OUR POTTSVILLE LETTER!

OUR CORRESPONDENT'S TRIBUTE TO THE DEAD.

COMING TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

County Superintendent Weiss Preparing For It—An Attack on the Scandal Mongers' at the County Seater.

Special HERALD Correspondence.

POTTSVILLE, Dec. 14. DEATH has once again entered the ranks of the legal profession, and this time it dealt a terrible blow. It bereft a family of a kind husband and father, the community of a good citizen and the profession of a bright, particular star, at once brilliant, witty and talented, one who, had it not been his destiny to die young, would have been destined to become a leader among men of his calling.

Next week will be Pottsville's most gala one of all the year. The bright and happy faces of a small army of school marms will lighten upon homes, streets and halls, and the busy scenes of many a former winter week will be re-enacted.

In addition to the other attractions in store for the teachers of the gentler sex, there is one which will be particularly enjoyable. It is the ball to be given in their honor by Division No. 1, A. O. H., at Robbins' Hall, on the night of the 21st inst.

Speaking of gossip suggests the recollection of the fact that this place was not behind the door when the scandal mongers' belt was presented, as prize to be given to the town containing the most and the worst backbiters, slanders, general all-around, lively, bustling, and never-go-to-sleep, genuine scandal mongers.

THE SCANDAL MONGERS' ABODE. Worth of stock to select from in plain, hand, fancy, engraved, stone and other rings, jewelry, gold and silver watches, silverware and fancy goods, at Holderman's, corner Main and Lloyd streets. 12-19-tf TIMELY TOPICS. A String of Thoughts and Fancies of the Editor. A number of our town people took tumbles yesterday and gave striking warnings that it is better to keep the pavements clear of ice and snow.

POINTS. Let us be truthful. Judge Pershing is not improving and no one knows it better than his attending physician and his colleagues on the bench, who visited him last Sunday.

stick man. His restoration to health and strength is what every one is praying for, but there is no denying that there is danger that the prayers will not be answered just in the way wished for by no mortals.

Rev. F. J. McGovern's sermon over the body of deceased lawyer Nash was one of the finest ever delivered here. Not only his own parishioners but the many representatives and members of Protestant congregations present have expressed themselves in accord with this assertion.

The trial of "Reddy" Ziegler, for the murder of Kepley, drags wearily along. What the outcome will be no one knows, and there is no use in a newspaper's prophesying about it. Let the law take its course the same as nature did with the two Gondolas related in the story told of the New York alderman.

ALL'S WELL THAT ENDS WELL

The Pennsylvania Bridge Matter Has Been Amicably Adjusted. To all appearance the difficulty between the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the borough over the bridge and its abutment in the road near the Cambridge colliery has been adjusted in a manner satisfactory to all parties.

The borough is particularly well satisfied, in that by the agreement it secures a removal of the abutment and the railroad company agrees to span the road.

Pursuant to an arrangement made at Pottsville on Monday by Chief Burgess Smith, Councilmen Lamb and Stout, and A. W. Schalck, Esq., who has been retained as counsel for the borough to succeed the late John A. Nash, there was a meeting in town yesterday of officials and counsel of both the company and the borough.

The meeting was held at the Pennsylvania depot and at the bridge. Those present were Mr. Crawford, of Philadelphia, assistant vice president, and Mr. Tripler, of Norristown, chief engineer of the railroad, Guy E. Farquhar, Esq., its counsel, Burgess Smith, Mr. Schalck, and Councilmen Gable and Lamb.

In behalf of the borough the removal of the abutment and a span of 25 feet across the road and 13 feet above it was demanded. After many measurements, considerable figuring and a consultation that extended over an hour and a half Mr. Crawford announced that the company would agree to the demand and it was its intention to sustain harmonious relations with the borough.

This announcement concluded the conference and it is expected that the company's concession will be produced in writing to the Borough Council at its meeting to-night.

USE DANA'S SASSAPARILLA, ITS "THE KIND THAT CURES." Quite a Difference. This morning a HERALD reporter was informed that a child in the First ward had broken her neck by falling upon an icy pavement. The reporter went to the house indicated and learned that John D. Ward, a young man boarding there, was nursing a badly inflamed leg that was kicked by a mule at the Knickerbocker colliery yesterday.

IS HE KNAVE OR FOOL?

A STRANGE TORMENTOR OF YOUNG WOMEN.

A SCHOOL TEACHER PEOSTRATED

Surprised and Chased in a Lonely Place by a Man who Appears Nude—Two Other Victims. Supposed Lunatic.

YOUNG lady of town who teaches in one of the Mahanoy township schools had a sensational experience Tuesday afternoon. Owing to the location of the school house the young lady is obliged to walk to her home here every evening.

According to the story, the young lady, whose name is withheld by request, closed the school at the usual hour and started for town. A lonely walk of about two miles was before her. After traveling about half the distance and upon reaching a place where large rocks and dried bushes and small trees are quite thick the young lady was astounded to see a man, entirely nude, from the road behind her.

At first the teacher was almost paralyzed by fright, but quickly recovering her presence of mind she screamed for help and ran as fast as she could. The man gave chase, but the effects of the frozen ruts in the road upon his bare feet must have impeded his progress, for the young lady finally succeeded in leaving him at a safe distance behind.

The excitement kindled the teacher's strength until she reached her home, when reaction set in and complete collapse followed. Yesterday she was prostrated and unable to attend the school.

It is said that later in the evening two young women who had occasion to pass along the same road were frightened and chased by the same man, but they escaped him.

Inquiry and search about the scene and in the neighboring patches failed to bring out any information that would lead to the identity of the man, or his whereabouts. It is the opinion that the fellow may be an escaped lunatic, for a man who would wander about the roads and hills without clothing in such weather as we have had the past few days can hardly be of sound mind.

The matter is being thoroughly investigated and if the guilty party is apprehended he will be severely punished, unless he should prove to be insane, in which case he will be put some place where he will always find a suit of clothes at hand.

OBES OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

Christmas is but ten days off and the people are beginning to realize its approach. I met a gentleman yesterday who showed me a crisp five dollar bill he had laid away for more than a month and he had not been able to make up his mind for exactly what piece of merchandise to give it in exchange, the reason of his indecision being, that that particular bank note was destined to purchase a Christmas present for no less a person than his wife. It seems strange that any one should hesitate very long about such a simple thing, especially as the list from which one may choose comprises an endless variety of "ruds and cuffs and farthingales and things."

But perhaps it is the very numerosity of these "things" that discourages most men. But be it known once for all that everything belonging to a woman is useful, no matter how a man may regard it, as there never was any woman who was known to admit that even the smallest, the most frivolous of her "fixings" might be dispensed with. In case some man better supplied with this world's goods than the one I refer to, with his solitary $5 bill, reads this in the hopes of finding some helpful hint, he need not despair at the inexpensiveness of the "things" as any merchant will be only too happy to do away with that inconvenience for the consideration of a few more dollars.

All people having the interests of the borough at heart will rejoice that the Pennsylvania bridge matter has been satisfactorily adjusted and that there is no more danger of a clashing of the borough authorities with the railroad company or of interminable legal controversies.

The McHale-Gaughan stabbing case, which was fixed for trial at the present term of criminal court, has been postponed again and goes over to the January term.

Local interest in court matters is centered upon the Ziegler murder trial. The accused man is well known here having been a frequent visitor to this place pursuing his duty as constable. There is an impression here that Ziegler stands an excellent chance of an acquittal.

"The Drummer Boy, or Spy of Shiloh," which is to be produced at Ferguson's theatre to-morrow and Saturday evenings, under the auspices of Washington Camp, No. 205, P. O. S. of A., is pleasantly remembered by many of our townsmen. It has been produced here several times and each time the houses were crowded. The coming productions will be under the immediate direction of A. F. Nail, who is well known here, and who will assume the role of Uncle Joe. Another feature will be the appearance of Mr. Phil J. Connell, of Pottsville, who will assume the character of Frank Redledge. Mr. Connell is the general clerk in the County Commissioners' office. He has played the part many times during past years and it is said that he stands without an equal in the character. The cast includes over one hundred people. "The Drummer Boy" revives a spirit of old times that will result in crowded houses.
