AMUSEMENT NOTES.

References to Ferguson Theatre Coming Attractions.

For thrilling scenes, romantic, realistic and terrific border life, "The Bandit King," as presented at the Academy last night by Jas. H. Wallack and his dramatic company, is superior to anything of a similar character that has been produced in this city in some time. Mr. Wallack is a great actor, displaying dramatic power that is seldom seen on the stage, and we believe honors await him in the more refined line of the drama. His support is good—New York Times. "The Bandit King" will be produced at Ferguson's theatre this evening.

"KAJANKA."
To-morrow evening, Nov. 30th, we are to have a decided novelty at Ferguson's theatre in "Kajanka," a pantomimic farce comedy. Pretty girls, brighter costumes, original and clever acting, the latest songs, European specialties, funny comedians, Azany, the best clown on the American stage, all combine to make "Kajanka" what every one likes to see, a clean, bright, wholesome entertainment. Wonderful and original acrobatics will be executed by the Cornalls, a family of French gymnasts engaged expressly for "Kajanka." Misses Alice Tennus, Annie Atherton and the Sisters Sennett are recent European engagements, and their dancing is described as most intricately beautiful and artistic.

"THE MERRY COBBLER."
Mr. John Franz Cumpson, in his new play entitled "The Merry Cobbler," opened at the Standard theatre yesterday matinee and night to two large audiences. The young actor was given a warm reception and was applauded for his clever work. Two clever little children are very good. Their several specialties were received with applause and won for themselves several encores. The company throughout is a good one and played their parts well.—Milledale Journal. "The Merry Cobbler" will be produced at Ferguson's theatre on next Tuesday evening, November 29th.

"HOLD IN SLAVERY."
An attraction of unusual merit is booked for Ferguson's theatre on Wednesday, Nov. 30th. Martin Haysden's nautical melodrama, "Hold in Slavery," which has been pronounced by press and public equally as strong as the White Slave and Outcast, will be produced by a company of unusual excellence under the management of Walter N. Lawrence. The scenery is elaborate, painted by Clare at Nibley's garden, New York. There are incidental novelties introduced including the serpentine dance and pickaninny grotesque dancers.

In Olean Times.
People overlooked the importance of permanent beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

POTTSVILLE LETTER.

Eventful Week at the County's Capital. Special correspondence to HERALD.

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 24th.

It is a great relief to have something besides politics to dish up to the gentle reader, but when that something takes the shape of a chronicle of death, a most unpleasant task is that of the correspondent. When a man who has lived his allotted time on earth, achieved greatness, or performed a mission of good deeds, dies, and is gathered to his fathers; while there is usually great grief among the near relatives of the departed, the universal verdict goes forth, "Well done, large and faithful servant," and the people at large are content. But when death claims for its own a young man just approaching the prime of life and the chief stage of his usefulness, the people marvel at the wonderful ways of Divine Providence. "Why is it," say they, "that this man is removed at a time when he could do the greatest good to the greatest number? Surely this cannot be just—this cannot be the dictum of an all-wise God? And yet it must be so, else he would not have been taken from us."

A GOOD MAN GONE.
The foregoing thoughts were impelled by the death of Rev. W. A. Duffy, pastor of the St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church, of this place, which occurred yesterday evening. As the sun went down, so departed the life of an noble man as ever handled a challice or performed the sacred rites of mass. He had endeared himself to all alike. Protestant, Catholic, Hebrew, all loved Father Duffy, and when it became known on Tuesday that he was seriously ill, the prayers and good wishes of the whole community were offered for his restoration to health. But "Man proposes and God disposes," and Father Duffy who had lived three years less than two score has been removed from us to fill a more exalted position in the eternal world.

Never since the administration of Rev. O'Keefe, who was parish priest here in the early fifties, has there lived one in the same sphere of usefulness so much loved as Rev. Duffy. When Rev. O'Keefe was removed, the grief was universal, as it is now, that another great man of the church has left us, but there is a marked difference in their taking off. Father O'Keefe had performed his mission—had lived to be an old man and then had died in peace, regretted and mourned by all. Father Duffy would have been thirty-seven years of age on January 1st next, had he lived. Who can say what one's mission is on earth? It may be his work, as laid out for him by the Almighty, was done, and yet when we look at the unfinished temple on Mahantongo street, and remember that when he was placed in this parish, with the distinct understanding that a new church edifice should be his first particular duty, besides the usual seasonal duties pertaining to the office of parish priest, we wonder he was removed. How nobly and eagerly he undertook his task; and how successfully and religiously he carried it almost to the point of completion! The beautiful edifice now stands as a monument to the memory of a good man. Father Duffy is dead to the world, but Father Duffy lives in the hearts of a grief-stricken community, who will mourn him as the one young man in Holy orders who accomplished the greatest good to the greatest number.

JUDGE PERSHING'S ILLNESS.
Another event which gave us a shock this week was the sudden illness of our President Judge in the Judges' consultation room on Wednesday. The Judge has looked, and claims to have felt, remarkably well of late. He was trying cases in court room No. 2, and just after the noon recess had retired to his room to prepare for his luncheon. When Judge Bechtel, who is trying the Phillips' homicide case, entered the room, he discovered the Judge vomiting at the basin, and noticed he had thrown up some blood. It was an alarming condition, but very soon physicians were summoned, and the veteran jurist was removed to his home. I am pleased to be able to record the fact that the Judge's sickness is believed to be of a slight character, and by Monday next it is expected he will occupy his seat on the bench, ready for periodical work again. Let us hope so at least, for no matter how some of us may have differed as to the policy of continuing Judge Pershing on the bench for another period of ten years, the fact remains that his retirement at this time caused by sickness or otherwise would entail upon us a great loss, and would bring about next year another one of those disagreeable judicial fights—which of all contests, are most to be dreaded in this county. It is the hope of the masses, including your scribe, that Judge Pershing will live out his term and many years of usefulness thereafter.

CHANCE FOR REFORM.
A Philadelphia lawyer, who visited our court recently on a Monday when the Quarter Sessions opened, was horrified to be obliged to listen to the reading of opinions, some of extreme length, indulged in by all of the judges, whilst there waited to be charged a grand jury; and, whilst there waited constables to be sworn to their returns; whilst the District Attorney waited to go before the grand jury with his prepared bill; and whilst there were in attendance no three people out of over one hundred in the room who were interested in either of the cases decided. Said the visitor, "This reading of opinions by the judges is a relic of the old fogy age. It is not done in the United States Supreme Court, Circuit or District Courts of the United States, nor is it habitual with the fifteen judges in Philadelphia. I visit many counties in the state and I do not know a court that indulges in this practice to the extent that your county court does. They should announce their decisions, hand down their opinions and let those interested read them."

The gentleman was right. If his idea should take shape and be adopted we would have a much needed reform here, and at the beginning of each term, business could be proceeded with at the morning session of the first day.

I do not want to be hypocritical, but simply desire to respectfully suggest wherein judges learned in the law, may learn something besides law, and that is expedition.

PLUMS FOR THE PATRIOTS.

Where the Headman Will Swing His Axe.

There are about 5200 post offices in Pennsylvania upon which the eyes of the Democratic faithful are now cast. Of these, less than 300 pay salaries above $1000 a year, the balance being what are known as fourth-class offices where the postmasters receive commissions ranging from $100 a year up to $1000. These fourth-class offices are subject to the operations of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General's axe and the occupants of them will have no assurance of continuance in office after the 4th of next March. The office ranging above $1000 a year and known as first, second and third-class are the principal plums sought after. The custom has been for the incumbents of these to be allowed to serve out a term of four years from the time of their appointment. Whether this semi-civil service arrangement will be carried out by Mr. Cleveland in his second administration remains to be seen.

To those Democratic workers who contemplate entering the government service as postmasters in this county the following list of officers, together with the date of the expiration of the terms of the present incumbents and the salaries paid, will be interesting:

- Ashland, February 19, 1894, $1,700. Mahanoy City, February, 1894, $1,900. Minersville, May, 1893, $1,200. Pottsville, January, 1895, $2,500. Schuylkill Haven, December, 1894, $1,200. Shenandoah, December, 1893, $2,100. Tamaqua, January, 1895, $1,600.

I suffered for years from dyspepsia and received the attendance of a number of different physicians, but could secure no relief.
