SUNDAY SERMON.

The Discourse of Rev. Powick to the M. E. Congregation.

The sermon in the M. E. church on Sun day morning was from I John, 2-1: "My little children, these things write I unto you that yo sin not. And if any man sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteons." Note the tenderness of the address: "My little children." The reference is to spiritual children. He writes not to children in years but to those whom he had been the means of bringing to Christ. They included "fathers" and "young men."

One of the most touching traditions of the early church is one that informs us that when the Apostle of love was too old to preach he was often carried into the shurch where he would my "Little children, love one another." The church was his family and its members were his children. With the solicitude of # F. Conney, proprietor, M. A. Conney, assistfather and the tenderness of a mother be admonishes them against the evils that surrounded them. And when he could no longer address them in person he writes unto them that they sin not. That is, the purpose of his message is to impress them with the duty of living without sin and to show them how to do it. This very declaration shows his hostility to several conceptions of religion which existed in his day and which still linger among us. One was that heathen notion that sin is somehow inevitable and that religion has little or no relation to it. If a man was rich he might thank the gods for it, but if he was virtuous he might thank himself. Religion was a way of gain, not of godliness.

Then there was that autinomian Idea that a man might be an outrageous sinner and at the same time by some sort of ecclesiastical legerdemain a pure and holy saint; that an orthodox creed would atone for a heterodox beart and scaddalous life. And again there was the Jewish conception of religion as prowiding pardon for the guilty while marcely rising to the apprehension of a spiritual altogether. But John writes to enable men men from sin and not in sin. The charactermaking power of religion is the full measure from ain can searcely save from hell. Upon what ground men who are made us better by their creeds and professions and devotions expect to get to heaven is incomprehensible.

But John also makes known the manner in which we may avoid sin. He shows plainly that the thing is possible. Men say "it cannot be." But John says it can and must be. He that committeeh sin is of the devil. "He that is bern of God doth not commit sin for his seed remaineth in him and he cannot ain because he is born of God." Men seldem attempt the impossible. They never rise above their talth. They often fall beneath it. But the attainments of men are to be taken as the limit of their possibilities. Let a moralist believe he must commit some sin and he will not strive for perfection. Convince the wretched drunkard, libertine, prostitute, thief, liar, that there is hope for them in a Saviour who is able to save to the uttermost, and multitudes of them would seek an interest in his blood. Many wretched outcasts from society remain such through despair. A prisoner once expressed regret to me that his term of imprisonment was so near out, "I must leave the jail with the brand of a felon, and where shall I go and what shall I do?" John tells them of the "advocate with the Pather" -of the obtained of mercy for the guilty and strength for the Jesus the prisoners feiters breaks And bruises satus a head; Power into strengthiese souls he speaks, And life into the dead.

We hear much of the Comforter whon Jenus was to send to convict the world of sin, of righteonsness and of judgement, but not so much about our advocate with the Father But the original word for comforter is the same as that for advocate. And placing these two passages together we have the inexpressibly precious truth that while the Holy Spirit-the other Comforter-is pleading the cause of God upon earth, the advocate, Jesus Christ the rightcous-the Comforter-is pleading the cause of man in heaven.

A GOVERNMENT POSITION

School Teacher Leckie Will Resign to go to Washington. Adam E. L. Leckie last night received a elegram informing him of his appointment to a position in the postal department at Washington. Mr. Leckic says he does not know just what the position is or the salary attached to it, but he is confident it is a good one. To a HERALD reporter to-day he said: I was in Washington last week and received ssurance that my appointment was a good one and it was ready then. I could not occept at the time and leave my present esition honorably; so I asked one week's ime to notify the School Board of my intention to resign. The telegram I received last night notified me that the position would be held until next Monday and I have notified Superintendent Freeman that I will accept t. I will finish my teaching Friday evening and will leave for Washington Saturday norning to enter upon my duties the followog Monday." Mr. Leckie passed a civil service examinaion some time ago and did not bear anything of it after until last week, when he was sumnoned to Washington. He is a graduate of the High School of town, and in 1886 graduated at the Bloomsburg State Normal School. Immediately after he was appointed aperintendent of the ten schools in Black Creek township, and held the position for two years, when he received an appointment as eacher in one of the primary schools here. Shortly after J. Claude Keiper was appointed to a position in the War Department at Washington and Mr. Lockie succeeded him as teacher in one of the second grade grammar schools in the White street building, which is the position he is now resigning. Mr. Leckie is but 28 years of age.

Torturing, Life Destroying Dyspep-sia Cured. Another Triumph for Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Mr. James S. Dean, Commander of Gen. Grant Post, G.A.B., Readout, N.Y., and Chief U. S. Mail Agent of the Ulster & Delaware Railroad and one of the most popular and well known Gentlemen in the East, whose veracity is beyond question says:

I was all run down with DYSPEPSIA.

I doctored and doctored but it all resulted the same way. I grew worse. I suffered untold misery night and day. My case was pronounced incuration. I suffered this way for fully TWO YEARS. I chanced to meet Dr. Kennedy on the street about that time, and I told him of my condition and he said, "Junny," you need not suffer so, come to my office and I was all run down with DYSPEPSIA. need not suffer so, come to my office and I'll give you a bottle of FAYORITE REMEDY, take it morning, noon and night, and it will cure you. I took the medicine as directed, but had no consmodicine as directed, but had no confidence in a cure, as my case had been tried by so many. After using it a week I began to feel better, and in a short while after that I was ENTIRELY CURED—"Just think of it, entirely cured. That terrible distress, everything I atopreading up sour in my throat had all gone and I have not had a momente discomfort inca. To day there is no a healthier man in this country and my appetite is grand. I believe I could eat a EEG OF NAILS II I had to and digest them with case. PROF. SMITH DECLARED GUILTY. But by Se Small a Majority That He Will Hardly be Expelled.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 13.—The second and third charges upon which Prof. Henry P. Smith was found guilty yesterday afternoon relate to the views held by him on inspiration.

The second charge was that he taught contrary to the Word of God and the Confession of Faith, that the Holy Spirit did not so control the inspired writers in their composition of the Holy Scriptures as to make their utterances wholly and absolutely truthful, i. e., free from error when interpreted in their natural and in-

The third charge accused him of teaching an inspiration of the Scriptures in a sense different from that taught by the Scriptures themselves and by the Confession of Faith.

In view of the close vote (second charge—guitty, 36, not guitty, 26; third charge—guitty, 32, not guitty, 26), it is surmised that the penalty of excommunication will not be recommended, and possi-bly not even more than an admonition, as the committee is made up to include several supporters of the accused.

TRIED TO KILL A PRIEST. Attempt Upon the Life of Father Brady of Wilkesbarre.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Dec. 13 .- An attempt was made last night to assussinate Rev. Father Brady, a Catholic priest at Beaver Meadows. The priest was sitting near a window reading when he was suddenly startled by the crashing of a bullet through the window pane.

He instantly dropped his book and rushed into the street in pursuit of his would be murderers. On account of the darkness of the night the priest could not follow the person who fired the shot. The authorities were immediately notified and a diligent search is being made for the would-be murderer. The priest has always been on the best terms with the people hereabouts and no cause can be as signed for the attempt upon his life.
