Two cattle ranges in Arizona are said to be in splendid condition, but that is more than can be said of those farther north, where the ground is covered with snow and the cold fearfully intense. Another paragraph says; "Strawberries were sold in Piorida at Gainesville last week." No doubt they were, but these who have tasked the first e-op of that fruit in Piorida will agree with us that it is not of the toothsome kind, and that rather than pay the exorbitant price demanded for the little sour green berries they would prefer to wait until Delaware and Jersey turn in their season's product.

HEART FAILURE is the maindy, if malady it can be called, of which a great many people are now dying, especially those advanced in years. It is only within a comparatvely short time that such a thing as 'heart failure" was known to the faculty. Of of the and event. course the functions of all hearts Mrs. Blaine, pointed out that the custom many deaths from this so called all-ment seems a little strange. A few years ago when teople were not secense with death, but that there are so years ago when people were not seriously indisposed, "It is malaria" was an almost universal reply to the upon the death of ex-President Hayes should be placed upon the building of the question "West alls you?" had failed to object. It needed no further debate, for the reasons for such law are universally admitted. But Mr. Kilgore, having no other mode of distinguishing himself except now and then by kicking out the panel of a door like any other Texas steer whose bringing up has been defective, found voice to object. Strange to say, one unruly steer has more sand than three hundred odd members of the House.

This is simply shameful. A body elested and paid generously to legislate for the biggest country in the world brought to bay by a single member! How! Well, under the Demoeratic rule of How Not To Do It, one man, seconded by a short row of nobodies, can block the wheels of legislation. The Senate is no better. One disciple of Blab can talk a nation into will be red codar, which will be covered its winding sheet in the Sconte, and with black cloth, and on the inside the one steer can kick up such a dust in the House as to stop all business.

We wish it could be hoped that the Bankruptey bill is likely to become a law before adjournment. It offers a premium on honor and honesty. Texas may not take an interest in either, though it keeps some honest menut home. It should send some of them to Congress. It would be a sort of glad surprise,- North American.

TRIBUTES OF RESPECT.

How Elaine Was Begarded by Cabinet Associates and Others of Prominence.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The affection and esteem in which Mr. Blaine was held is clearly shown by the many tributes of regard paid him. Secretary of State Foster said:

"Others of his friends are more competent to speak of Mr. Blaine's services and genius in Congress, in politics and in literature. In diplomacy his cinef char-acteriatic was his exalted Americanism. He was a thorough believer in the Monroe doctrine and the reciprocity policy which distinguished the close of his public career was an outgrowth of his convictions respecting that doctrine.

"His diplomatic correspondence will rank among the best of his political productions. His reputation abroad will mainly rest upon his acts as Secretary of State, and it is not an exaggeration to say that in the past ten years as least be bas been the best known American in foreign lands."

Secretary of the Treasury Foster: "I first new Mr. Blaine when he became a member of the Forty-Second Congress and during his six years' service as Speaker of the House of Representatives. At that time be was in full health and a magnificent specimen, both physically and mentally, of mature manhood.

"As Speaker, he was the absolute dictator of the proceedings of the House, enjoying more fully the respect and confidence of the members than perhaps any other Spenker, with, perhaps, the excepother Spenker, with, perhaps, the excep-tion of Henry Clay, whose career Mr. Bialne's so much resembles.

"His fame is world-wide. His personal popularity and his hold upon the popular affection was not confined to his own party. His death will be sincerely Attorney-General Miller: "It is easattorney-general affect. It is customary to speak of one who, being elected to the Vice-Presidency, becomes President, as an accidental President. With reference to Mr. Blaine it may be truly said that his failure to be President. was an accident. The desire of a vain old gentleman, by alliteration, to make a striking sentence defeated the worth ambition of a lifetime, and in no sma degree changed the direction of public af-richly endowed by nature with all those qualities that make a great statesman."

Secretary Noble: "James G. Blaine died within three days of the 65d anniversary of his birthday, and little less than 30 years from the time be entered Congress on the first Monday in December, 1363.

"During this long and most eventful period he held the attention and commanded the respect of his countrymen

manded the respect of his countrymen to a most extraordinary degree—more, I think, than any other political leader save Lincoln and Clay.

"Blaine was an American Thoroughly and invariably he loved our country and its institutions. His death will be greatly lamented and the whole nation will do his memory honor. His critics will not be in this country," Secretary Elkins: "Mr. Blaine was a wonderful man and wonderfully gifted.

He was one of the greatest statestien and political leaders the country has produced and the most conspicuous leader of his time. "His central over men, his power to unneitish support, was beyond that of any other party leader in the history of the country. His loss will be widely felt and country. His loss will be widely felt and mourned, but his life will be a continuing

The production of such a great work is so short a time, so just and discriminating. short a time, so just and discriminating, short a time, so just and discriminating, so fair to contemporaries and to all, so thoroughly authentic and reliable, stands in the history of literature unparalelled. "Without distinction of party his death will be mouried as a great loss to the
