THEATRICAL NOTES.

Plays Booked for Production at Ferguson's Theatre.

"Underground," a play dealing with life in the coal regions, will be the attraction at Ferguson's theatre on Thursday evening next, Nov. 17th. The scenery is elaborate and picturesque, one act showing the interior of a mine with carriages in active operation. The climax of this act is an explosion in the mine which for realism is seldom if ever equalled in stage productions.

NEWTON BEERS.

Last night a fair-sized audience witnessed the popular play and play—Newton Beers in "Lost in London." The piece was well put on, the scenic effects being particularly attractive. Mr. Beers is supported by a very clever company including Miss Lora Addison Cleff and the piece has never been in better hands than at present. "Lost in London" has been played seven seasons by Mr. Beers and, from present indications, it will live to see as old an age as "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Several new specialties are introduced which add to the strength of the entertainment.—"Capital City Courier, Lincoln, Neb." "Lost in London" will be produced in Ferguson's theatre on Friday evening, Nov. 18th.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanent beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

A single trial of Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will convince any one troubled with costiveness, torpid liver or any kindred diseases of their curative properties. They only cost 25 cents per bottle.

A Good Chance.

A man having hotel experience can secure a hotel in one of the best places in Shenandoah county that is doing a good business, but can be made a better paying place if properly conducted. The business has suffered through the illness of the tenant, who must retire from business. The hotel is an excellent one for summer and winter boarders. The owner will sell the place cheap and on easy terms, or will rent to the right party. Sale preferred. Address "Hotel," HERALD office, Shenandoah, Pa.

SUNDAY SERMON.

An Interesting Discourse Before the M. E. Congregation.

The sermon in the M. E. church on Sunday evening was from Jeremiah 9:23,24: "Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom; neither let the mighty man glory in his might; let not the rich man glory in his riches; but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth Me, that I am the Lord which exercise loving-kindness, judgment and righteousness in the earth: for in these things I delight, saith the Lord." These words were spoken by the prophet in view of the impending doom of Jerusalem. In them he cautions the mighty, the wise, the rich—the men of influence and power—against the supposition that they may be able to avert it by their own efforts. But the words are good for all time and conditions. We are a nation of boasters. He who knows a little more than his neighbor often begins to brag about it. And when will men of might get through singing the praises of their own valor? But what shall be said of the supercilious arrogance which often characterizes the men of colossal fortunes?

The text is not an exhortation either to become or remain ignorant or dependent but to seek higher and nobler objects of exaltation. The folly of boasting in such things is apparent from the fact that they can never satisfy the deepest cravings of the soul. There is an element in our nature which cannot be fed upon such husks. Some of the unhappiest people in the world are to be found among the wise, mighty and wealthy. These things often make men proud and haughty and destroy their character, influence and soul. Such things do not last forever. Man does. They take wings and fly—man remains. The political revolution of the past week is an object lesson concerning the uncertainty and vanity of earthly calculations and dependencies. If one possessed the world it could afford no ground for boasting. "For the world passeth away, and the lusts thereof"—with all that is allied thereto—Faith, hope and charity are all that survive the wreck of time.

Let men glory in the Lord and they have whereof to glory. The devout Psalmist said "My soul shall make her boast in the Lord, the humble shall hear thereof and be glad." Such boasting is edifying. The great Apostle to the Gentiles said "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." Let men boast of their knowledge that God is the Lord and in their understanding of His ways. Not that we can by searching find out God and know him to perfection. The limitations of our nature forbid such a thought. The agnostic borrowed this truth from the scriptures, it was not original with him. But he refused to listen to the counterpart of this truth. The whole truth is "Eye hath not seen nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man the things that God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by His spirit."

We ought never to quote the first without quoting the last. And because our knowledge of God is not perfect shall we reject what we have? Is this what men do with scientific matters? What branch of knowledge is there that men know to perfection? Have we learned all there is to know about Botany, Chemistry, Geology, Astronomy? As well might men discard their knowledge of the sciences because it is so meagre, or throw away their money because it is so scant as to reject their knowledge of God because it is not complete. Even though we cannot by searching find out God and know the almighty to perfection we may by searching know him unto salvation—and this is much better.

We may apprehend the loving-kindness of God which bears with our follies, soothes our pains, relieves our wants, comforts us in our trouble, strengthens us in our weakness and this is worth infinitely more than the profoundest philosophy of the divine existence could possibly be. And when Christian faith looks beyond the present strife with its deeds of violence and blood, its exhibitions of injustice and oppression and remembers that, however much man may grow discouraged, "He shall not fail nor be discouraged till he hath set righteousness in the earth and the just shall wait for his law," it finds a pillow upon which to lean its head.
"Thy saints in all this glorious war shall conquer, though they die,
They see the triumph from afar,
By faith they bring it nigh."

A Line or Two.
"And then it snowed"—the day after the election.
Jerry Cunningham requests us to state that the fire in the First ward originated in Lamb's houses.
Big storm coming. May it bring plenty of rain.
"I'm afraid, Johnny, said the Sunday-school teacher, rather severely, "that I will never meet you in heaven."
"Why? What you been doin'?" was the quick response.

Lamp-chimneys cost so little that we let them go on breaking. We go on buying and grumbling.
What should we do?
Get Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass;" they are made of tough glass, tough against heat; they do not break in use; they do from accident.
They are fine, well made, exact; they fit the lamps they are made for; stand upright; the shade is right; they make a right draught for light; they are uniform. Both bear a label for your protection. Look for it. Be willing to pay a nickel more and stop this constant expense and annoyance.
