THE VACANCIES FILLED!

MEETING OF THE SCHOOL BOARD LAST NIGHT.

ELECTION OF TWO NEW TEACHERS

Miss McGuinness and Richard McHale Added to the Corps to Make up the Number Reduced by Resignations.

The board at once proceeded to elect two new teachers.

All the Democratic members of the board were present, while only Messrs. Treasle, Beddall and Gable were on hand to represent the minority members.

The applications of the following named teachers were then read: Misses Annie L. Williams, Jennie Gunter, Gertrude R. Hess, Mary E. McGuinness, Nellie L. O'Hara and Mr. Richard A. McHale, who is teacher in one of the local night schools.

The Democratic members had evidently held a caucus and agreed upon the teachers they would vote for, while the three minority members were divided. It was reported that the Republican members had a chance to make a deal before the meeting was held, but they refused to comply with a condition providing for the promotion of one of the teachers.

When the roll was called Messrs. Conry, Hanna, O'Hara, Lynch, Brennan, Burke, Gallagher and Muldoon cast their eight votes for Miss McGuinness and Mr. McHale and they were declared elected.

Messrs. Beddall and Gable voted for Misses Hess and Williams, while Mr. Treasle cast his votes for Misses Gunter and O'Hara.

After the result was announced Mr. Beddall moved that the placing of teachers to fill the two vacancies be left in the hands of the superintendent. Mr. Gable seconded the motion, but Chairman Conry declared it out of order on the ground that the rules of the board made such a provision. Mr. Beddall insisted upon his motion, and the result was that he, the chairman and Mr. O'Hara had a little exchange of words, which was ended before it grew warm by a motion to adjourn.

The office of Superintendent Freeman reflects the excellent exhibit made by our schools at the recent county institute. The walls are covered with handsome and skilled drawings of the pupils and they were much admired by those who attended the meeting last night.

Superintendent Freeman in conversation with a HERALD reporter after the meeting said, in order to facilitate the work of filling the vacancies justly and properly, he would like to have all candidates for promotion see him personally and present their respective claims. He says the positions will be filled on the basis of merit, term of service, and the best interest of the schools, and regardless of all other considerations.

He was a single man and had only been in this country a few weeks.

"GOD'S GIFT TO MAN."

Rev. Powlek's Christmas Sermon to the M. E. Congregation.

The sermons on Sunday in the M. E. church were delivered with special reference to Christmas. The morning subject was "God's Gift to Man," Luke 2:10-11—"Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people." The thoughtful reader is impressed with the extreme simplicity and brevity with which the sacred writers deal with the most important truths. The account we have of the most important event of the ages is compressed into a few short paragraphs which can be read in a few moments. Divine truth wins its way by no human artifice but by its own inherent power.

The apocryphal gospels are full of details which have been invented by men with a view of ministering to human curiosity. But it is characteristic of the true word of God to touch salient points with sufficient fulness to answer our practical needs while at the same time giving ample scope for the exercise of faith. The birth of Jesus was the realization of the world's expectations. No sooner were our first parents driven from Eden than a Saviour was promised. The ever expanding stream of prophecy awakened an expectation among the chosen race, which was communicated to the surrounding nations, that a great deliverer was soon to arise. Consequently the shepherds were not surprised at the announcement, nor were the wise men from the far east, nor was Herod. It was no more than they expected. Why then did they not receive Him? Because of the ignominious manner in which he came. But did not their prophets say that he should be without form or comeliness? Yes, but they also spoke of him as a king.

No doubt much of the perplexity concerning His Messiahship resulted from the inability of His age to grasp the thought of a kingdom founded and administered on principles of love. The deliverer they expected was one that should deliver them from the slavery of Rome, and they were disappointed to find that He scarcely alluded to it. It was the slavery of sin that He came to end. Many people thought, as they still think, that the only way to remove an evil is to openly attack it and administer immediate and positive relief. But such was not the Saviour's plan concerning many of the evils which afflicted the race. He educated the conscience, created better impulses, awakened loftier desires, and furnished the conditions under which men were enabled in a certain sense to themselves remove the evils from which they suffered. Thus, while Jesus did not meet the views of the ruling classes, He did supply the deepest needs of all classes. He traced all their evil up to sin and then proposed to destroy sin—"to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself." This was the import of the "good tidings." Wherever the gospel is preached in its purity there civil and religious liberty is enjoyed. We owe all our blessings to the event we celebrate. While to many Christmas is a season of dissipation and debauchery let us profit by turning our thought from the festivities of the season long enough to reflect seriously upon the unspesakable gift of God—the author of every good and perfect gift.

Skin Diseases.

What spectacle is more disgusting than that of a man or woman with a skin disease which shows itself in pimples or blotches on hands, arms, face and neck? It is simply impure blood. See what Brandreth's Pills did for a chronic case:

George Chapman, Pinesburg, Mich., says: "For four years I was in the Mounted Infantry in the U. S. Army, residing during that time principally in Texas. Almost all of that time I had a chronic skin disease, characterized by an eruption over the entire surface of my legs and thighs, arms and chest. The doctors termed it eczema. I had given up all hopes of ever being cured, when Brandreth's Pills were recommended to me. I concluded to try them, and I have thanked God daily since then that I did so. I used them for about three months, and by that time I was completely cured and have never had any trouble since."

Canvass Blocked.

P. J. Ferguson fell into a humorous spirit on Christmas day. He learned that one of his brothers-in-law had ordered some canvass-back ducks from a distant point and they were to have been delivered here in time for Christmas dinner, but failed to arrive. P. J. concluded that he would reduce the disappointment and sent a box to the brother-in-law. The box arrived at the house at dinner time, by express, and C. O. D. It was receipted and paid for, and then opened. A duck with a piece of canvass fastened to its back was pulled out and the box that was upon the receiver's face caused the dead duck to quack a most comical quack imaginable.

BRUTALLY ASSAULTED!

A MINER ALMOST BEATEN TO DEATH.

ATTACKED WITHOUT WARNING.

He Recognized His Assailant, but the Man Made his Escape After Being Warned by a Woman.

BRUTAL assault was committed last night upon a German miner named Michael Heveron at the south end of Main street and the man was so badly beaten that it was at first feared he would die. He was beaten and kicked into insensibility and his face was horribly bruised and swollen. The interference of some miners who happened upon the scene on their way home alone saved the man from being killed outright.

Heveron says that he identified his assailant as one Steve Chesock, a Hungarian residing in Smith's row, at the South end of Main street. He was obliged to pass the row on his way home and met Chesock who attacked him without warning. He was first struck on the head with some instrument, and then repeatedly struck and kicked.

Complaint was made to Squire Monaghan, who placed a warrant in the hands of Constable Toomey and Special Officer Michael Heaton. A woman learned that Chesock was being sought and she warned the man. He threw up his work on the platform at Shenandoah City colliery and disappeared.

ORE'S OBSERVATIONS.

What He Sees and Hears During His Travels.

It may not be surprising to some to hear that Dan Bradley, the only Dan of the First ward, has again gone down to the county jail. Poor Dan! He bears a hard reputation, but there are good many who give credit for being a good worker and a pretty good sort of a fellow when he leaves drink alone. He is unknown by but few in this town and the county seat and when he walked into the Warden's office on Tuesday he was hailed on all sides with a familiar "Hello, Dan! back again!" It is but a short time since he was released. He returned to town with a determination to reform, but whiskey got hold of him again and when his funds ran low he stole an iron pot to get drink. Constable Toomey arrested Dan and the Polish woman who bought the pot from him. The woman was held for receiving stolen goods. When Dan was going to jail he said he would try to help the woman out of the case, as she did not know he had stolen the pot. There are two other cases against Dan for stealing a wash boiler and some blankets, but the losers refuse to prosecute.

A young lady of town had a narrow escape from being severely burned the other evening. She is a sufferer from rheumatism and of late has been obliged to have her limbs wrapped in an abundance of cotton. On the evening referred to a gentleman who had called to see her, after lighting his cigar, tried to throw the burning match into the stove, but it missed and bounded back in such a manner as to set on fire the cotton badges on the young woman's limbs. Fortunately the fire was speedily extinguished, but both the young lady and the young man were slightly burned in putting out the fire.

About the only class of business in town that has not had a Polish or Hungarian proprietor in the sewing machine business, but now that exception is done away with by the establishment of a Polish agency in the First ward.

A circle of young people of town are hoping for a heavy fall of snow to cooperate with the cold weather and give them a chance for a straw ride and a skating carnival at Lakeside. Such an event with permission to participate extended to others who might wish to go would prove one of the most enjoyable events of the year.

A gentleman of town informs me that Rev. S. Hancock who so successfully conducted the affairs of the Primitive Methodist church of town a few years ago, and who is now at Newcast, has abandoned his old life and sought the Methodist Episcopal fold.

It now appears that the full time order announced to the employees of the P. & R. C. & I. Co. Monday night was the result of an error. I am informed that the order was to begin work full Tuesday morning and in transmitting it the word "full" was construed to mean full time, whereas it meant that the bosses should have their men out in full force.

The present travel on the electric railway is remarkably good in view of the present severe cold weather and the absence of car-stoves. When the cars are heated the business of the road in winter will undoubtedly be equal to that of ordinary summer travel. It is only a question of a short time when the methods for heating by electricity will be perfected for use on all electric roads.

Rentals of houses in town have taken a tremendous boom lately and if they keep going up at the same ratio they have the past few months we will have to import some millionaires to occupy them. Yesterday I was informed that a property owner who had just finished some new houses asks $25 per month rent for them and bases the price on the fact that they are heated by steam. The people in the town who can afford to pay that much rent are by no means numerous and I would advise the builders not to forget the old maxim, "Small profits, large sales," or they may some day find a row of white elephants on their hands. There is no disputing the fact that there is need of more commodious and modern dwellings in town, but there is a danger of giving us too much of a good thing and to avoid this danger a weather eye should be kept on the prices.
