JOE RAKLESS THE MAN!

THE LANIGAN GIRL CHASER
A PRISONER.

HE PROVES A RESIDENT OF TOWN

Three of His Victims Positively Identify Him and Two Other Witnesses are Held in Reserve.

YOUNG women who have occasion to travel between town and Ellengowan and neighboring patches may do so in the future without fear of molestation, for a time at least. Last week the HERALD gave an account of a man appearing in a nude condition on the highway leading to Jackson's Patch and chasing a young lady who resides in this town and who teaches school in Mahanoy township.

Since the case was reported the Coal & Iron police and constables of this town have been on the lookout for the rascal. Constable Toomey finally succeeded in locating him in a Polish boarding house in the First ward. The man was arrested and taken before Squire Monaghan.

At the hearing Miss Agnes Shirey, who resides at Lanigan's, and works in a dress making establishment on East Centre street, Miss Lizzie Corrigan, also of Lanigan's, and working at the same place, and Miss Bridget Corrigan, who is employed at Miss Maggie Mack's dress making establishment on South Main street, appeared as witnesses.

Another Miss Corrigan and Miss Sadie Daniels, of town, are also witnesses, but they were not called and their testimony is held in reserve until the trial. These two ladies are teachers in the same school in Mahanoy township.

The accused man, whose name is Joe Rakless, protested his innocence and the young ladies who appeared before the justice were not quite positive of their identification at first. They said the man who chased them wore an overcoat and they described parts of the coat that were covered with mud.

Rakless admitted that he owned an overcoat and offered to go to his boarding house and get it, but Constable Toomey was sent after the garment and found it.

When the coat was produced Rakless protested that it was not his coat and turned his arms and shoulders into various shapes to show that it would not fit him. The constable and justice finally succeeded in getting the coat on him and it fitted the man perfectly.

As soon as the coat was fitted the three witnesses shouted in chorus, "Yes, he is the man, and there are the patches of mud on the coat."

The identification seemed complete and the accused was held for trial, William Yetko furnishing $1,000 bail for him.

Rakless gave further evidence of his guilt by explaining that he was not near the scene when the alleged acts were committed, although he had not been informed of the time they were committed. When asked how he knew the day Miss Daniels was chased he became confused and declined to say any more. Rakless worked as a laborer in the Suffolk colliery for John Lavey, of town.

"THE DRUMMER BOY."

It Was Presented by a Strong Cast Saturday Evening.

Ferguson's theatre was comfortably filled Saturday evening to witness the second production of the war drama, "The Drummer Boy, or Spy of Shiloh," under the auspices of Camp 206, P. O. S. of A. The committee not only showed good judgment in the selection of this play, but displayed wise selections in the filling of the various characters. The latter was the finest display of dramatic home talent that has yet appeared upon the boards of this theatre. The numerous encores and favorable comments by those who witnessed the performances fully attest this fact. A request has been made from Girardville for the production of the play, by the same cast, in that town on the 27th inst.

Phil. J. Connell, of Girardville, the efficient clerk in the County Commissioners' office, showed his dramatic abilities in the character of "Frank Rutledge," his impersonation of this part being worthy a professional actor. E. J. Cotter, of town, as "Matt Howard," deserves special mention. Although the play has been produced here several times, never before has this character been so ably filled by local talent as it was in the person of Mr. Cotter.

A. F. Nail, owner of the play, as "Uncle Joe," and C. H. Sampson as "Fatty Smith," kept the audience in good humor. The three Gullin sisters, of Pottsville, were favorably received, especially Minnie and Birdie, the former taking the part of "Johnny Howard," the drummer boy, and the latter as "Little Pickaninny." Their singing and dancing were excellent, and elicited hearty applause. In fact, the entire cast, from the military display to the leading characters, could hardly have been improved upon by local talent, and each appeared to be suited to the part assigned him or her.

Holderman's gold watches for $12 are sold elsewhere at $18. Silver watches sold from $3 to $5 lower than elsewhere. Corner Main and Lloyd streets. 12-10-1f

The First Passengers.
The Schuylkill Traction Company's electric railway was opened for traffic between Mahanoy City and Mahanoy Plane on Thursday last. The first car left the former place about 2 o'clock, having on board Chief Engineer Robert Binning, Superintendent Gillan, Mr. Amour, and three employees of the company, and as passengers Mrs. McGuire, Wm. A. Bessinger and E. J. Ford. The car jumped the track below Mahanoy City and the two first named passengers made up their minds it would not go through, and walked back home. Butcher Ford determined to go through, however, and stayed with the car, thereby earning the honor of being the first passenger to make the trip from Mahanoy City to Mahanoy Plane and back. On the return a Mrs. Neary, a woman of Gilberton weighing nearly 300 pounds, who had made a bet of $5 with her son that she would ride to Mahanoy City on the first car that went through, got on board at that place and earned the distinction of being the first lady passenger to Mahanoy City on the electric railway.

IMPORTANT ARRESTS!

THE RESULT OF KATIE CONNELL'S CONFESSION.

TWO WOMEN AND THEIR GIRLS

Charged With Encouraging a Girl in Crime and Purchasing the Spoils for Trifling Sums. Held for Trial.

CONSTABLE TOOMEY and Squire Monaghan made several important arrests Saturday and unearthed a nest of thieves who have been preying for some time upon several young women who have been striving to earn a livelihood by conducting a dress making establishment on West Coal street.

The Misses Connell, daughters of Patrick Connell, have been conducting a dress making establishment at their home, 516 West Coal street. For the past two years they have missed pieces of dress goods and even finished dresses. Numerous articles belonging to the family also disappeared. Finally the losses ran up to close upon $300, but until recently no clue to the guilty person could be found.

Finally suspicion rested upon the fourteen-year-old daughter of the family, Katie. She was watched and found carrying goods from the house to a saloon kept by one Sockolosky at the extreme western end of Coal street.

Katie was accused and she confessed. Her story was a revelation. She said that for the past two years she has stolen various articles from her home and upon taking them to Sockolosky's saloon and the house of Mrs. Kate Collonovsky, a woman living near the saloon, she received small sums of money.

Katie did not charge Sockolosky, but implicated his wife, Eva, and her two daughters, Maggie and Alice, aged 16 and 22 years, respectively, Mrs. Kate Collonovsky and her daughter, Mary aged 14 years. The girl said that these people encouraged her in the thieving business and received the booty from her, paying from 5 to 50 cents for various articles. Fifty cents, she said, was the most she received at one time. For one article worth about $12 she received but 50 cents.

Upon the girl's statement Squire Monaghan issued a search warrant and he and Constable Toomey executed it. When they went to search the Sockolosky and Collonovsky houses they found that the accused women had already started to carry some of the stolen goods back to the Connell residence.

A search brought to light a large quantity of dress goods of all kinds, some cut into patterns and others uncut; carpets, ribbons and trimmings; part of a wedding gown; looking glasses, large and small; table cloths, silk handkerchiefs, ornaments and other articles, valued in the aggregate at about $200 and all identified by the Connell family.

The accused parties were asked what they did with a fancy wheelbarrow, a parlor ornament, and one of them said she had donated it to the Lithuanian fair, which closed recently. She said it would be returned.

Each of the accused were held for trial in the sum of $500, which was furnished by Mrs. Sockolosky's husband.

"Squire Monaghan believes that he has succeeded in unearthing a notorious 'fence'."

A BOLD ACT.
But the Intruder Got More Than he Bargained For.

Saturday night an unknown Polish or Hungarian man called at the Dr. Stein's office. The office boy had just left and Mrs. Stein is visiting her parents in Philadelphia, so only the doctor and the visitor were in the house. The man demanded fifty cents and Dr. Stein refused to give it to him. The fellow then drew an ugly knife saying, "You I kill you." The physician stepped back a little, but there was no way to get out of the room without passing the intruder. The doctor retained his composure and while slowly advancing tried to convince the man that he had no money, then he suddenly pounced upon the fellow. He pinned the fellow in such a position that he could not use the knife and then pounded him until he cried for mercy and begged to be allowed to depart. The doctor hustled the intruder to the front door and kicked him out. A moment later the would-be robber and knife were out of sight.

Tut, tut! You never heard of so good a remedy for hoarseness as Dr. Cose's Wild Cherry and Seneca. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle.

R. A. Lindsay late of No. 3 Engine Company, Hazleton City Fire Department, says, that the members of his company have used Salvation Oil in cases of sprains and soreness with most gratifying results. It is the best. Only 25 cts.

OBE'S OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

Despite the fact that at no time during the past three years have there been received at the Post Office Department so many resignations from postmasters as are being received now, at no time have there been half so small a number of appointments made each day as at present.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Rathbone, who has charge of the appointments, says that no appointments were being made except to fill vacancies which could be provided for only by appointments, and that no resignations were being received except where more persuasive reasons were assigned than simply that the postmasters wanted to get out of office. A postmaster must serve, and his bondsmen are held for the liability of the office, till a new postmaster is appointed, files his bond and is commissioned.

Shortly after the recent election thousands of fourth class postmasters, mail transfer agents and others in the employ of the Post Office Department, feeling that soon they would be compelled to vacate their positions for men in the opposite political party, began to look about for other employment or to make combinations for the transfer of their positions to Democrats, who, it is supposed, would be protected under the new administration. Resignations began to pour in by the thousands every week. The department officials soon made up their minds that they would not be a party to the exodus of Republicans in the interest of Democrats or anybody else, and so they refuse to accept the resignations unless the officers are incompetent, disabled or show some other equally good reason for desiring relief from their positions.

It requires good grounds, the department says, to get out of or into the post office service now, and this condition will continue till March 4.

Newspaperdom.
The Journal has undergone two changes. The word "Daily" has been added to its heading and it has been increased to seven columns. The latter change is evidence of the Journal's popularity with advertisers.

The Tri-Weekly Record was obliged to issue a supplement Saturday on account of increased advertising patronage.

The Scranton Tribune is entitled to a place in the rank of the foremost enterprising newspapers of the state. It came to us in 24-page shape on Saturday.

The lively and enterprising Allentown Critic has also been enlarged.

The HERALD was issued in eight-page form on Saturday and will appear in that size again next Saturday, unless the holiday advertising requires the double size in the meantime. All advertisements for Saturday evening must be in hand by Thursday evening. Advertising contracts may be made with Mr. C. H. Lewis, or at the publication office.

Picture Men Charged.
Young men have been canvassing Bloomsburg for orders to enlarge pictures. The Daily of that place charge the canvassers with brazen-faced impudence and trickery and with forging the name of one of their victims to a ten dollar order for a picture. Two of the young men threatened to sue the Daily for libel and that paper says an investigation of the charges it made has only resulted in a confirmation of them. The Daily says the young men are W. H. Comstock and R. P. McIntyre and says they are now in Danville. It does not retract the charges. Whether or not the charges are true people cannot be too careful in dealing with strange canvassers, especially when signatures to contracts are sought.

The Caribbean.
The members of the town council made themselves ridiculous on Thursday evening. It looks very funny to an American freeman, when he reads that such a body, the representatives of the people, have decided that hereafter the HERALD shall not be permitted to print its proceedings because, as the members allege, that paper has been guilty of not reporting its proceedings correctly, and also object to criticism.—The Journal's Shenandoah Correspondence.
