THE salary of the President of the United States is $50,000 a year. It is a big sum, to be sure, but a mere bagatelle compared with the salaries paid some of the scious of royalty in Europe. The Prince of this, or the Duke of that, whose entire domain does not exceed in size one of our Peansylvania counties, receives twice and sometimes torice, the salary of the President of this great country. The people are, of course, taxed to meet such demands upon their purses or property, and the wonder is that they do not rebel. But they appear to have become accustomed to it and bence "grin and bear it," though it must be evident that they are so circumstaneed that they have no afternative but to submit.

Within a few days after the reception of the nomination the opposition began to develop in the shape of various more or less vague charges touching the business integrity of the nominee.

Yesterday the Senate went into excon-tive session with a determination on the part of the Republican Senators to secure the confirmation of the nomination before idjournmeni.

The case was in charge of Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, who, in behalf of the Judiciary Committee, moved that the nomination be confirmed. The opposition, however, desired to be heard, and was heard at length. More than four hours were consumed in the debate.

The opposition to the nomines in the Senate was based almost cutively upon the ground that Mr. McComas was not a esident of the District.

When it came to a vote there was no attempt to filiovster, and the result was decisive, the vote standing 34 for confirmation to 13 for the opposition
