THEATRICAL NOTES.

Plays Booked for Production at Ferguson's Theatre.

After the milk-and-water society melodramas which have been running here all winter it is refreshing to see one of the old-fashioned realistic dramas, such as "The Bandit King," which was produced at Niblo's Garden last night. There is no lack of action in the play, and the audience never wearies. With live horses on the stage and hair-breadth escapes from death, its attention is constantly riveted upon the actors. Judging from the packed house the first night, we predict a heavy business for "The Bandit King," which will delight the patrons of Niblo's Garden for the next two weeks.—N. Y. Daily Graphic. "The Bandit King" will be produced at Ferguson's theatre to-morrow evening, Nov. 25th.

MILLER BROTHERS' "KAJANKA."
"Kajanka" presents a novelty in a female quartette, four bright and beautiful young English girls, have just been brought from London by the Miller Brothers and will be an entirely new feature with the great production in their engagement in this city. "Kajanka" will be produced in Ferguson's theatre on Saturday evening, Nov. 25th.

"THE MERRY COBBLER."
The people who were in attendance to see John R. Franz Cumpson and his excellent company present "The Merry Cobbler" at the Eleventh Avenue Opera House last evening, were in no way disappointed, as the play was one of the best that has been in the city for some time. The title role was strongly portrayed by John R. Cumpson, who is a comedian of no mean order. The Murray twin sisters are two of the cleverest children that have ever appeared in Altoona.—Altoona Sunday News. "The Merry Cobbler" will appear at Ferguson's theatre on next Tuesday evening, Nov. 29th.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanent beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Coming Events.

Dec. 26 and 27—"The Confederated Spy; or The Blue and Gray," under the auspices of Henry Horncastle Camp, No. 49, Sons of Veterans, in Ferguson's theatre, for the benefit of Soldiers' Monument fund.

GLEANINGS IN GERMANY.

Interesting Articles Based Upon Notes of a Shenandoahite.

The HERALD-to-day publishes another interesting article on a visit to Germany written by Henry Wiederhold, of this town, who is now visiting that country.

EDITOR HERALD—After inspecting Prince Bismark's house to our entire satisfaction, we were led through the garden and park to the historic gate at which, every afternoon, the Prince seats himself and talks to the many admiring friends who pilgrimage hither to pay homage to their favorite. The same plainness which prevails in the Prince's house, strikes you in the garden and park. As the gardener says, "He is a child of nature." Nothing artistic, no fancy laid out flower beds, such as you find in so many fashionable gardens nowadays, have room here. The flowers and trees are not pinched into plan and shape, but are permitted to grow and spread to their heart's content. Even the birds seem to know that in these surroundings only peace and good will reign. Undisturbed by your presence, they jump and fly from branch to branch, singing praises to their Creator. But this is not to be wondered at, for has not the Prince's friendly hand provided hundreds of small houses for them to nest in.

Since my return to Germany I carry with me a small camera and take photographs of all places of interest. To my great pleasure I was permitted to take views of Bismark's interesting place.

While seated in the train on my way back to Hamburg I could not help letting my thoughts pass over the history of this great old man. From youth up he had served the House of Hohenzollern, had made Prussia what Prussia is, had increased Germany to its present size, and by good, sound politics had placed it among the foremost of all nations. How devout had he served his old master, how willingly had King William always bent his ear to his advice; how friendly, yet almost brotherly, were the relations between old King William and his Chancellor. On former visits to my native country I had always found old Emperor William steering by the help of the tried Chancellor, the ship of state in safe waters, his policy supported by his people, and the Emperor and his people living happily together.

Under these circumstances, although holding that the Republican form of government in my adopted country was the best, I could not at that time see, as others could, the many drawbacks of a monarchy. There is a vast difference between now and then. The old Emperor is dead and a young Emperor has taken hold of the reins. The old Chancellor has been dismissed, and a new one has been made. As a result treaties have been made and the Emperor has been obliged to withdraw several proposed laws which aroused the indignation of the people. During my seven months' stay here I have had a chance to hear the sentiments of all classes, and I know that there is a feeling of dissatisfaction. The best proof of this is that the government, with all its might, was not able to quell the popular feeling for Prince Bismark on his last journey through the Empire. All that could be done was to keep back the demonstrations, but to no purpose. Like a mighty whirlwind the enthusiasm of the German people broke forth to show the great deeds he had done for the Fatherland; the hearts of the people are of a higher and nobler cast and could not forget him and what he had accomplished.

Upon my return to Hamburg I spent the next two days sightseeing, not knowing that the dreaded cholera had already taken deep root in the city. I returned at once to Cassel. Enough censure has fallen upon the authorities of Hamburg and I will not say more about the cholera, further than that the disease had started a week before I got there and on the day I left there were 250 new cases and 154 deaths.

I will remain in Cassel with my wife and brother and his lady until the middle of January, when we will start for a two-weeks' tour of Italy. We shall cross the Alps by way of Brunner-Pass, visit the lakes of upper Italy; go to Genoa; and from there along the Riviera to Nice and Monaco; then return to Genoa and before returning to Cassel visit Pisa, Rome, Naples, Mt. Vesuvius, Isle of Capri, Florence, Venice, Friest, cross Senning Pass to Vienna, then Munich and Murensberg. We set sail about the first or middle of April, next, for the land of the stars and stripes and hope to meet all our friends well and hearty. HENRY WIEDERHOLD.

A Wonderful Change!

Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, of No. 35 West Coal street, tells us that she has been troubled with palpitation of the heart and shortness of breath, for the past five or six years, often times so bad that she could not attend to her household duties. She tried many remedies but she got no relief until she got Mexican Blood Tonic. One bottle did her so much good that she sent for more, which she thinks will permanently cure her. She cheerfully recommends it to all sufferers of the same complaint.
