired at high noon by means of a sun glass, and to the muzzle of this antiunied smoothbore. I was strapped and eft in the broiling sun to await my

"Now, I have faced several kinds of death in my day, but that knocked all the nerve out of me. I could not see the small, flery spot made by the sun glass, but I knew it was creeping slowly but surely to the powder at the vent. I imagined I could hear the powder hissing with the heat.

"The blazing sun beat down upon my bare head, blinding me and seeming to boil the blood in my veins. I became hysterical and prayed and cursed by turns. The great clock in the cathedral was on the stroke of noon and I knew that the concentrated rays of the sun were pouring directly upon the powder.

"The troops were dozing in the shade.
A few, awakened by the bell, raised up on their elbows and watched me with lazy interest, expecting every moment to see me blown to shreds.

"One-two-three-four-five-with maddening deliberation came the strokes of the bell, when suddenly a harsher note was beard—the roar of musketry. camp was surprised and my captors Dec. 16 and 17.—Drummer Boy; or Spy of driven back in disorder. The cords Shiloh, in Ferguson's theatre, under the were cut and I sat down beneath the muzzle of the gun just as it belched forth its midday salute."

FOR FLOGGING A REBEL.

An English Officer Who Was Hanged for Causing a Mutineer's Death.

Once upon a time, about a hundred years ago, there was a colonel in the English army whose name was Wall; and Open Court says it was his unlucky destiny to be governor and military commandant of one of the British West India islands. During his administration a mutiny broke out, which he vig-orously suppressed. Having conquered the rebellion he arrested one of the mutineers on the parade ground in front of the barracks and ordered him to be tried immediately by a drum head court martial. The court met, the pris-oner being within sight of it but not near enough to hear the testimony. He leave the corner of Cherry and Main streets was found guilty and sentenced to be at 5:30 a.m. daily and every 20 minutes flogged. Gov. Wall approved the senthereafter until midnight, at which hour the tence and the man died under the flogging. When the news reached England Gov. Wall was indicted for murder. He evaded arrest and made his way to France, where he lived for about twenty years, and then thinking that the affair was forgotten he returned to England. He was at once arrested and brought to trial, where his fate rested on the following critical issue: was not the mutineer present before the court martial? On this point the judges instructed the jury that if the prisoner was not near enough to hear the testimony of the witnesses against him so iness while under treatment. Patients who that he might cross examine them, be are responsible need not pay until well. A was not present within the meaning perfect cure guaranteed.
