BUDDENSIK IS FREE.

The Flimsy Building Contractor Released from Sing Sing. New York, Dec. 2.—Warden Brown, of Sing Sing prison, in reply to an inquiry from Recorder Smythe as to the conduct of Charles A. Buddensiek, who was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment in State prison and fined $500 in 1885 for building unsafe houses in this city, stated that the prisoner's conduct has beyond reproach.

In consequence of this, the Recorder ordered that he be released, and remitted the $500 fine. Buddensiek was a building contractor, and gained an unenviable reputation for erecting buildings in which the materials used were of the cheapest kind. A row of buildings in course of construction on West 60th street tumbled down during a storm, killing several men employed thereon. Buddensiek was indicted for manslaughter, and his trial, conviction, and sentence quickly followed.

GOULD AT DEATH'S DOOR

The Great Financier Cannot Long Survive. RETICENCE AS TO HIS ILLNESS.

Believed, However, that He is Dying of Consumption—All His Family at the bedside—Dr. Munn in Constant Attendance—No One Admitted to the House, Not Even Intimate Friends. New York, Dec. 2.—"Mr. Gould is very low." That is the answer the butler gave to every one who called last night at the house of Jay Gould. There was a startling significance in that answer. During all the attacks of illness which have troubled Mr. Gould for the last two years, the butler has invariably been instructed to deny that Mr. Gould was sick.

In the Stock Exchange it has often been rumored that Mr. Gould was consumptive; that he had been afflicted with heart disease; that he had been at death's door, and that he was dead. Every time the Gould stocks were attacked by the bears rumors of his death have been sent afloat by the industrious brokers. This time, however, there is no question that the great financier is lying dangerously ill. Friends say the butler would not have received instructions to make the announcement of Mr. Gould's critical condition if there were any hopes of his recovery.

ALL HIS FAMILY AT HOME. The entire family was at the house, including the sons, George and Edwin, and their wives; Howard Gould, the youngest son, and Miss Helen Gould, who is herself said to be lying ill in another room.

Dr. John A. Munn, the family physician, was in constant attendance in the sick room yesterday and last night. Dr. James G. Janeway was also called in at noon, and the physicians held anxious consultations over the patient. The greatest mystery surrounds the house. No one is admitted, not even the most intimate friends. Several who called succeeded in getting personal messages to George and Edwin, but only received answers that Mr. Gould was "very ill."

George Gould was at the office in the Western Union building all day yesterday. He looked harassed and careworn. He had been sitting up all night with his father. It has been thought for two years that Mr. Gould would not live long. He has been troubled with neuralgia in the head and the concomitant insomnia. This trouble was aggravated by a nervous dyspepsia, which required dieting and constant watchfulness on the part of his physician, Dr. Munn.

James Dunler, engineer on the switch engine, and Charles McDowell, his driver, were instantly killed. The wreck of both engine and cars was complete.

THE YACHTS WILL RACE.

Lord Dunsraven's Challenge Confirmed by the Royal Squadron. New York, Dec. 2.—In a long cable despatch sent by Lord Dunsraven from his country seat, Adare, in Ireland, he states that his challenge for the American Cup has been confirmed by the Royal Yacht Squadron of England, and that it should arrive in New York on Sunday next.

"My yacht," said he, "will be christened the Valkyrie. She will be 85 feet on the water line. She will be designed by G. L. Watson and built on the Clyde. Her custom house measurement will follow the challenge as soon as practicable." The conditions are, in brief, that the boat must win three out of five races, which shall be sailed over outside courses, and at least three of the races must be to windward or leeward and return.

If he wins he says that he will not refuse to accept a challenge under the dead gift of 1887, which means that he accepts the new dead gift. This is good news for yachtsmen here, and many of them are expressing satisfaction to-day. They feel sure there will be a race, and Ex-Commodore Kane says it will be the biggest yachting event that has ever been seen in the world.

Satoli.

A BAD BANK FAILURE.

Threats of Depositors of the Collapsed Stone City Bank. JOLIET, Ill., Dec. 2.—The condition of the collapsed Stone City Bank and the Enterprise company looks more serious to-day. Everything in sight has been attached. The many small depositors who responded to the advertisement of the bank for long-time deposit on interest are breathing all sorts of threats.

The father of the Fish brothers is almost crazed by the crash. He placed every confidence in his son George as a financier. Exception Filed in Potter's Case. BOSTON, Dec. 2.—Asa P.
