THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY.
A Few Suggestions on Its Relations to Lakeside.
The new plan for the crossing at No. 5 arrived yesterday.
President Bailey, of the Traction Company, is delighted with the future prospects of the road and holders of stock will find before long that they have gilt-edged securities. It is now almost certain that Lakeside will be connected with Mahanoy City by electricity. The Traction Company will find that the number of people who visit this popular resort every summer will pay them handsomely. Besides, if the route will be by way of Park Place and Delano, it will give the company a good permanent additional revenue.
The traffic to Lakeside will be more than trebled if the electric road is extended to that point. That is as certain as the sun rises and sets, because it was only the want of better railway facilities that prevented the resort from being crowded every day last summer. With electric railway accommodations people will be able to go and leave the resort every 15 or 20 minutes.
Such an extension of the electric railway will be killing two birds with one stone, as big dividends will be earned for the road and the Lakeside properties will be almost doubled in value. See? And Lakeside would be an assured permanent investment. With such an avenue for traffic opened little trouble would be experienced in selling lots on a part of the property which has been set aside for the erection of cottages and other buildings next to summer. A prettier, healthier, or more convenient place could not be found, and there is no reason why the people should not be given the full benefit of it by being afforded cheaper and more convenient railway facilities.
There is another thing that troubles our people and the cause should be removed as soon as possible. That is the extension of the electric road from this town to Mahanoy City. Of course the merchants of the latter place don't want this, but there are two sides to the story, and Mahanoy City's objection is no reason why it should not be constructed. Our merchants have an excellent claim for accommodation from the railway company. With a complete circuit—Shenandoah to Locust Dale (covering Wm. Penn, Lost Creek, Girardville and Ashland) and from Girardville to Mahanoy City (covering Mahanoy Plains, Gillisport and St. Nicholas) and thence back to Shenandoah, the people will be given fair play all around and they will be able to ride to and trolle where they may feel inclined.
The name of N. H. Doves' still lives, although he has been dead many years. His Elixir for the cure of coughs and colds has already outlived him a quarter of a century and is still growing in favor with the public.

LAMB ANSWERS.
The "Herald" Cheerfully Offers Him Space to Squall.
SHENANDOAH, January 11, 1893.
H. C. Boyer, Esq.
DEAR SIR:—Will you allow the enclosed answer to questions put to me by the local editor of the HERALD in its issue of yesterday, to appear this evening in your paper, if you will, do not abbreviate it in any particular but publish as it is, if you do not feel disposed to publish, will you kindly return to me and oblige
Yours Truly,
A. B. LAMB.
Local Editor Herald, W. J. Watkins:

DEAR SIR:—In your issue of last evening you ask me why the Council allowed me to act as secretary in the absence of the regular officer, if, as Council claims, you have been deliberately lying for the past two years in the reports of proceedings of that body published in the HERALD. My answer is, it was by the request of the regular secretary, Mr. Coakley, that you were allowed to act in that capacity. 2nd, Council had the privilege of examining, correcting or rejecting any, or all of your notes of proceedings if they seen fit before they became a part of the records of that body, and not because we had any faith in your honesty. Now, Mr. Watkins, will you kindly allow me to give you a poser (as you term it). If, as you say, you have always reported the proceedings of that body correctly why not take the hint thrown out by the Shamokin Herald and bring suit for damages. You now have a chance to vindicate yourself. I, as one of the Council, am willing this to be the test. THE HERALD file and the Borough Council minutes. I am sorry to be compelled to inflict further upon a patient and long suffering public and my only reason for this additional affliction is you have requested me to answer and I am so constituted as to be unable to refuse a request. Hoping I have answered your question fully and to your satisfaction, I remain, your obedient and very humble servant.
A. B. LAMB.
Shenandoah, January 10, 1893.
[It is with pleasure we publish Mr. Lamb's answer and we take this opportunity to state this is the first time he has asked for the privilege of being heard through the columns of the HERALD outside of one occasion when he put in an announcement of himself as a candidate for office. We publish his letter as we would that of any other citizen and have always stood ready to grant him a like privilege. As to the answer we are perfectly satisfied to let it go before the public for careful inspection. We do not think that his statements are such as reflect credit on the Councilmen. Mr. Coakley's request was no excuse for allowing an alleged dishonest substitute to take his place and if Council risked a record of its proceedings on any occasion to total rejection, it acted falsely to itself and the people it represents, for the borough record is intended as an archive of all the proceedings of Council and when not made by the secretary or proper substitute the entry is not a record. Mr. Lamb need not worry over law suits. He will probably recall the old saw, "Borne was not built in a day," and if he will be patient he may yet be amply satisfied in that connection. By the way, the columns of the HERALD are still open to Mr. Lamb, and it might interest the readers of the paper if he would furnish a sworn itemized statement of his recent bill to Council for expenses in going to Pottsville two days. The reasons why the alleged illegal bill of ten dollars was paid by Council at its last meeting might also prove interesting.—Ed.]

Indefensible Position.
The Shenandoah Borough Council has placed itself in an utterly indefensible position by its action in excluding the representative of the HERALD from its chamber during sessions. Even were the statements that the reporter has willfully misrepresented proceedings correct it would still be questionable. Brother Watkins made a mistake in demanding the right to a seat as a citizen. He should have claimed it as the representative of the press and he would in the end have won the victory on that ground. The right of the press to report public proceedings cannot be denied.—Parker's Tr-Week.

GETTING INTO LINE!
THE DEMOCRATS MAKE THEIR FIRST MOVE.
HIGGINS AGAIN A CANDIDATE.
The Standing Committee of the Party Decide to Make Candidates To the Scratch in Money Matters This Year.

THE Democratic Standing Committee held a meeting at the Scheify House last night. H. J. Muldoon acted as chairman and J. K. P. Scheify as secretary. There was a large attendance of candidates for office, among them John F. Higgins, who announced that in view of the fact that he had received the last duplicate so late he had decided to again come before the people for re-election as Receiver of Taxes. Mr. Higgins' remarks were well received and the sentiment that prevailed indicated that he will again receive the united support of his party.
The committee was frank in stating to the candidates that the matters relating to the election would be conducted on a business basis and that those who intended running for office would have to toe the scratch in a business-like manner, that is to say each candidate would be required to pay an assessment of two dollars in advance to defray the expenses of the campaign. This was agreed to and the committee adopted a motion to that effect.
The committee discussed several propositions for holding the Democratic primaries and finally decided that the five wards hold their primaries on the one night, Tuesday, the 24th inst.
A new rule relating to the manner of conducting the primaries was also adopted. It provides that wherever there is a contest voting shall be done by ballot, and not by "scratching," as has been the custom in the past. Under the rule it is also provided that one ballot will make all nominations after the conferees are elected.
The conferees will meet in the Council chamber on the evening of the 25th inst., to nominate a borough ticket.

COMING SPRING ELECTION.
Many of the Politicians are Working in the Dark.
This neck of the woods is full of candidates for the various offices to be voted for next month. Very few are bold enough to make their intentions known, while the great majority are busy with little schemes of their own, expecting to secure nominations by combining with this or that party. If a man is worthy of office he should not feel ashamed or afraid to make his candidacy known to the public. The man who lies low until the last moment and then jumps up and sweep everything before him is not always the man who first reaches the post-nominal tree.
Unfortunately the worthy class of our citizens hesitate to become candidates for public office and they must be smoked out of their holes before they will consent to run. Meanwhile the unworthy class get in their work and fill the responsible offices.
This year there should be a general cleaning out of the Augean stables. People who wish to go to Council or the School Board to serve their own interests should be left to seek gain in other quarters. There are already too many of that kind holding down seats in both those bodies.
Good men are scarce, but there are enough for all purposes if the people will look for them.

REV. POWICK'S SERMON.
Synopsis of His Discourse in the Methodist Episcopal Church.
The sermon in the Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday evening was from I Chron. 29: 5: "Who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord?" It is David who asks the question. He had resolved to build a temple to the most high. But having been a man of war God refused him the honor and reserved it for Solomon, his son. He began, however, to make the necessary preparations and to gather the materials. He gathered the congregation and recited his plans and announced his own gifts of gold and silver and precious stones and then called upon the people for the consecration of service. Service is a stronger test of love than gold. He who gives gold gives what is not his own but God's.
The consecration of service is the outgathering of one's inmost selfhood. To contribute money to the poor is a good thing, but to visit them and inquire into their wants first of all, is a better. The first may involve no real sacrifice. A city missionary in the slums of London found a dying woman in a garret at the top of a rickety staircase. She found some one who had preceded her with a Bible and words of prayer and consolation. Upon inquiry she found it was the great Gladstone. He might easily have sent a messenger but he prepared to lay aside for the moment the affairs of state and visit her in person. Such deeds entitle him to be called "The grand old man." I spoke this morning on the consecration of money. But what God needs most of all and what the church and the world is most of all languishing for is the "consecration of service." We too often measure our service and sacrifice by those of others, thus comparing ourselves with some that commend themselves." This is wrong. We are to love the Lord our God with our whole heart, soul, mind and strength—and with somebody else's heart, soul, mind and strength. I am to serve Him with all my powers and not yours; you are to serve Him with all your powers, not mine.
And then we often underestimate God's ability to use us. We sometimes think we are so incapable and unworthy that our efforts would be in vain. This is dishonoring to God who "hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the mighty." Whenever we see work for God which needs to be done we ought to regard that as a call from God to do it ourselves. What the church needs and what the world needs is not richer endowments and more astonishing instrumentalities but the complete consecration of what we already have. It is "not by might or by power but by my spirit with the Lord. God can save by many and by few. He would just as soon honor the labors of the obscure disciple as those of the world-renowned Moody. He is no respecter of persons, the trouble is we too often pray that He will bless our efforts and then put forth no effort so that when the blessing falls it is nothing. Let the people co-operate with their pastors and use the influence at hand as they do when the effort is greater and the results would be far greater. It is faith in God and in His promises nor in sermons nor in preachers. So do not think God is unable to bless service for the promotion of His glory and for other things fatal to acceptable service. An effort which is too often made to serve God and the devil. God demands our undivided service. You cannot serve both God and Mammon. If we have a willing hand and a thoughtful mind we shall see a thousand opportunities of usefulness where the careless and indifferent can see nothing but blank walls. The most essential thing to consecrate ourselves to God. "I seek not yours but you." When we give up ourselves there will be no difficulty about service. It irresistibly follows that the explanations of the half-hearted service, of which we see so much, is to be found in a half-hearted consecration of self.

Thanks, Fellow Citizens.
TO THE BOROUGH COUNCIL:—We believe the time has now come when it is high time to call a halt. For shame, gentlemen! You certainly must remember that you are the public servants and not bosses. If the assertion made by Mr. Lamb is true—that he has been misrepresenting them, why didn't you, the Councilmen, make upon the Methodist reporter compare notes with the borough secretary's record of that day and, if you found the reporter's account incorrect, demand that the reporter set Mr. Lamb right before the public in the next issue of the HERALD. Two wrongs will not make one right and the placing of Reporter Watkins under arrest and demanding him to retire at your last meeting was a lasting disgrace to the people you represent. All good citizens will agree with me that your hasty action was a deliberate insult to the American press and a gag upon the franchise granted every American citizen.
